DEBRIS SIGHTED BY SHIP HUNTERS

Carlsen Steps Ashore To Roaring Welcome

"Odds Against Me," Skipper Says

FALMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 11 (AP)—A tired little sailor in borrowed clothes, Capt. Kurt Carlsen stepped ashore a hero today after losing a gruelling fight to save his Flying Enterprise from Atlantic gales. Humbly, he said: "The odds were against me."

The dauntless skipper—20 days out of Hamburg on a voyage that ended his first shipwreck—landed at the Prince of Wales pier in this small Cornish port with Mate Kenneth Dancy of the British tug Turmoil, who rode the hurricane-cracked freighter with him for the final week of a two-week epic.

The Enterprise plunged to the bottom yesterday.

Skipper Wears Beret

Instead of a maritime cap, he wore a beret over his brown hair. The beard he grew on the Enterprise had been shaved off. Under a borrowed black raincoat which was too big for him, Carlsen wore a white shirt and a black tie, also given to him aboard the Turmoil.

His worst moment?

"It was the moment that the Flying Enterprise disappeared below the sea," Carlsen said. "I hurt for quite a bit."

His brightest moment?

That, he said, came when Dancy stepped from the pitching Turmoil to the deck of the Enterprise last Friday—after Carlsen had spent six days and nights alone—and "shake hands."

Duty To Stay Aboard

Why did he stay aboard his ship, listing heavily from a beating in the worst North Atlantic storm in 50 years, after his crew of 40 and 10 passengers were rescued?

It was his duty, said the 37-year-old Carlsen.

And what finally caused him to decide his ship was doomed and to give up his tremendous struggle against the sea?

New York Plans Reception

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP) — A ticker-tape reception, New York City's traditional welcome for heroes, will be given Capt. Kurt Carlsen, skipper of the ill-fated freighter Flying Enterprise.

With it will go a parade up lower Broadway to City Hall, preceded by a harbor welcome of whistle-blowing ships and tugs and fireboats playing streams of water into the air.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said arrangements were in charge of Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the mayor's reception committee for distinguished guests.

REFUSES MEDAL — Halsey McGovern, Washington, D. C., traffic consultant, talks to newsmen at his home discussing his refusal yesterday to accept a Medal of Honor awarded one son, Lt. Robert McGovern, and a Silver Star, awarded to another, Lt. Jerome McGovern, both of whom were killed in Korea. McGovern said he feels President Truman is unworthy to bestow the honor. Spanish Police Protect U. S. Envoy From Red Plotters

MADRID, Jan. 11 (AP)—Government and embassy sources disclosed today that Spain took extraordinary police precautions to protect U. S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis from a reported Communist assassination plot when he and an American Navy squadron visited Valencia yesterday.

Ambassador Griffis himself carried a big army pistol in his pocket to cope with the plotters if necessary.

Griffis, confirming the reports of a plot against his life, said the embassy learned of it two weeks ago from an anonymous tipster.

"There was absolutely no doubt," Griffis said, that it was Communist-inspired."

Legion Will Sponsor Religion Movement

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—The American Legion plans to sponsor a nationwide religious movement to bring about a spiritual reawakening of Americans.

National Commander Donald R. Wilson urged each Legion post and auxiliary to take the initiative in its community. The program will emphasize church attendance and prayer and religious training of young people.

The movement will start Sunday, Feb. 3.

Model Of Atom Gun Displayed To Legislators

Showing Marked By Tight Secrecy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A small model of an artillery gun designed to fire shells with atomic warheads was displayed today to the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Tight secrecy surrounded the showing, which took place behind closed doors. But from past official statements it could be inferred that the weapon has already been tested, although perhaps not with an atomic shell.

It was Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint committee, who described the model as that of a gun "designed to handle atomic shells." McMahon declined to say whether it was a small-scale model of a gun already in existence, or made from blueprints of one not yet built.

Gen. Collins Is Quoted

However, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said last month that atomic artillery "has been tested as a weapon."

Officials have said the U. S. has ready for use tactical atomic weapons which could be used against troops in the field. But that description might cover smaller a-bombs, artillery shells, guided missiles or possibly radioactive dust.

Relatively small a-bombs are known to have been tested, and display of the model artillery weapon—along with Collins' comments—indicates that artillery shells are also about ready for possible use.

Collins said on Dec. 6 that they would be ready in the "not too distant" future. He said he did not want to say how soon it would be practicable to put them to use "because, needless to say, any potential enemy would like to have that information."

Atomic Picture Reviewed

The Senate-House committee examined and discussed the gun model during a review of the whole atomic energy picture at its first session of the new Congress.

McMahon said the group reviewed, among other things, progress made toward development of the awesome hydrogen bomb. Asked if the committee was satisfied, he replied:

"It is not the business of this committee to be satisfied. We are a watchdog committee and a watchdog should always growl."

Pacific Powers' Military Chiefs End Conference

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A high-level conference called to map strategy in case Red China tried to turn Indochina into another Korea ended tonight in an atmosphere of deep secrecy.

No statement was issued as the military chiefs of the major Pacific powers concluded their deliberations.

The only words that had emerged from the conference room all day expressed grief at the death in Paris of French Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, best known fighter against communism in Indochina.

Word of his passing at the age of 61 was received by the conferees as they faced up to the major issue before them: What will the U. S., Britain and the other nations with high stakes in Southeast Asia do if Red China invades Indochina?

Lines Of Approach Indicated

The only official guidance about the purpose and scope of the high level session came in the Churchill-Truman communique earlier this week. The statement said the military leaders would consider specific measures to strengthen the security of Southeast Asia.

Although none of the participating nations—the U. S., Britain, France, Australia, Canada and New Zealand, have publicly framed solutions to the Indochina question, diplomatic sources indicated these lines of approach:

No sensational solution may be expected. The U. S., Britain and the British commonwealth representatives probably will recommend to their political superiors prompt and energetic support for any French appeal to the United Nations in the event of an invasion in Indochina.

May Tie In With Treaties

The deliberations may also tie in with the security treaties the U. S. has concluded with Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines. These agreements are now before the Senate for ratification.

Officials said in advance of today's meeting there would also be discussion of the advisability of forming an Allied high command in the Far East. This phase of the planning was one of many given a new turn by the death of Gen. De Lattre.

French Military Genius Succumbs

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, a World War II hero whose military genius sparked the drive against the Communists in Indochina, died tonight in a Paris hospital. He was 61.

The five-star general, known as the "French MacArthur," had served as French high commissioner and military commander in chief of the French Far Eastern outpost since December, 1950.

His drive and organizing ability proved a big factor in French victories over the Communist-led Vietminh after four years of fighting that was indecisive or favored the rebels.

He also had been active in joint Western planning for defense against any possible Chinese Communist invasion of continental Southeast Asia—Indochina, Burma, Malaya and Thailand.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, informed of De Lattre's death at his SHAPE headquarters near Paris, said:

"I am deeply affected, as are all my fellow officers here at SHAPE. We have lost a precious friend, whose command of the French First Army during the Second World War, like the services he rendered later in Indochina, were always brilliant and will remain examples. France and the whole free world will feel the loss of a great chief, an unequalled personality."

Mayor Of Annapolis Dies Of Heart Attack

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 11 (AP) — Mayor Roscoe C. Rowe, apparently recovering from an operation to relieve pressure on a nerve center, died of a heart attack today at Bethesda's U. S. Medical Center. He was 67.

A successful operation was performed on a vertebra in the upper part of his spine last Wednesday and he was reported resting well yesterday.

New Tanks, In Production 8 Months, Flunk Final Test

DETROIT, Jan. 11 (AP) — The Army, it was disclosed today, has been putting together tanks at the arsenal here for eight months without their yet passing approval.

It's the new M-47, a 45-ton medium tank. A fault in its turret control system is still holding up acceptance.

Col. Glenn C. Wilhide, arsenal commander, said that he was hopeful, however, that impending new tests in California would find the tank in proper shape.

The disclosure here came in an interview as efforts were continuing in Washington to get rid of bottlenecks holding up defense production.

The M-47 was put into production without a pilot model, Col. Wilhide said. He said this was done as a "calculated risk."

Ordinarily, a pilot model is tested for defects and corrections are made before full production.

A new hydraulic device operates the M-47's turret and gun.

FORGER NABBED—George C. Spaulding, 28, Indianapolis, signs a statement admitting complicity in a check-forging operation by which 13 men obtained some $100,000 in 13 states in two years. Looking on are State Police Detectives Sgt. Edwin C. Schroder (left) and C. Howard Hyslope. Police said Clyde Isenhour, 31, a tuberculosis patient, masterminded the ring from his hospital bed.

Costello's Rights Not Infringed By TV, Judge Rules

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—A federal judge ruled today that televising of the hearings was no excuse for Racketeer Frank Costello's refusal to testify at the Senate crime probe last March.

Judge Sylvester J. Ryan made no clear-cut ruling, however, on whether a witness can refuse to testify under oath in televised hearings.

Costello, on trial on charges of contempt of the Senate, claimed he was a sick man last March and that his condition was made worse by the hubbub of the televised committee hearings. Newsreel and still cameras also interfered with Costello's physical and mental capacities, it was claimed.

He called the whole television proceedings an invasion of his constitutional rights and asked for a dismissal of the contempt charges. Earlier, the government rested its case against him.

The defense is due to open its case Monday and Defense Attorney George Wolf has said Costello may take the stand himself.

Costello was cited for contempt for twice walking out of the Kefauver hearings. He did so, Wolf claimed, because he was too ill of a sore throat to go on.

However the government offered medical testimony that Costello could have testified for a limited period without injury to his throat.

Girl Triplets Born

TORONTO, Jan. 11—Girl triplets were born today to Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Haines, who live in a one-room apartment.

Army And Marines Need Only 28,600 Draftees In March

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — The Army and Marines today called for 28,600 draftees in March — a figure far below average.

The quota, issued today by the Defense Department, includes 20,000 for the Army and 8,600 for the Marines. The Navy does not take draftees, relying on recruiting.

The department also announced that the quota for February, previously announced as 55,000 men, has been cut by 2,500. It said the reduction was possible because of increased volunteering and a change in Marine Corps recruiting plans.

The revised February draft call will include 41,000 for the Army and 11,500 for the Marines.

Brakes Put On Home Building

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—The government put the brake on home building and almost all types of civilian construction today.

Announcing a new allocation of strategic metals for the construction industry, the Defense Production Administration (DPA) said it would provide for a level of only 600,000 new home starts this year.

This is 45 per cent below the total of 1,100,000 dwellings begun last year and compared with a current starting rate of 850,000 homes a year.

DPA has the task of dividing up scarce materials between civilian and defense users. Its latest allocation of steel, copper and aluminum for civilian builders is for the quarter beginning April 1.

About 500 new schools will be started this spring, DPA said, bringing the total under construction in the country to 2,400.

Kidnaped Baby Safe; 'Desperate' Woman Is Held

MANKATO, Minn., Jan. 11 (AP)—An 18-day-old baby boy police said had been kidnaped by a childless woman "desperate" after a miscarriage, was reunited unharmed with its mother today, some 20 hours after it was snatched from its crib.

Held without charge was an auburn-haired woman who sobbed to police and newsmen that she had taken the baby after a futile effort to "buy" an illegitimate child for $300 through a barroom acquaintance.

When the acquaintance failed to bring a child to her, she drove here from nearby New Ulm. At gunpoint she took the baby boy, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Callahan, Ed Larson, New Ulm chief of police, said. The woman was identified by Chief Larson as Mrs. Leonard Scheid, 35.

Woman Relates Story

Chief Larson said Mrs. Scheid related this story before she was taken to jail in Mankato:

"After she lost her baby by miscarriage about four months ago, she got "tight" in a New Ulm bar and struck up a conversation with a woman she knew only as "Mrs Alice," from Springfield, a neighboring town.

"I told her about losing my baby. She said there are a lot of illegitimate babies born in Minneapolis that are not wanted.'"

Mrs. Scheid gave "Mrs. Alice" $10 that night and in the course of four or five later meetings gave her more than $300.

"Mrs. Alice" promised to bring a baby to Mrs. Scheid early this week, but didn't. Mrs. Scheid became "desperate."

Baby Found In Bassinet

Finally, she decided to take her husband's car and a .38 caliber pistol, and drive to Mankato, 28 miles away.

Mrs. Scheid had followed birth notices in the Mankato newspaper and noted the Callahans had had a baby boy Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Callahan, 35, said the woman appeared at their home about 1 p. m. (CST) yesterday.

About 8:30 a. m. today, one of Mrs. Scheid's neighbors called New Ulm police. A short time later Mrs. Scheid herself called.

The baby was found in a bassinet and in new baby clothes Mrs. Scheid had purchased when she was expecting her own child.

German Budestag Oks Schuman Plan

BONN, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP) — The West German Budestag, the lower house of parliament, voted today to share Ruhr coal and steel with five other European nations for the next 50 years.

Only the final approval of the Bundesrat—the upper house—is now required for German ratification of the Schuman Plan. It will pool the coal and steel resources of West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg and create—for the first time—a common European market of 155 million persons.

Approval is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Catholic and European youth movements organized torchlight processions here tonight to celebrate what Chancellor Konrad Adenauer called "a brilliant result."

Heart-Broken Father Rejects Medal Of Honor Awarded Son

Says Truman Unworthy To Bestow It

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A heart-broken father of two sons killed in Korea said today he refused to accept the Medal of Honor on the ground that President Truman is unworthy to bestow it "on my boys or anyone's boys,"

The 65-year-old father, Halsey McGovern, said he based his objection on Mr. Truman's "record" and because he doesn't believe in the idea of awards for heroism.

"Boys are dying by the thousands," McGovern told newsmen. "Perhaps some receiving awards for their gallantry did not measure up to some whose deeds went unnoticed."

The tall, white-haired father said he not only rejected the Medal of Honor awarded posthumously to one of his sons but also the Silver Star award to another.

"I don't want any part of it," he said, "if it infers that Truman is a proper party to honor these boys and other boys who died over there."

Pentagon officials said it was the first time in history—since Congress established the medal in 1861—that anyone has turned down the nation's highest award for gallantry "over and beyond the call of duty" in battle.

An Army spokesman said that regardless of the father's attitude, the son's name would go down on the honor scroll as a winner of the heroic emblem.

"The medal was not awarded to the father. It was awarded to the son in death," a spokesman said.

The son to whom the medal was awarded for "incredible valor" near Kamyangjan-Hi was First Lt. Robert H. McGovern, 23, of the First Cavalry Division.

His brother, Second Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, 21, of the Second Division, won the Silver Star for "absolute fearlessness" in leading a charge against the Chinese Communists.

Mr. Truman has said many times he would rather wear the Medal of Honor than be President.

Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn, deputy chief of Army information, indicated to newsmen that the Army may contact McGovern to see if he would agree to other arrangements for a presentation.

A brother said McGovern felt that Mr. Truman's Far East policies had led to the Korean war and that the men in combat were not given strong enough military support.

Reds Demand MSA's Repeal

MOSCOW, Saturday, Jan. 12. (AP)—The Soviet Press published today the text of a second Soviet note to the United States protesting against the mutual security act and demanding its repeal.

The Russians again charged the United States is financing subversive activities against Russia through the MSA.

The new note accused the U. S. of violating the Roosevelt-Litvinoff agreement of 1933 which established diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

It was an answer to the American reply of Dec. 20 to the original Soviet note on the subject.

(In Washington the State Department said it had rejected the new Russian protest.

Allies Demand Red Explanation For Double Talk

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP) — Korean armistice talks seemed near a showdown today with exasperated Allied negotiators demanding an explanation for Communist double-talk on the airfield issue.

The subcommittees on truce supervision and exchange of prisoners began new sessions in frigid, wind-swept Panmunjom today at 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST, Friday).

Friday's meetings were unproductive, but the Reds were told the talks on truce supervision could not continue until they explained a contradiction in their stand on building airfields during an armistice.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner sharply reminded Chinese Gen. Hsieh Fang of a Communist statement Dec. 2 to the effect "the (North) Korean people will certainly reconstruct and reinforce their airfields during the period of a military armistice . . ."

Then Turner said: "Yesterday, as well as on many previous occasions you stated, Gen. Hsieh, that our assertion that you intend to increase your military capabilities by building airfields was a misrepresentation and a slander. Which statement are we to believe?"

Hsieh insisted there had been no contradiction and added:

"Installation of facilities is an internal affair that your side has no right to look into."

In an adjoining tent, U. S. Rear Adm. R. E. Libby charged that the Reds appeared to advocate free choice of repatriating prisoners as a principle but oppose its application in regard to prisoners held by the Allies.

He asserted, also, that the Reds contend it is proper for them to "re-educate" prisoners of war but consider it "a crime against humanity" if the Allies should do it.

Five MIGs Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP) — Communist jet planes made their farthest penetration south Friday, but five of them were shot down and one was damaged in a series of five air battles.

One MIG-15 was shot down at Sariwon, and one fight was within 30 miles north of the Armistice conference site of Panmunjom.

In the past the Red planes have stayed within running distance of the Manchurian border, over which American airmen are forbidden to pursue.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Jan. 11 (AP)—Dutch Premier Willem Drees left by plane today for New York on an unofficial visit to the United States.

Aerial Search For Crewmen To Be Widened

No Trace Is Found Of 45 Or 46 Men

SEATTLE, Jan. 11 (AP) — Coast Guard planes and a search vessel tonight reported finding wreckage and debris near the last known position of the missing freighter Pennsylvania.

The report was received by Seattle district headquarters from the cutter Klamath. It said aircraft sighted debris and the Canadian weather ship Stonetown had located a hatch cover, lumber and plates 34 miles south by southeast from the Pennsylvania's last radioed message.

No survivors from the crew of 45 or 46 persons were seen.

Aircraft also have sighted 15 boxes, an oil slick and drums with yellow ends 24 miles southeast of the Pennsylvania's radioed position, the Coast Guard said.

Search To Be Intensified

The report brought intensified plans for a wider aerial and sea search tomorrow and one Coast Guard and five Navy planes will be in the vicinity at daybreak.

Previously, hopes for survival of any of the men who left the disabled freighter Wednesday evening had faded almost to nothing.

"Not a trace" was the report of fliers who came back for rest and refueling from their hazardous mission 750 miles northwest of Seattle. "Not a trace" was the report from ships that sailed back and forth across a vast area of the storm-whipped North Pacific.

The hope aroused yesterday by search ship's report of an unidentified object on its radar screen faded with the dawn. The Cygnet III radioed to the Coast Guard's search coordinating headquarters that it was only one of the search planes.

Exposure May Be Too Much

There was doubt about whether 45 or 46 men were missing. The States Steamship Company listed 46. One of the final radio messages mentioned "45 men for four boats." There was uncertainty over whether one crew member might have left the Japan-bound ship in Seattle or Vancouver or whether the radioman or Capt. George Plover of Portland, Ore., failed to include himself in the 45 figure.

Even if the seamen got safely into the lifeboats, and the boats have survived the tremendous seas, the exposure through two nights and days of saturation and cold might be more than they could survive.

Disarmament Group Created

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP) — The United Nations Assembly created a West-backed disarmament commission today. It instructed the new body to begin work quickly on proposals for the regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and all armaments in the world.

The vote was 42 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with seven countries abstaining — Argentina, Burma, Egypt, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Yemen.

Russia's foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in a final harsh blast at the Western Big Three on the disarmament proposals, attacked the commission's orders as "wishy-washy" and "vague." The grey-haired Russian, however, has agreed that his country will take its seat on the new organization and has indicated that Moscow will do everything it can to push its own arms proposals, repeatedly rejected by the majority of the U. N. members.

Fined In "Pin-Curl Battle," Parents Dumbfound Judge

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP) — Fined $10 each in Antioch's "battle of the pin curls," Mr. and Mrs. Amos Barton today dumbfounded the court by leaving five of their nine children in the care of Justice of the Peace Yates Hamm.

Mrs. Barton exclaimed, after reading a long statement: "Judge Hamm, we turn our five youngest children over to you, to be their legal guardian."

Then the Bartons left.

In his chambers Judge Hamm found the five weeping youngsters. Beside each was a carton containing that child's possessions.

Hamm said he was bewildered by the curious turn of events. He gave each child 50 cents to stem the tears, and the five were taken by Probation Officer Everett Joseph to the county juvenile home.

The trouble started when the Bartons decided they wouldn't send a 15-year-old daughter, Theola, to school because she had been sent home for attending classes with her hair in pin-curlers. The teacher said it wasn't proper attire. Officials, including the state attorney general, agreed with the teacher.

When the parents appeared in court to answer a charge of wilfully failing to send a child to school, Mrs. Barton read a 24-page statement.

It quoted the Scripture, berated school and probation departments, the Board of Education and the attorney general for "taking freedom away from parents." She said she wouldn't be "a puppet of any dictatorship."

Officials said in advance of today's meeting there would also be discussion of the advisability of forming an Allied high command in the Far East. This phase of the planning was one of many given a new turn by the death of Gen. De Lattre.

French Military Genius Succumbs

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, a World War II hero whose military genius sparked the drive against the Communists in Indochina, died tonight in a Paris hospital. He was 61.

The five-star general, known as the "French MacArthur," had served as French high commissioner and military commander in chief of the French Far Eastern outpost since December, 1950.

His drive and organizing ability proved a big factor in French victories over the Communist-led Vietminh after four years of fighting that was indecisive or favored the rebels.

He also had been active in joint Western planning for defense against any possible Chinese Communist invasion of continental Southeast Asia—Indochina, Burma, Malaya and Thailand.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, informed of De Lattre's death at his SHAPE headquarters near Paris, said:

"I am deeply affected, as are all my fellow officers here at SHAPE. We have lost a precious friend, whose command of the French First Army during the Second World War, like the services he rendered later in Indochina, were always brilliant and will remain examples. France and the whole free world will feel the loss of a great chief, an unequalled personality."

Mayor Of Annapolis Dies Of Heart Attack

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 11 (AP) — Mayor Roscoe C. Rowe, apparently recovering from an operation to relieve pressure on a nerve center, died of a heart attack today at Bethesda's U. S. Medical Center. He was 67.

A successful operation was performed on a vertebra in the upper part of his spine last Wednesday and he was reported resting well yesterday.

New Tanks, In Production 8 Months, Flunk Final Test

DETROIT, Jan. 11 (AP) — The Army, it was disclosed today, has been putting together tanks at the arsenal here for eight months without their yet passing approval.

It's the new M-47, a 45-ton medium tank. A fault in its turret control system is still holding up acceptance.

Col. Glenn C. Wilhide, arsenal commander, said that he was hopeful, however, that impending new tests in California would find the tank in proper shape.

The disclosure here came in an interview as efforts were continuing in Washington to get rid of bottlenecks holding up defense production.

The M-47 was put into production without a pilot model, Col. Wilhide said. He said this was done as a "calculated risk."

Ordinarily, a pilot model is tested for defects and corrections are made before full production.

Costello's Rights Not Infringed By TV, Judge Rules

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—A federal judge ruled today that televising of the hearings was no excuse for Racketeer Frank Costello's refusal to testify at the Senate crime probe last March.

Judge Sylvester J. Ryan made no clear-cut ruling, however, on whether a witness can refuse to testify under oath in televised hearings.

Costello, on trial on charges of contempt of the Senate, claimed he was a sick man last March and that his condition was made worse by the hubbub of the televised committee hearings. Newsreel and still cameras also interfered with Costello's physical and mental capacities, it was claimed.

He called the whole television proceedings an invasion of his constitutional rights and asked for a dismissal of the contempt charges. Earlier, the government rested its case against him.

The defense is due to open its case Monday and Defense Attorney George Wolf has said Costello may take the stand himself.

Costello was cited for contempt for twice walking out of the Kefauver hearings. He did so, Wolf claimed, because he was too ill of a sore throat to go on.

However the government offered medical testimony that Costello could have testified for a limited period without injury to his throat.

Girl Triplets Born

TORONTO, Jan. 11—Girl triplets were born today to Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Haines, who live in a one-room apartment.

Army And Marines Need Only 28,600 Draftees In March

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — The Army and Marines today called for 28,600 draftees in March — a figure far below average.

The quota, issued today by the Defense Department, includes 20,000 for the Army and 8,600 for the Marines. The Navy does not take draftees, relying on recruiting.

The department also announced that the quota for February, previously announced as 55,000 men, has been cut by 2,500. It said the reduction was possible because of increased volunteering and a change in Marine Corps recruiting plans.

The revised February draft call will include 41,000 for the Army and 11,500 for the Marines.

Brakes Put On Home Building

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—The government put the brake on home building and almost all types of civilian construction today.

Announcing a new allocation of strategic metals for the construction industry, the Defense Production Administration (DPA) said it would provide for a level of only 600,000 new home starts this year.

This is 45 per cent below the total of 1,100,000 dwellings begun last year and compared with a current starting rate of 850,000 homes a year.

DPA has the task of dividing up scarce materials between civilian and defense users. Its latest allocation of steel, copper and aluminum for civilian builders is for the quarter beginning April 1.

Heart-Broken Father Rejects Medal Of Honor Awarded Son

Says Truman Unworthy To Bestow It

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A heart-broken father of two sons killed in Korea said today he refused to accept the Medal of Honor on the ground that President Truman is unworthy to bestow it "on my boys or anyone's boys."

The 65-year-old father, Halsey McGovern, said he based his objection on Mr. Truman's "record" and because he doesn't believe in the idea of awards for heroism.

"Boys are dying by the thousands," McGovern told newsmen. "Perhaps some receiving awards for their gallantry did not measure up to some whose deeds went unnoticed."

The tall, white-haired father said he not only rejected the Medal of Honor awarded posthumously to one of his sons but also the Silver Star award to another.

"I don't want any part of it," he said, "if it infers that Truman is a proper party to honor these boys and other boys who died over there."

Pentagon officials said it was the first time in history—since Congress established the medal in 1861—that anyone has turned down the nation's highest award for gallantry "over and beyond the call of duty" in battle.

An Army spokesman said that regardless of the father's attitude, the son's name would go down on the honor scroll as a winner of the heroic emblem.

"The medal was not awarded to the father. It was awarded to the son in death," a spokesman said.

The son to whom the medal was awarded for "incredible valor" near Kamyangjan-Hi was First Lt. Robert H. McGovern, 23, of the First Cavalry Division.

His brother, Second Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, 21, of the Second Division, won the Silver Star for "absolute fearlessness" in leading a charge against the Chinese Communists.

Mr. Truman has said many times he would rather wear the Medal of Honor than be President.

Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn, deputy chief of Army information, indicated to newsmen that the Army may contact McGovern to see if he would agree to other arrangements for a presentation.

A brother said McGovern felt that Mr. Truman's Far East policies had led to the Korean war and that the men in combat were not given strong enough military support.

Kidnaped Baby Safe; 'Desperate' Woman Is Held

MANKATO, Minn., Jan. 11 (AP)—An 18-day-old baby boy police said had been kidnaped by a childless woman "desperate" after a miscarriage, was reunited unharmed with its mother today, some 20 hours after it was snatched from its crib.

Held without charge was an auburn-haired woman who sobbed to police and newsmen that she had taken the baby after a futile effort to "buy" an illegitimate child for $300 through a barroom acquaintance.

When the acquaintance failed to bring a child to her, she drove here from nearby New Ulm. At gunpoint she took the baby boy, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Callahan, Ed Larson, New Ulm chief of police, said. The woman was identified by Chief Larson as Mrs. Leonard Scheid, 35.

Woman Relates Story

Chief Larson said Mrs. Scheid related this story before she was taken to jail in Mankato:

"After she lost her baby by miscarriage about four months ago, she got "tight" in a New Ulm bar and struck up a conversation with a woman she knew only as "Mrs Alice," from Springfield, a neighboring town.

"I told her about losing my baby. She said there are a lot of illegitimate babies born in Minneapolis that are not wanted.'"

Mrs. Scheid gave "Mrs. Alice" $10 that night and in the course of four or five later meetings gave her more than $300.

"Mrs. Alice" promised to bring a baby to Mrs. Scheid early this week, but didn't. Mrs. Scheid became "desperate."

Baby Found In Bassinet

Finally, she decided to take her husband's car and a .38 caliber pistol, and drive to Mankato, 28 miles away.

Mrs. Scheid had followed birth notices in the Mankato newspaper and noted the Callahans had had a baby boy Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Callahan, 35, said the woman appeared at their home about 1 p. m. (CST) yesterday.

About 8:30 a. m. today, one of Mrs. Scheid's neighbors called New Ulm police. A short time later Mrs. Scheid herself called.

The baby was found in a bassinet and in new baby clothes Mrs. Scheid had purchased when she was expecting her own child.

German Budestag Oks Schuman Plan

BONN, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP) — The West German Budestag, the lower house of parliament, voted today to share Ruhr coal and steel with five other European nations for the next 50 years.

Only the final approval of the Bundesrat—the upper house—is now required for German ratification of the Schuman Plan. It will pool the coal and steel resources of West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg and create—for the first time—a common European market of 155 million persons.

Approval is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Reds Demand MSA's Repeal

MOSCOW, Saturday, Jan. 12. (AP) —The Soviet Press published today the text of a second Soviet note to the United States protesting against the mutual security act and demanding its repeal.

The Russians again charged the United States is financing subversive activities against Russia through the MSA.

The new note accused the U. S. of violating the Roosevelt-Litvinoff agreement of 1933 which established diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

It was an answer to the American reply of Dec. 20 to the original Soviet note on the subject.

(In Washington the State Department said it had rejected the new Russian protest.

Allies Demand Red Explanation For Double Talk

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP) — Korean armistice talks seemed near a showdown today with exasperated Allied negotiators demanding an explanation for Communist double-talk on the airfield issue.

The subcommittees on truce supervision and exchange of prisoners began new sessions in frigid, wind-swept Panmunjom today at 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST, Friday).

Friday's meetings were unproductive, but the Reds were told the talks on truce supervision could not continue until they explained a contradiction in their stand on building airfields during an armistice.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner sharply reminded Chinese Gen. Hsieh Fang of a Communist statement Dec. 2 to the effect "the (North) Korean people will certainly reconstruct and reinforce their airfields during the period of a military armistice . . ."

Then Turner said: "Yesterday, as well as on many previous occasions you stated, Gen. Hsieh, that our assertion that you intend to increase your military capabilities by building airfields was a misrepresentation and a slander. Which statement are we to believe?"

Hsieh insisted there had been no contradiction and added:

"Installation of facilities is an internal affair that your side has no right to look into."

In an adjoining tent, U. S. Rear Adm. R. E. Libby charged that the Reds appeared to advocate free choice of repatriating prisoners as a principle but oppose its application in regard to prisoners held by the Allies.

He asserted, also, that the Reds contend it is proper for them to "re-educate" prisoners of war but consider it "a crime against humanity" if the Allies should do it.

Five MIGs Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP) — Communist jet planes made their farthest penetration south Friday, but five of them were shot down and one was damaged in a series of five air battles.

One MIG-15 was shot down at Sariwon, and one fight was within 30 miles north of the Armistice conference site of Panmunjom.

In the past the Red planes have stayed within running distance of the Manchurian border, over which American airmen are forbidden to pursue.

Aerial Search For Crewmen To Be Widened

No Trace Is Found Of 45 Or 46 Men

SEATTLE, Jan. 11 (AP) — Coast Guard planes and a search vessel tonight reported finding wreckage and debris near the last known position of the missing freighter Pennsylvania.

The report was received by Seattle district headquarters from the cutter Klamath. It said aircraft sighted debris and the Canadian weather ship Stonetown had located a hatch cover, lumber and plates 34 miles south by southeast from the Pennsylvania's last radioed message.

No survivors from the crew of 45 or 46 persons were seen.

Aircraft also have sighted 15 boxes, an oil slick and drums with yellow ends 24 miles southeast of the Pennsylvania's radioed position, the Coast Guard said.

Search To Be Intensified

The report brought intensified plans for a wider aerial and sea search tomorrow and one Coast Guard and five Navy planes will be in the vicinity at daybreak.

Previously, hopes for survival of any of the men who left the disabled freighter Wednesday evening had faded almost to nothing.

"Not a trace" was the report of fliers who came back for rest and refueling from their hazardous mission 750 miles northwest of Seattle. "Not a trace" was the report from ships that sailed back and forth across a vast area of the storm-whipped North Pacific.

The hope aroused yesterday by search ship's report of an unidentified object on its radar screen faded with the dawn. The Cygnet III radioed to the Coast Guard's search coordinating headquarters that it was only one of the search planes.

Exposure May Be Too Much

There was doubt about whether 45 or 46 men were missing. The States Steamship Company listed 46. One of the final radio messages mentioned "45 men for four boats." There was uncertainty over whether one crew member might have left the Japan-bound ship in Seattle or Vancouver or whether the radioman or Capt. George Plover of Portland, Ore., failed to include himself in the 45 figure.

Even if the seamen got safely into the lifeboats, and the boats have survived the tremendous seas, the exposure through two nights and days of saturation and cold might be more than they could survive.

Disarmament Group Created

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP) — The United Nations Assembly created a West-backed disarmament commission today. It instructed the new body to begin work quickly on proposals for the regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and all armaments in the world.

The vote was 42 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with seven countries abstaining — Argentina, Burma, Egypt, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Yemen.

Russia's foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in a final harsh blast at the Western Big Three on the disarmament proposals, attacked the commission's orders as "wishy-washy" and "vague." The grey-haired Russian, however, has agreed that his country will take its seat on the new organization and has indicated that Moscow will do everything it can to push its own arms proposals, repeatedly rejected by the majority of the U. N. members.

Fined In "Pin-Curl Battle," Parents Dumbfound Judge

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP) — Fined $10 each in Antioch's "battle of the pin curls," Mr. and Mrs. Amos Barton today dumbfounded the court by leaving five of their nine children in the care of Justice of the Peace Yates Hamm.

Mrs. Barton exclaimed, after reading a long statement: "Judge Hamm, we turn our five youngest children over to you, to be their legal guardian."

Then the Bartons left.

In his chambers Judge Hamm found the five weeping youngsters. Beside each was a carton containing that child's possessions.

Hamm said he was bewildered by the curious turn of events. He gave each child 50 cents to stem the tears, and the five were taken by Probation Officer Everett Joseph to the county juvenile home.

The trouble started when the Bartons decided they wouldn't send a 15-year-old daughter, Theola, to school because she had been sent home for attending classes with her hair in pin-curlers. The teacher said it wasn't proper attire. Officials, including the state attorney general, agreed with the teacher.

When the parents appeared in court to answer a charge of wilfully failing to send a child to school, Mrs. Barton read a 24-page statement.

It quoted the Scripture, berated school and probation departments, the Board of Education and the attorney general for "taking freedom away from parents." She said she wouldn't be "a puppet of any dictatorship."

Weather Forecast
Mostly cloudy and milder today; cloudy and colder tomorrow with rain likely.

DEBRIS SIGHTED BY SHIP HUNTERS

Carlsen Steps Ashore To Roaring Welcome

"Odds Against Me," Skipper Says

FALMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 11 (AP)—A tired little sailor in borrowed clothes, Capt. Kurt Carlsen stepped ashore a hero today after losing a gruelling fight to save his Flying Enterprise from Atlantic gales. Humbly, he said: "The odds were against me."

The dauntless skipper—20 days out of Hamburg on a voyage that ended his first shipwreck—landed at the Prince of Wales pier in this small Cornish port with Mate Kenneth Dancy of the British tug Turmoil, who rode the hurricane-cracked freighter with him for the final week of a two-week epic.

The Enterprise plunged to the bottom yesterday.

Skipper Wears Beret

Instead of a maritime cap, he wore a beret over his brown hair. The beard he grew on the Enterprise had been shaved off. Under a borrowed black raincoat which was too big for him, Carlsen wore a white shirt and a black tie, also given to him aboard the Turmoil.

His worst moment?

"It was the moment that the Flying Enterprise disappeared below the sea," Carlsen said. "I hurt for quite a bit."

His brightest moment?

That, he said, came when Dancy stepped from the pitching Turmoil to the deck of the Enterprise last Friday—after Carlsen had spent six days and nights alone—and "shake hands."

Duty To Stay Aboard

Why did he stay aboard his ship, listing heavily from a beating in the worst North Atlantic storm in 50 years, after his crew of 40 and 10 passengers were rescued?

It was his duty, said the 37-year-old Carlsen.

And what finally caused him to decide his ship was doomed and to give up his tremendous struggle against the sea?

New York Plans Reception

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP) — A ticker-tape reception, New York City's traditional welcome for heroes, will be given Capt. Kurt Carlsen, skipper of the ill-fated freighter Flying Enterprise.

With it will go a parade up lower Broadway to City Hall, preceded by a harbor welcome of whistle-blowing ships and tugs and fireboats playing streams of water into the air.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said arrangements were in charge of Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the mayor's reception committee for distinguished guests.

REFUSES MEDAL — Halsey McGovern, Washington, D. C., traffic consultant, talks to newsmen at his home discussing his refusal yesterday to accept a Medal of Honor awarded one son, Lt. Robert McGovern, and a Silver Star, awarded to another, Lt. Jerome McGovern, both of whom were killed in Korea. McGovern said he feels President Truman is unworthy to bestow the honor. Spanish Police Protect U. S. Envoy From Red Plotters

MADRID, Jan. 11 (AP)—Government and embassy sources disclosed today that Spain took extraordinary police precautions to protect U. S. Ambassador Stanton Griffis from a reported Communist assassination plot when he and an American Navy squadron visited Valencia yesterday.

Ambassador Griffis himself carried a big army pistol in his pocket to cope with the plotters if necessary.

Griffis, confirming the reports of a plot against his life, said the embassy learned of it two weeks ago from an anonymous tipster.

"There was absolutely no doubt," Griffis said, that it was Communist-inspired."

Legion Will Sponsor Religion Movement

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 11 (AP)—The American Legion plans to sponsor a nationwide religious movement to bring about a spiritual reawakening of Americans.

National Commander Donald R. Wilson urged each Legion post and auxiliary to take the initiative in its community. The program will emphasize church attendance and prayer and religious training of young people.

The movement will start Sunday, Feb. 3.

Model Of Atom Gun Displayed To Legislators

Showing Marked By Tight Secrecy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A small model of an artillery gun designed to fire shells with atomic warheads was displayed today to the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Tight secrecy surrounded the showing, which took place behind closed doors. But from past official statements it could be inferred that the weapon has already been tested, although perhaps not with an atomic shell.

It was Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint committee, who described the model as that of a gun "designed to handle atomic shells." McMahon declined to say whether it was a small-scale model of a gun already in existence, or made from blueprints of one not yet built.

Gen. Collins Is Quoted

However, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said last month that atomic artillery "has been tested as a weapon."

Officials have said the U. S. has ready for use tactical atomic weapons which could be used against troops in the field. But that description might cover smaller a-bombs, artillery shells, guided missiles or possibly radioactive dust.

Relatively small a-bombs are known to have been tested, and display of the model artillery weapon—along with Collins' comments—indicates that artillery shells are also about ready for possible use.

Collins said on Dec. 6 that they would be ready in the "not too distant" future. He said he did not want to say how soon it would be practicable to put them to use "because, needless to say, any potential enemy would like to have that information."

Atomic Picture Reviewed

The Senate-House committee examined and discussed the gun model during a review of the whole atomic energy picture at its first session of the new Congress.

McMahon said the group reviewed, among other things, progress made toward development of the awesome hydrogen bomb. Asked if the committee was satisfied, he replied:

"It is not the business of this committee to be satisfied. We are a watchdog committee and a watchdog should always growl."

Pacific Powers' Military Chiefs End Conference

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—A high-level conference called to map strategy in case Red China tried to turn Indochina into another Korea ended tonight in an atmosphere of deep secrecy.

No statement was issued as the military chiefs of the major Pacific powers concluded their deliberations.

The only words that had emerged from the conference room all day expressed grief at the death in Paris of French Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, best known fighter against communism in Indochina.

Word of his passing at the age of 61 was received by the conferees as they faced up to the major issue before them: What will the U. S., Britain and the other nations with high stakes in Southeast Asia do if Red China invades Indochina?

Lines Of Approach Indicated

The only official guidance about the purpose and scope of the high level session came in the Churchill-Truman communique earlier this week. The statement said the military leaders would consider specific measures to strengthen the security of Southeast Asia.

Although none of the participating nations—the U. S., Britain, France, Australia, Canada and New Zealand, have publicly framed solutions to the Indochina question, diplomatic sources indicated these lines of approach:

No sensational solution may be expected. The U. S., Britain and the British commonwealth representatives probably will recommend to their political superiors prompt and energetic support for any French appeal to the United Nations in the event of an invasion in Indochina.

May Tie In With Treaties

The deliberations may also tie in with the security treaties the U. S. has concluded with Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines. These agreements are now before the Senate for ratification.

Officials said in advance of today's meeting there would also be discussion of the advisability of forming an Allied high command in the Far East. This phase of the planning was one of many given a new turn by the death of Gen. De Lattre.

Heart-Broken Father Rejects Medal Of Honor Awarded Son

The son to whom the medal was awarded for "incredible valor" near Kamyangjan-Hi was First Lt. Robert H. McGovern, 23, of the First Cavalry Division.

His brother, Second Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, 21, of the Second Division, won the Silver Star for "absolute fearlessness" in leading a charge against the Chinese Communists.

Mr. Truman has said many times he would rather wear the Medal of Honor than be President.

Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn, deputy chief of Army information, indicated to newsmen that the Army may contact McGovern to see if he would agree to other arrangements for a presentation.

A brother said McGovern felt that Mr. Truman's Far East policies had led to the Korean war and that the men in combat were not given strong enough military support.

Kidnaped Baby Safe; 'Desperate' Woman Is Held

MANKATO, Minn., Jan. 11 (AP)—An 18-day-old baby boy police said had been kidnaped by a childless woman "desperate" after a miscarriage, was reunited unharmed with its mother today, some 20 hours after it was snatched from its crib.

Held without charge was an auburn-haired woman who sobbed to police and newsmen that she had taken the baby after a futile effort to "buy" an illegitimate child for $300 through a barroom acquaintance.

When the acquaintance failed to bring a child to her, she drove here from nearby New Ulm. At gunpoint she took the baby boy, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Callahan, Ed Larson, New Ulm chief of police, said. The woman was identified by Chief Larson as Mrs. Leonard Scheid, 35.

Woman Relates Story

Chief Larson said Mrs. Scheid related this story before she was taken to jail in Mankato:

"After she lost her baby by miscarriage about four months ago, she got "tight" in a New Ulm bar and struck up a conversation with a woman she knew only as "Mrs Alice," from Springfield, a neighboring town.

"I told her about losing my baby. She said there are a lot of illegitimate babies born in Minneapolis that are not wanted.'"

Mrs. Scheid gave "Mrs. Alice" $10 that night and in the course of four or five later meetings gave her more than $300.

"Mrs. Alice" promised to bring a baby to Mrs. Scheid early this week, but didn't. Mrs. Scheid became "desperate."

Baby Found In Bassinet

Finally, she decided to take her husband's car and a .38 caliber pistol, and drive to Mankato, 28 miles away.

Mrs. Scheid had followed birth notices in the Mankato newspaper and noted the Callahans had had a baby boy Christmas Eve.

Mrs. Callahan, 35, said the woman appeared at their home about 1 p. m. (CST) yesterday.

About 8:30 a. m. today, one of Mrs. Scheid's neighbors called New Ulm police. A short time later Mrs. Scheid herself called.

The baby was found in a bassinet and in new baby clothes Mrs. Scheid had purchased when she was expecting her own child.

German Budestag Oks Schuman Plan

BONN, Germany, Jan. 11 (AP) — The West German Budestag, the lower house of parliament, voted today to share Ruhr coal and steel with five other European nations for the next 50 years.

Only the final approval of the Bundesrat—the upper house—is now required for German ratification of the Schuman Plan. It will pool the coal and steel resources of West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg and create—for the first time—a common European market of 155 million persons.

Approval is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Reds Demand MSA's Repeal

MOSCOW, Saturday, Jan. 12. (AP)—The Soviet Press published today the text of a second Soviet note to the United States protesting against the mutual security act and demanding its repeal.

The Russians again charged the United States is financing subversive activities against Russia through the MSA.

The new note accused the U. S. of violating the Roosevelt-Litvinoff agreement of 1933 which established diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

It was an answer to the American reply of Dec. 20 to the original Soviet note on the subject.

(In Washington the State Department said it had rejected the new Russian protest.

Allies Demand Red Explanation For Double Talk

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP) — Korean armistice talks seemed near a showdown today with exasperated Allied negotiators demanding an explanation for Communist double-talk on the airfield issue.

The subcommittees on truce supervision and exchange of prisoners began new sessions in frigid, windswept Panmunjom today at 11 a.m. (9 p.m., EST, Friday).

Friday's meetings were unproductive, but the Reds were told the talks on truce supervision could not continue until they explained a contradiction in their stand on building airfields during an armistice.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner sharply reminded Chinese Gen. Hsieh Fang of a Communist statement Dec. 2 to the effect "the (North) Korean people will certainly reconstruct and reinforce their airfields during the period of a military armistice . . ."

Then Turner said: "Yesterday, as well as on many previous occasions you stated, Gen. Hsieh, that our assertion that you intend to increase your military capabilities by building airfields was a misrepresentation and a slander. Which statement are we to believe?"

Hsieh insisted there had been no contradiction and added:

"Installation of facilities is an internal affair that your side has no right to look into."

In an adjoining tent, U. S. Rear Adm. R. E. Libby charged that the Reds appeared to advocate free choice of repatriating prisoners as a principle but oppose its application in regard to prisoners held by the Allies.

He asserted, also, that the Reds contend it is proper for them to "re-educate" prisoners of war but consider it "a crime against humanity" if the Allies should do it.

Five MIGs Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, Jan. 12 (AP) — Communist jet planes made their farthest penetration south Friday, but five of them were shot down and one was damaged in a series of five air battles.

One MIG-15 was shot down at Sariwon, and one fight was within 30 miles north of the Armistice conference site of Panmunjom.

Dutch Leader U.S.-Bound

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Jan. 11 (AP)—Dutch Premier Willem Drees left by plane today for New York on an unofficial visit to the United States.

Aerial Search For Crewmen To Be Widened

No Trace Is Found Of 45 Or 46 Men

SEATTLE, Jan. 11 (AP) — Coast Guard planes and a search vessel tonight reported finding wreckage and debris near the last known position of the missing freighter Pennsylvania.

The report was received by Seattle district headquarters from the cutter Klamath. It said aircraft sighted debris and the Canadian weather ship Stonetown had located a hatch cover, lumber and plates 34 miles south by southeast from the Pennsylvania's last radioed message.

No survivors from the crew of 45 or 46 persons were seen.

Aircraft also have sighted 15 boxes, an oil slick and drums with yellow ends 24 miles southeast of the Pennsylvania's radioed position, the Coast Guard said.

Search To Be Intensified

The report brought intensified plans for a wider aerial and sea search tomorrow and one Coast Guard and five Navy planes will be in the vicinity at daybreak.

Previously, hopes for survival of any of the men who left the disabled freighter Wednesday evening had faded almost to nothing.

"Not a trace" was the report of fliers who came back for rest and refueling from their hazardous mission 750 miles northwest of Seattle. "Not a trace" was the report from ships that sailed back and forth across a vast area of the storm-whipped North Pacific.

The hope aroused yesterday by search ship's report of an unidentified object on its radar screen faded with the dawn. The Cygnet III radioed to the Coast Guard's search coordinating headquarters that it was only one of the search planes.

Exposure May Be Too Much

There was doubt about whether 45 or 46 men were missing. The States Steamship Company listed 46. One of the final radio messages mentioned "45 men for four boats." There was uncertainty over whether one crew member might have left the Japan-bound ship in Seattle or Vancouver or whether the radioman or Capt. George Plover of Portland, Ore., failed to include himself in the 45 figure.

Even if the seamen got safely into the lifeboats, and the boats have survived the tremendous seas, the exposure through two nights and days of saturation and cold might be more than they could survive.

Disarmament Group Created

PARIS, Jan. 11 (AP) — The United Nations Assembly created a West-backed disarmament commission today. It instructed the new body to begin work quickly on proposals for the regulation, limitation and balanced reduction of all armed forces and all armaments in the world.

The vote was 42 to 5 (Soviet bloc) with seven countries abstaining — Argentina, Burma, Egypt, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Yemen.

Russia's foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in a final harsh blast at the Western Big Three on the disarmament proposals, attacked the commission's orders as "wishy-washy" and "vague." The grey-haired Russian, however, has agreed that his country will take its seat on the new organization and has indicated that Moscow will do everything it can to push its own arms proposals, repeatedly rejected by the majority of the U. N. members.

Fined In "Pin-Curl Battle," Parents Dumbfound Judge

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP) — Fined $10 each in Antioch's "battle of the pin curls," Mr. and Mrs. Amos Barton today dumbfounded the court by leaving five of their nine children in the care of Justice of the Peace Yates Hamm.

Mrs. Barton exclaimed, after reading a long statement: "Judge Hamm, we turn our five youngest children over to you, to be their legal guardian."

Then the Bartons left.

In his chambers Judge Hamm found the five weeping youngsters. Beside each was a carton containing that child's possessions.

Hamm said he was bewildered by the curious turn of events. He gave each child 50 cents to stem the tears, and the five were taken by Probation Officer Everett Joseph to the county juvenile home.

The trouble started when the Bartons decided they wouldn't send a 15-year-old daughter, Theola, to school because she had been sent home for attending classes with her hair in pin-curlers. The teacher said it wasn't proper attire. Officials, including the state attorney general, agreed with the teacher.

When the parents appeared in court to answer a charge of wilfully failing to send a child to school, Mrs. Barton read a 24-page statement.

It quoted the Scripture, berated school and probation departments, the Board of Education and the attorney general for "taking freedom away from parents." She said she wouldn't be "a puppet of any dictatorship."

A luncheon followed the ceremonies.

Funds Needed For Setting Up CD Attack Warning System

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County, informed the County Commissioners yesterday that funds are needed to set up an attack warning system here.

Barger explained that the federal government is making $2,925 available, the state $2,050 and the county's share would be $875.

The attack warning system would be integrated with the system along the Eastern seaboard and would be used in time of attack to alert the populace. Barger said with the money available it would not be feasible to extend the warning system to all communities in the county and the bulk of the system would be set up in Cumberland.

Barger explained the various communities in the rest of the county have volunteer fire companies which have sirens and these could be used in time of an alert.

Due to the fact Cumberland would be the main point in which the system would be established in the county, Barger said he believed 75 per cent of the $875 cost should be borne by Cumberland.

A letter will be sent to the Mayor and Council of Cumberland by the county board outlining Barger's proposal. The Civil Defense director said quick action is needed and the Cumberland city officials will probably act on the matter at their meeting Monday morning.

Allegany County has appropriated $5,000 for Civil Defense needs and some of this money has been allotted for the medical supplies to be used in connection with the program.

Blue Lodges Install Officers

Installing officers were Arch M. Hutcheson, district grand lecturer; Raymond Wilt, district grand lecturer; Allan C. Fisher, district grand inspector, and Grant W. Wiebel, who acted as marshal.

Ohr Lodge No. 131: Kenneth Scheller Hopwood, worshipful master; Ira Ray Nine, senior warden, Robert Hull Rosamond, junior warden; Frederick P. Keyser, secretary; John J. Robinson, treasurer; Harry Millard Feller, senior deacon; Robert Lee Schubert, junior deacon; Gilbert Leroy Saeler, senior steward; Raymond Kenneth Young, junior steward; Virgil T. Wolford, tyler, and Rev. Frank D. Oberkircher, chaplain.

Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 211: Arthur Leonard Brill, worshipful master; Wilber Luther Smith, senior warden; Virgil Moreland Stemple, junior warden; Arch M. Hutcheson, secretary; Thomas Earnest Gilchrist, Jr., treasurer; Charles Richare Cramer, Jr., senior deacon; William Torkington, junior deacon; Evan Leslie Smith, senior steward, and Albert W. Carroll, tyler.

East Gate Lodge No. 216: Curtis Jackson Bloss, worshipful master; Boyd Lamar Shaffer, senior warden; Thornton William Means, junior warden; John Elton Tritt, secretary; Frank Leslie Byrd, treasurer; Eugene Lester Fox, senior deacon; Horace Basil Clark, junior deacon; Joseph Alexander Gross, senior steward; James Ray Wilson, junior steward; H. Loren Elliott, tyler, and James Clayton Watkins, chaplain.

A luncheon followed the ceremonies.

Funds Needed For Setting Up CD Attack Warning System

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County, informed the County Commissioners yesterday that funds are needed to set up an attack warning system here.

Barger explained that the federal government is making $2,925 available, the state $2,050 and the county's share would be $875.

The attack warning system would be integrated with the system along the Eastern seaboard and would be used in time of attack to alert the populace. Barger said with the money available it would not be feasible to extend the warning system to all communities in the county and the bulk of the system would be set up in Cumberland.

Barger explained the various communities in the rest of the county have volunteer fire companies which have sirens and these could be used in time of an alert.

Due to the fact Cumberland would be the main point in which the system would be established in the county, Barger said he believed 75 per cent of the $875 cost should be borne by Cumberland.

A letter will be sent to the Mayor and Council of Cumberland by the county board outlining Barger's proposal. The Civil Defense director said quick action is needed and the Cumberland city officials will probably act on the matter at their meeting Monday morning.

Allegany County has appropriated $5,000 for Civil Defense needs and some of this money has been allotted for the medical supplies to be used in connection with the program.

Damage Action Removed To Another Court

The $65,000 damage suit brought by the widow and children of William Moreland, 29, of Franklin, near Westernport, who was killed as a result of a collision between his car and a Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company bus last October 8, has been removed to Washington County Circuit Court at Hagerstown upon petition of the defendant firm.

Walter C. Capper, attorney for the bus company filed the petition and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris signed an order of court for the removal to the nearby county of the case.

The damage suit was filed by Mrs. Dorothy A. Moreland, widow of the deceased, and her three children, Virginia Lee Moreland, William M. Moreland, Jr., and Melvin Moreland.

Moreland was driving from his home to where he was employed as a truck driver by the Cross Mining Company. The accident occurred on the brow of a hill near a coal tipple on Route 36 at Nikep.

The bus was traveling in the opposite direction and it skidded into the Moreland machine and pinned it to a guard rail. The driver said the brakes apparently locked. Another car had been parked on the same side of the road as the bus was using near the accident scene.

Moreland was taken to Miners Hospital in Frostburg where he was pronounced dead upon arrival. He died of a crushed heat and chest.

Installation Set By IOOF Group

Cumberland Encampment No. 23, IOOF, will be host at a joint installation of officers of the three encampments in Western Maryland A. T. White, Mt. Lake Park; Mt. Carmel, Westernport, and Cumberland, today at 7:30 p. m. in the IOOF Temple.

The installation ceremony will be preceded by a turkey dinner served by members of Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1. This dinner is in honor of the two past chief patriarchs who served during 1951, George V. Steele and William H. Short.

The by-laws of Cumberland Encampment have been changed to make the term of officers one year instead of six months.

The installation ceremony will be under direction of William H. Aronholt, district deputy grand patriarch.

The installation ceremony of Chapel Hill Lodge No. 53, IOOF, was postponed last Monday night for one week and will be held Monday night at the lodge hall, Virginia Avenue, with T. Ralph Croyle, district deputy grand master, in charge.

Ambassador To Russia

Little opposition is expected in the Senate to the nomination of George F. Kennan to succeed Admiral Alan G. Kirk as U. S. ambassador to Russia. Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said in an interview in Dallas on December 27 that he believed the nomination would be quickly approved by his committee and confirmed by the Senate. Connally added, however: "I don't have any special admiration for him."

Kennan, long an officer in the U. S. State Department, is generally credited with setting the foundations for present U. S. policy toward Russia. In an anonymous article in "Foreign Affairs" in 1947, signed only "X", Kennan stated: "It is clear that the main element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long-term, patient but firm and vigilant containment of Russian expansive tendencies."

Holding the line and hoping for the best, however, were not viewed by Kennan as the limits of American policy by any means. "It is entirely possible for the United States to influence by its actions the internal developments, both within Russia and throughout the international Communist movement, by which Russian policy is largely determined."

Relations between the United States and the Soviet regime in Russia have inevitably been influenced by the shifting attitudes of our diplomatic personnel. The ambassador in Moscow at the time of the Bolshevik revolution in November, 1917, was David R. Francis, who had been governor and the outstanding Democratic leader of Missouri. He has been described by Samuel Harper, who was engaged by the State Department to brief the new ambassador on Russia, as a "very blunt, outspoken American," whose "one apparent qualification for foreign service was the fact that he had been president of the St. Louis International Exposition of 1903."

The previous March Francis had recommended immediate U. S. recognition of the provisional government of Prince Lvoff. He refused to believe the Bolsheviks could retain the power they seized in November, and recommended that no action whatever be taken by the United States until the situation righted itself and the Reds were driven out of office. When informed that the Petrograd Soviet had named Lenin premier, Francis wrote: "Disgusting!—but the more ridiculous the situation, the sooner the remedy."

The views of Francis were not shared by William C. Bullitt, then a young Philadelphia journalist, who as an emissary of the State Department received a Soviet peace proposal in Moscow in March, 1919. "No government save a socialist government," Bullitt reported, "can be set up in Russia today except by foreign bayonets, and any governments so set up will fall the moment such support is withdrawn." The recognition Bullitt then recommended was not to be extended until November, 1933.

Ironically, Bullitt, named by President Roosevelt as U. S. ambassador to Moscow upon the resumption of relations, was to have his earlier enthusiasm for the Soviet regime destroyed by bitter disillusionment. Joseph E. Davies, who succeeded Bullitt in January, 1937, often expressed the conviction that the Soviet leaders were honest and sincere.

Relations with Russia remained on the whole friendly throughout World War II. But by 1947, according to Vera Micheles Dean, it had become apparent that the United States and Russia remained "sharply divided by differences in their internal systems, by clashes at strategic key points of the world, by Russia's fear of the atomic bomb, and by our renewed fear of communism."

Comfortable Present

Most Americans are looking back to see where they've been during the last year—and peering ahead to see, if they can, where they are going.

But where are we? Perhaps it would be a good idea to think about that before we start reviewing or forecasting.

Some data that has been collected by the College of Home Economics at Cornell University is interesting. The material came out of a conference held at Ithaca a few days ago. It is based on Census Bureau reports and on information furnished by industry. And it gives a stimulating if incomplete picture of living standards in this country.

Three out of four American homes are equipped with electric refrigerators, 68 per cent with washing machines, 52 per cent with vacuum cleaners and 87 per cent with electric irons. Two-thirds of all American families own cars and there is one car to every 3.1 persons. In Europe there is one car to 45 persons; in Asia, one car to 1,023.

Americans still work for what they get, although hours are short. One-third of the labor force is made up of women. More than half of American women are married, and the report suggests that more electrical appliances will make it possible for more American women to combine home-making with careers.

Meanwhile Americans are eating 13 per cent more food per capita than in the 1935-39 period. The American standard of living has been rising in every material way—and the report prophesies that it will continue to rise even though taxes will be higher.

There's the future, intruding again. There seems to be no stopping it.

The Seagoing Voice

A classic thumbnail description of a battleship is a "mobile gun-platform"; of a carrier, a "mobile airfield." Similarly it will be accurate to call a former Navy cargo ship a mobile broadcasting station.

The ship, renamed the Courier, will soon be sailing with a Coast Guard crew for the State Department's Voice of America. Its projectiles will take the form of messages to populations behind the iron curtain. The propellent is not gunpowder but a huge transmitter fed by 1,500,000 watts of electrical energy.

It's a bold and imaginative idea—this transmitter capable of moving about the watery world and turning its broadsides loose at will. The ship's antennae at mast height can be expected to work at good, long ranges. But there is also what is called a flight deck from which captive balloons will carry antennae far aloft when greater altitude is necessary. The blanketing effect of coastal mountains may thus be overcome.

The Courier should succeed in fouling up the radio jamming techniques of the Communists by merely keeping on the move. The ship should have great potential firepower of a new type. But it will be up to the crewmen in Washington to make it truly effective. According to congressmen who have toured Europe, the Voice of America to date has accomplished virtually nothing, and at great expense. The programs frequently have had a crackpot slant.

How To Keep Well

Coronary Aftermath

Coronary thrombosis is the granddaddy of all heart attacks. It is produced by obstruction of one of the arteries that supply the cardiac muscle with blood. Most victims are over 50 and many more men than women have suffered from the disease.

During the past decade the outlook has improved considerably and now 80 per cent or more survive the first attack. As a result a sizable number of persons belong to the mythical "I've had a coronary" club. The majority developed a coronary because of living under pressure and emotional tension. These men and women were always on the go, physically and mentally, and spent far too little time in relaxation and enjoyable living. For many, the attack offered an excuse thereafter to say no. They found it possible to do the things they wanted rather than adhere to the demands and dictates of others. In this respect, a coronary has certain compensating features.

However, the attack is a shock to the system and for some time thereafter the victim is concerned with his heart. This is natural but the reaction passes in time. From four to six months after the initial bout, the post-coronary syndrome may appear. This group of symptoms arises shortly after the individual attempts to return to his usual activities. The first sensation is a feeling of tightness or soreness in front of the chest. Then come shortness of breath, weakness, and fatigue. With the heart attack fresh in mind, the man begins to wonder whether the old ticker has healed and is as good as the physician claims. An anxiety mounts the syndrome becomes worse; some quit work or ask for a longer period of convalescence. This also aggravates the picture because it provides more time to brood and worry; the subject may conclude he is finished and never will be able to work again. This is particularly hard on the man or woman who never has been ill before.

The physician handles the problem by reassuring his patient that the syndrome is common and can be traced to the stress associated with renewed activity. The heart will behave in a more normal fashion following graduated exercises and continued muscular activity. After all, the syndrome has been an invalid for some time and this is the first opportunity the heart has had to buck up against the stress of everyday living.

It is necessary in most cases to modify the type of work and the conditions and hours of employment. The self-employed business or professional man should obtain an assistant or understudy and relegate to him the less important and more strenuous duties. By taking stock it may be possible to discover and eliminate the irritating influences that brought on the original coronary attack. In addition, the individual should guard against physical overexertion, prolonged hours of work, emotional tension, the pressure of deadlines, and anything else that interferes with regular meals, leisure hours, and vacations.

X-RAY AND STERILITY

B. Y. writes: A man had 14 X-ray treatments, as a child, for enlarged thymus. He has been married four years and his wife has not become pregnant. Could the X-rays have made him sterile?

REPLY

No, as X-rays were directed toward the thymus gland in the chest. Sterility has various causes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on the subject.

BLOOD VOLUME

B. T. writes: How much blood does a person in good health have?

REPLY

A man weighing 150 pounds would have 5 to 6 quarts, or one-thirteenth of the body weight.

HANGING APPENDIX

Mrs. G. writes: Does the appendix float?

REPLY

No. It hangs from the colon like the fingers on the hand when the arm is down.

LIKES 'EM RAW

Mrs. L. writes: My 12 year old prefers raw to cooked vegetables. Is she getting enough minerals and other food elements in this way?

REPLY

Yes, because cooking, if anything, subtracts rather than adds vitamins and minerals.

PYLOROSPASM

F. C. writes: What is meant by a stomach spasm in one who has a duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

The raw surface of the ulcer irritates the surrounding tissues, including the pyloric (exit) valve of the stomach. The effect is spasm, which may be more painful than the ulcer itself.

CURED TB

M. W. writes: Is it safe for a person with cured tuberculosis to be immunized against various diseases prior to taking a trip out of the country?

REPLY

Yes. At least, no evidence has been forthcoming that these universally approved agents have any harmful effect on such cases.

Another Unsafe Mine Operates In Illinois; Lewis May Order Men Out Of This Mine; President Truman Knew "Ike" Was Running

WASHINGTON—The same dangerous mine conditions which killed 119 miners at West Frankfort, Ill., also exist at Orient No. 3 mine 20 miles away, according to miners who work there. Both mines are owned by the same company.

It was a combination of escaping gases and explosive coal dust that blew up Orient No. 2 and a United Mine Workers safety committee has protested that Orient No. 3 at Waltonville, Ill., also could become a death trap and has warned that it should be shut down.

The safety inspectors found tunnels heavy with coal dust that had not been mixed with rock dust, though a 65 per cent mixture of rock dust is considered necessary to make the coal dust non-explosive. A 6-to 24-inch layer of coal dust was also discovered under the conveyer belts. In addition, no escapeway had been installed in the rear of the mine.

Despite all this, Illinois mine inspectors had already given Orient No. 3 a safe-to-operate permit.

While the federal government lacks the power to enforce its safety findings, John L. Lewis has the power, under his contract, to order men out of an unsafe mine. He is waiting to learn the outcome of a federal inspection before deciding what to do. Meanwhile miners say they have so many Christmas bills to pay they are willing to gamble their lives by continuing at Orient No. 3.

Available Ike

General Eisenhower's announcement that he was available as a Republican brought wide and interesting private reactions in Washington. Here are some of them:

CHURCHILL and TRUMAN — Were conferring when the general's Paris statement was handed them. Churchill raised his eyebrows eloquently. Truman grinned like a boy who's been keeping a secret. "I knew he was running and as a Republican," he confided.

INSIDE GOP NATIONAL COMMITTEE—"This means that Taft has real big league competition," was the private reaction of Chairman Guy Gabrielson. (Gabrielson has kept aloof from Taft's battle to corral delegates, which is why Taft wants him out)

Gabrielson opined privately that Taft would not be able to hold the majority of the convention delegates he now claims, also observed that Ike was not smart to let the Dewey professionals openly take over his drive for the nomination. (Dewey is not popular with GOP regulars).

DEWEY CAMP REACTION — Dewey's old manager, Herbert Brownell and New York National Committeeman Russell Sprague, are already busy lining up delegates. Both are shrewd politicians. Their ability should offset Dewey's unpopularity.

TAFT CAMP—The Taft brain trust will 1. Put out the idea that Ike is a Dewey "stooge"; 2. Predict that Dewey will be Ike's Secretary of State and adopt a Wall Street foreign policy; 3. Get General MacArthur to train the big guns on his old comrade-in-arms. MacArthur is especially burned up over Ike's slip that he was once MacArthur's ghost-writer and is itching to let loose with all he's got. (Ike wrote MacArthur's farewell to the Army when Mac retired as chief of staff—a stirring message).

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE REACTION — Regular Democratic leaders privately aren't happy about Ike's announcement. They have long wanted to help the Republicans nominate Taft, believe Taft would be the easiest Republican to beat. That long-range strategy began back in 1950 when Democratic bigwigs helped put a weak candidate, Jumpin' Joe Ferguson, up against Taft in the Ohio election. They wanted Taft kept in the Senate as the ultimate opponent against Truman.

KEFAUVER REACTION—The senator from Tennessee took Ike's announcement in his quiet stride, continued with plans to toss his coon-skin hat in the Presidential ring.

GOVERNOR WARREN — Chief Republican to benefit from the Eisenhower-Taft battle will be the governor of California. A deadlock between the two could put Warren in.

Truman And Ike

The President's remark to Churchill that he knew Ike would run as a Republican was based on two conversations which George Allen and Averell Harriman had with Eisenhower. To both, the general made it clear he would accept the GOP nomination if tendered.

Truman, in turn, sent word to Paris that he had no objection to Ike's running, in fact was glad to have an anti-isolationist Republican oppose Taft's isolationism. But the President said he hoped Eisenhower would remain on the job in Europe until the North Atlantic pact was working.

Capital Contrasts

New Hampshire's high-strung Senator Charles Tobey is so broken over his second wife's death that he can hardly talk without weeping. She died after a hip injury received while nursing him. Tobey broke into tears repeatedly as fellow senators came around to comfort him on the Senate's opening day . . . Shirley Temple has been giving her former movie friends the brush-off since she became the wife of Commander Charles Black, a Navy officer now stationed in Washington, D. C. When movie stars or producers pass through Washington, they can't even phone Shirley, must rely on telegrams to reach her. Even telegrams usually are ignored, however — with one notable exception — Shirley's former hair-dresser, Annabelle Levy. When Miss Levy came to Washington with the movie company filming Bob Pirosh's "Mr. Congressman," her telegram not only was answered, but Shirley dropped around in person to talk over old times.

Eisenhower's Silence

By MARK SULLIVAN

The effect Gen. Eisenhower's announcement will have on the Republican political situation is a chief subject of speculation by party leaders, the press, radio commentators, and without a doubt a considerable portion of the people. A natural starting point for this speculation is the effect on the movement to bring about the nomination of Gen. Eisenhower.

As to this, leaders of the Eisenhower movement are partly encouraged, yet somewhat disappointed. They are encouraged by Gen. Eisenhower's direct assertion that he is a Republican and that he is available for the nomination. Lack of assurance on these two points had been a handicap to the Eisenhower leaders. They had hoped, however, that the general would go farther, that he would announce himself as an active candidate for the nomination and would accompany the announcement with a formal statement of his views on public questions.

The latter point was obviously regarded as important by a principal Eisenhower leader, Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania. In answer to a question from a newsman on the "Reporters' Round-up" radio program last October, Sen. Duff said with a manner of confident expectation that an announcement by Gen. Eisenhower should be accompanied by a statement of his views. "I think he would insist upon doing it, that's the kind of man he is," he said.

Should State Views

Lack of a statement of views by Gen. Eisenhower will confront the Eisenhower leaders and workers at many turns. Republican voters who are solicitous to support Gen. Eisenhower for the Presidential nomination will ask, "What are Gen. Eisenhower's views?" It will not be enough for Eisenhower workers to cite views expressed by Gen. Eisenhower in past years. Decidedly it will not be enough, indeed it will be a detriment, if Eisenhower leaders purport to say what the general's views are. Invidious contrast will be made between the silence of Gen. Eisenhower and the forthright outspokenness of other candidates; Sen. Taft has expressed his views on the whole gamut of public questions, and Harold Stassen in announcing his candidacy recently gave out a statement of his views in especially comprehensive detail.

Lack of similar explicitness will work against Gen. Eisenhower in several ways. It will weaken the argument of those who work for his nomination. They will be put under some necessity for explanation. It will qualify support of him from important sources. "The San Francisco Chronicle" is glad Gen. Eisenhower has made himself available, and if he gets the nomination will support him in the election. But "The Chronicle" adds: "We would like to know more about where he stands . . . it will not be enough for friends, however close and however competent, to speak for him . . ." As for outright opponents of the general, they are given a handle. "The Chicago Tribune' 'is given opportunity to say, "The American people are asked to buy a pig in a poke.

Liable To Embarrassment

Throughout the campaign for the nomination, Gen. Eisenhower and his backers will be liable to many embarrassments. If any important leader of the Eisenhower movement, such as, for example, Sen. Duff or Sen. Lodge, expresses a view on a public question in the course of a Senate debate, there will be instant inquiry as to whether this reflects or coincides with the views of Gen. Eisenhower. Much debate in Congress may become dialectical exegesis.

What is going on as respects Gen. Eisenhower is a movement as distinguished from a candidacy, certainly this has been the case so far The activity of the heads of the movement until recently has been directed largely to extending the movement downward toward the grass roots. A considerable part of the purpose of this has been to make a demonstration which would convince Gen Eisenhower that there was large grass roots support for him and hence bring about willingness on his part to be a candidate. This has now been accomplished. While Gen. Eisenhower has not made himself a candidate as many of his backers wished, he has made himself available. From now on the task of the heads of the Eisenhower movements is to bring about selection of delegates in the same way that backers of an avowed candidate ordinarily do

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The "double talk" of the Churchill-Truman communique—some of it unavoidable because of world politics and some of it inevitable because of domestic politics in Britain—still leaves the American people in the dark as to just what the basic purpose was in the meeting of the President and the British prime minister.

Every subject mentioned in the joint statement could have been canvassed as well by American and British diplomats here and in London in the normal channels. This conference, it will be recalled, was sought not by President Truman but by Prime Minister Churchill, who came out of a close election campaign worried about the future of his parliamentary majority and well aware that he needed the prestige that a visit to the United States at this time could give him.

Mr. Churchill's forte in the past has been in his dealings with the top men in other governments. He still likes to give the British people the impression that he can accomplish, because of his standing in the world, more than any other man in England.

Fighting Communist Idea

Mr. Churchill, however, also had a few things to tackle in order to be able to fight back at the "left wing" in the British Labor party. For several months now what looks like a Communist-inspired idea has been accepted wtih some seriousness by the Labor party and other British groups. It is that the American government would go off "half cocked" some day and send her fliers out of British airfields to drop bombs on Russian cities without so much as telling the British government it intended to take such a step. Mr. Attlee was gullible enough to believe that such things could happen and actually asked for and obtained from Mr. Truman assurances on this point. But the Communists were not satisfied and kept up their propaganda line. Mr. Churchill's purpose has been to get rid of that problem altogether with a frank talk in Washington. The final phraseology of the communique on this point is interesting. It says:

"Under arrangements made for the common defense, the United States has the use of certain bases in the United Kingdom. We reaffirm the understanding that the use of these bases in an emergency would be a matter for joint decision by His Majesty's Government and the United States Government in the light of the circumstances prevailing at the time."

The foregoing simply means that, if an emergency arises, the American government, of course, will consult the British, and if Great Britain is being attacked by atom bombs, it is not to be doubted that instantly there will be retaliation both the British and American fliers based in England. The trans-Atlantic phones will settle that issue in a matter of minutes.

It is significant that the communique does not say much more on this subject than was said when Mr. Attlee was here in 1950. But nevertheless the Moscow propagandists have been assiduously spreading the idea that the United States might use her overseas bases to precipitate a war, particularly when the American armament program has reached its goals.

Nothing could be more ridiculous than the assumption being spread in Europe by the Communists that America has a "hair trigger" attitude toward war. For the fact is that the United States has not, in a single instance in modern times, moved into war except to resist an attack already initiated by a hostile power.

The remainder of the Truman-Churchill communique calls attention to a "complete identity of aims" in the Middle East, a four-power approach in Egypt as "the best prospect of relieving the present tension," and it expresses the hope that the plan of the World Bank will "lead to a solution of the Iranian oil problem acceptable to all the interests concerned."

Intervention Reaffirmed

What this means, in a nutshell, is that the United States has merely reaffirmed her diplomatic intervention in the Middle East and will accept responsibility along with the British in that area.

Every one of these points means added prestige for Mr. Churchill at home. He gets, moreover, a promise of scarce materials for British industry.

Now what did the prime minister give to America? He didn't agree on the standardization of the rifle nor on the grant of the Atlantic command to the United States Navy as General Eisenhower had requested. He probably will do so later. About the only thing that can be read between the lines of the communique is that America obtained a little better understanding concerning Far Eastern policy. Already in the House of Commons debates before Mr. Churchill left England there was a hint of a change.

The new communique states that both Britain and America "recognize that the over-riding need to counter the Communist threat in that area (the Far East) transcends such divergencies as there are in our policies towards China."

In a sense this merely means that recognition of Red China by the British will not affect the broader aspects of joint American-British programs in the Far East.

So, all in all, Mr. Churchill came away with plenty to strengthen his political situation at home—and the United States gets out of it what? A feeling that the governments of the two countries understand each other better now and that maybe Mr. Churchill will reassure Europe that the United States is interested in the defense of Europe not as a means of offense but as a secondary matter and that it is up to European countries themselves to begin to appreciate that the defense of Europe is primarily Europe's job.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Mighty Question

A very beautiful woman I know, who is supposed to be wholly ornamental, every once in a while knocks over her friends with a startling question which can only enter the mind of one not corrupted by too much learning. It is sheer good sense.

This time, a group of us were bemoaning the state of the world in a jam session on all matters from how to save mankind to the characteristics of Harry Truman and the mink, when this sweet child threw this into the session:

"What would happen if we could go back to 1914?"

That stopped us.

"What do you mean, go back?" I said petulantly.

Her point was that the world was fairly comfortable until we all went to war in 1914. So what would we be like if that had not happened?

I think the jam session ended with that one. Nobody dared face it. Yet, I could not keep that question out of my head for several days.

There had been no general war from 1815 to 1914. During that century, the material progress of the world had made greater strides than in any similar period in the whole of human history. It was the century of the application of steam, electricity, electronics. It was the era of the development of the electric light, the sewing machine, farm machinery, mass production in industry, the typewriter.

It was the time for the freeing of women from economic and political discrimination. Representative government appeared in an increasing number of countries. Education gradually ceased to be a monopoly of the rich; slavery was abolished in all forms in all countries in Europe and the Americas. New means of communications shortened time and space.

Spiritual values appeared in the law. Such bodies as the Hague tribunal and the International Red Cross came into existence. A vast volume of international law was written. Religious freedom was acknowledged and public outrage expressed itself in countless forms against injustice anywhere.

Then came World War I, a wholly meaningless and unwarranted war. Originating as a conflict between two processing nations, Great Britain and Germany, over markets, it ended in the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, the rise of fascism and nazism in Italy and Germany, the beginning of the break-up of the British empire and the emergence of the United States as the almoner of the world.

For the United States, it meant the increase of the size and function of government, the assumption of huge governmental costs and the adoption of the income tax, which reversed the economic and social character of this nation.

From 1914 to 1952, the United States moved from a free economy to a mixed economy, from the individual operating according to his will and judgment and at his risk to a government-regulated and at times controlled economy. This involved not only widespread use of subsidies, making an increased number of Americans dependent upon government, but it perforce levelled downward elements in the population to a general proletariat.

Because of economic dislocations arising out of war, often called depressions, states and municipalities became more and more dependent upon the federal government, which, having the advantage of the income and excise taxes, was able to tap larger reservoirs of the people's earnings. To these were added the various payroll taxes, which were sugar-coated by what has generally been called social security.

In fact, the economic and social system of the United States entered upon a form of Fabian socialism, somewhat inchoate because of the confusing admixtures of Marxism and Keynesian economics. Politically, it tended to a centralized national system, with increased powers for officials and a constant war as a means toward maintained a ruling group in power. Congress struggled against the psychological use or war as a weapon of control of our own people, and the Supreme Court was debased by unfit appointments.

Against this stood the inherent love of Americans for freedom; their strong insistence upon attending to their own affairs and resisting governmental interference; their continued belief in Congress as the center of our governmental system; and their enormous capacity for production in the face of adverse circumstances.

What would have happened to us and to the rest of the world if 1914 had not diverted us from a steady course of progress?

Who can really answer that question, but I am glad that it was asked. Perhaps if we stand on that point, our perspective as to our purposes and remedies may be more correct.

Ambassador To Russia

Little opposition is expected in the Senate to the nomination of George F. Kennan to succeed Admiral Alan G. Kirk as U. S. ambassador to Russia. Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said in an interview in Dallas on December 27 that he believed the nomination would be quickly approved by his committee and confirmed by the Senate. Connally added, however: "I don't have any special admiration for him."

Kennan, long an officer in the U. S. State Department, is generally credited with setting the foundations for present U. S. policy toward Russia. In an anonymous article in "Foreign Affairs" in 1947, signed only "X", Kennan stated: "It is clear that the main element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long-term, patient but firm and vigilant containment of Russian expansive tendencies."

Holding the line and hoping for the best, however, were not viewed by Kennan as the limits of American policy by any means. "It is entirely possible for the United States to influence by its actions the internal developments, both within Russia and throughout the international Communist movement, by which Russian policy is largely determined."

Relations between the United States and the Soviet regime in Russia have inevitably been influenced by the shifting attitudes of our diplomatic personnel. The ambassador in Moscow at the time of the Bolshevik revolution in November, 1917, was David R. Francis, who had been governor and the outstanding Democratic leader of Missouri. He has been described by Samuel Harper, who was engaged by the State Department to brief the new ambassador on Russia, as a "very blunt, outspoken American," whose "one apparent qualification for foreign service was the fact that he had been president of the St. Louis International Exposition of 1903."

The previous March Francis had recommended immediate U. S. recognition of the provisional government of Prince Lvoff. He refused to believe the Bolsheviks could retain the power they seized in November, and recommended that no action whatever be taken by the United States until the situation righted itself and the Reds were driven out of office. When informed that the Petrograd Soviet had named Lenin premier, Francis wrote: "Disgusting!—but the more ridiculous the situation, the sooner the remedy."

The views of Francis were not shared by William C. Bullitt, then a young Philadelphia journalist, who as an emissary of the State Department received a Soviet peace proposal in Moscow in March, 1919. "No government save a socialist government," Bullitt reported, "can be set up in Russia today except by foreign bayonets, and any governments so set up will fall the moment such support is withdrawn." The recognition Bullitt then recommended was not to be extended until November, 1933.

Ironically, Bullitt, named by President Roosevelt as U. S. ambassador to Moscow upon the resumption of relations, was to have his earlier enthusiasm for the Soviet regime destroyed by bitter disillusionment. Joseph E. Davies, who succeeded Bullitt in January, 1937, often expressed the conviction that the Soviet leaders were honest and sincere.

Relations with Russia remained on the whole friendly throughout World War II. But by 1947, according to Vera Micheles Dean, it had become apparent that the United States and Russia remained "sharply divided by differences in their internal systems, by clashes at strategic key points of the world, by Russia's fear of the atomic bomb, and by our renewed fear of communism."

Comfortable Present

Most Americans are looking back to see where they've been during the last year—and peering ahead to see, if they can, where they are going.

But where are we? Perhaps it would be a good idea to think about that before we start reviewing or forecasting.

Some data that has been collected by the College of Home Economics at Cornell University is interesting. The material came out of a conference held at Ithaca a few days ago. It is based on Census Bureau reports and on information furnished by industry. And it gives a stimulating if incomplete picture of living standards in this country.

Three out of four American homes are equipped with electric refrigerators, 68 per cent with washing machines, 52 per cent with vacuum cleaners and 87 per cent with electric irons. Two-thirds of all American families own cars and there is one car to every 3.1 persons. In Europe there is one car to 45 persons; in Asia, one car to 1,023.

Americans still work for what they get, although hours are short. One-third of the labor force is made up of women. More than half of American women are married, and the report suggests that more electrical appliances will make it possible for more American women to combine home-making with careers.

Meanwhile Americans are eating 13 per cent more food per capita than in the 1935-39 period. The American standard of living has been rising in every material way—and the report prophesies that it will continue to rise even though taxes will be higher.

There's the future, intruding again. There seems to be no stopping it.

The Seagoing Voice

A classic thumbnail description of a battleship is a "mobile gun-platform"; of a carrier, a "mobile airfield." Similarly it will be accurate to call a former Navy cargo ship a mobile broadcasting station.

The ship, renamed the Courier, will soon be sailing with a Coast Guard crew for the State Department's Voice of America. Its projectiles will take the form of messages to populations behind the iron curtain. The propellent is not gunpowder but a huge transmitter fed by 1,500,000 watts of electrical energy.

It's a bold and imaginative idea—this transmitter capable of moving about the watery world and turning its broadsides loose at will. But there is also what is called a flight deck from which captive balloons will carry antennae far aloft when greater altitude is necessary. The blanketing effect of coastal mountains may thus be overcome.

The Courier should succeed in fouling up the radio jamming techniques of the Communists by merely keeping on the move. The ship should have great potential firepower of a new type. But it will be up to the crewmen in Washington to make it truly effective. According to congressmen who have toured Europe, the Voice of America to date has accomplished virtually nothing, and at great expense. The programs frequently have had a crackpot slant.

How To Keep Well

Coronary Aftermath

Coronary thrombosis is the granddaddy of all heart attacks. It is produced by obstruction of one of the arteries that supply the cardiac muscle with blood. Most victims are over 50 and many more men than women have suffered from the disease.

During the past decade the outlook has improved considerably and now 80 per cent or more survive the first attack. As a result a sizable number of persons belong to the mythical "I've had a coronary" club. The majority developed a coronary because of living under pressure and emotional tension. These men and women were always on the go, physically and mentally, and spent far too little time in relaxation and enjoyable living. For many, the attack offered an excuse thereafter to say no. They found it possible to do the things they wanted rather than adhere to the demands and dictates of others. In this respect, a coronary has certain compensating features.

However, the attack is a shock to the system and for some time thereafter the victim is concerned with his heart. This is natural but the reaction passes in time. From four to six months after the initial bout, the post-coronary syndrome may appear. This group of symptoms arises shortly after the individual attempts to return to his usual activities. The first sensation is a feeling of tightness or soreness in front of the chest. Then come shortness of breath, weakness, and fatigue. With the heart attack fresh in mind, the man begins to wonder whether the old ticker has healed and is as good as the physician claims. An anxiety mounts the syndrome becomes worse; some quit work or ask for a longer period of convalescence. This also aggravates the picture because it provides more time to brood and worry; the subject may conclude he is finished and never will be able to work again. This is particularly hard on the man or woman who never has been ill before.

The physician handles the problem by reassuring his patient that the syndrome is common and can be traced to the stress associated with renewed activity. The heart will behave in a more normal fashion following graduated exercises and continued muscular activity. After all, the syndrome has been an invalid for some time and this is the first opportunity the heart has had to buck up against the stress of everyday living.

It is necessary in most cases to modify the type of work and the conditions and hours of employment. The self-employed business or professional man should obtain an assistant or understudy and relegate to him the less important and more strenuous duties. By taking stock it may be possible to discover and eliminate the irritating influences that brought on the original coronary attack. In addition, the individual should guard against physical overexertion, prolonged hours of work, emotional tension, the pressure of deadlines, and anything else that interferes with regular meals, leisure hours, and vacations.

X-RAY AND STERILITY

B. Y. writes: A man had 14 X-ray treatments, as a child, for enlarged thymus. He has been married four years and his wife has not become pregnant. Could the X-rays have made him sterile?

REPLY

No, as X-rays were directed toward the thymus gland in the chest. Sterility has various causes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on the subject.

BLOOD VOLUME

B. T. writes: How much blood does a person in good health have?

REPLY

A man weighing 150 pounds would have 5 to 6 quarts, or one-thirteenth of the body weight.

HANGING APPENDIX

Mrs. G. writes: Does the appendix float?

REPLY

No. It hangs from the colon like the fingers on the hand when the arm is down.

LIKES 'EM RAW

Mrs. L. writes: My 12 year old prefers raw to cooked vegetables. Is she getting enough minerals and other food elements in this way?

REPLY

Yes, because cooking, if anything, subtracts rather than adds vitamins and minerals.

PYLOROSPASM

F. C. writes: What is meant by a stomach spasm in one who has a duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

The raw surface of the ulcer irritates the surrounding tissues, including the pyloric (exit) valve of the stomach. The effect is spasm, which may be more painful than the ulcer itself.

CURED TB

M. W. writes: Is it safe for a person with cured tuberculosis to be immunized against various diseases prior to taking a trip out of the country?

REPLY

Yes. At least, no evidence has been forthcoming that these universally approved agents have any harmful effect on such cases.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Another Unsafe Mine Operates In Illinois; Lewis May Order Men Out Of This Mine; President Truman Knew "Ike" Was Running

WASHINGTON—The same dangerous mine conditions which killed 119 miners at West Frankfort, Ill., also exist at Orient No. 3 mine 20 miles away, according to miners who work there. Both mines are owned by the same company.

It was a combination of escaping gases and explosive coal dust that blew up Orient No. 2 and a United Mine Workers safety committee has protested that Orient No. 3 at Waltonville, Ill., also could become a death trap and has warned that it should be shut down.

The safety inspectors found tunnels heavy with coal dust that had not been mixed with rock dust, though a 65 per cent mixture of rock dust is considered necessary to make the coal dust non-explosive. A 6-to 24-inch layer of coal dust was also discovered under the conveyer belts. In addition, no escapeway had been installed in the rear of the mine.

Despite all this, Illinois mine inspectors had already given Orient No. 3 a safe-to-operate permit.

While the federal government lacks the power to enforce its safety findings, John L. Lewis has the power, under his contract, to order men out of an unsafe mine. He is waiting to learn the outcome of a federal inspection before deciding what to do. Meanwhile miners say they have so many Christmas bills to pay they are willing to gamble their lives by continuing at Orient No. 3.

Available Ike

General Eisenhower's announcement that he was available as a Republican brought wide and interesting private reactions in Washington. Here are some of them:

CHURCHILL and TRUMAN — Were conferring when the general's Paris statement was handed them. Churchill raised his eyebrows eloquently. Truman grinned like a boy who's been keeping a secret. "I knew he was running and as a Republican," he confided.

INSIDE GOP NATIONAL COMMITTEE—"This means that Taft has real big league competition," was the private reaction of Chairman Guy Gabrielson. (Gabrielson has kept aloof from Taft's battle to corral delegates, which is why Taft wants him out)

Gabrielson opined privately that Taft would not be able to hold the majority of the convention delegates he now claims, also observed that Ike was not smart to let the Dewey professionals openly take over his drive for the nomination. (Dewey is not popular with GOP regulars).

DEWEY CAMP REACTION — Dewey's old manager, Herbert Brownell and New York National Committeeman Russell Sprague, are already busy lining up delegates. Both are shrewd politicians. Their ability should offset Dewey's unpopularity.

TAFT CAMP—The Taft brain trust will 1. Put out the idea that Ike is a Dewey "stooge"; 2. Predict that Dewey will be Ike's Secretary of State and adopt a Wall Street foreign policy; 3. Get General MacArthur to train the big guns on his old comrade-in-arms. MacArthur is especially burned up over Ike's slip that he was once MacArthur's ghost-writer and is itching to let loose with all he's got. (Ike wrote MacArthur's farewell to the Army when Mac retired as chief of staff—a stirring message).

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE REACTION — Regular Democratic leaders privately aren't happy about Ike's announcement. They have long wanted to help the Republicans nominate Taft, believe Taft would be the easiest Republican to beat. That long-range strategy began back in 1950 when Democratic bigwigs helped put a weak candidate, Jumpin' Joe Ferguson, up against Taft in the Ohio election. They wanted Taft kept in the Senate as the ultimate opponent against Truman.

KEFAUVER REACTION—The senator from Tennessee took Ike's announcement in his quiet stride, continued with plans to toss his coon-skin hat in the Presidential ring.

GOVERNOR WARREN — Chief Republican to benefit from the Eisenhower-Taft battle will be the governor of California. A deadlock between the two could put Warren in.

Truman And Ike

The President's remark to Churchill that he knew Ike would run as a Republican was based on two conversations which George Allen and Averell Harriman had with Eisenhower. To both, the general made it clear he would accept the GOP nomination if tendered.

Truman, in turn, sent word to Paris that he had no objection to Ike's running, in fact was glad to have an anti-isolationist Republican oppose Taft's isolationism. But the President said he hoped Eisenhower would remain on the job in Europe until the North Atlantic pact was working.

Capital Contrasts

New Hampshire's high-strung Senator Charles Tobey is so broken over his second wife's death that he can hardly talk without weeping. She died after a hip injury received while nursing him. Tobey broke into tears repeatedly as fellow senators came around to comfort him on the Senate's opening day . . . Shirley Temple has been giving her former movie friends the brush-off since she became the wife of Commander Charles Black, a Navy officer now stationed in Washington, D. C. When movie stars or producers pass through Washington, they can't even phone Shirley, must rely on telegrams to reach her. Even telegrams usually are ignored, however — with one notable exception — Shirley's former hair-dresser, Annabelle Levy. When Miss Levy came to Washington with the movie company filming Bob Pirosh's "Mr. Congressman," her telegram not only was answered, but Shirley dropped around in person to talk over old times.

Eisenhower's Silence

By MARK SULLIVAN

The effect Gen. Eisenhower's announcement will have on the Republican political situation is a chief subject of speculation by party leaders, the press, radio commentators, and without a doubt a considerable portion of the people. A natural starting point for this speculation is the effect on the movement to bring about the nomination of Gen. Eisenhower.

As to this, leaders of the Eisenhower movement are partly encouraged, yet somewhat disappointed. They are encouraged by Gen. Eisenhower's direct assertion that he is a Republican and that he is available for the nomination. Lack of assurance on these two points had been a handicap to the Eisenhower leaders. They had hoped, however, that the general would go farther, that he would announce himself as an active candidate for the nomination and would accompany the announcement with a formal statement of his views on public questions.

The latter point was obviously regarded as important by a principal Eisenhower leader, Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania. In answer to a question from a newsman on the "Reporters' Round-up" radio program last October, Sen. Duff said with a manner of confident expectation that an announcement by Gen. Eisenhower should be accompanied by a statement of his views. "I think he would insist upon doing it, that's the kind of man he is," he said.

Should State Views

Lack of a statement of views by Gen. Eisenhower will confront the Eisenhower leaders and workers at many turns. Republican voters who are solicitous to support Gen. Eisenhower for the Presidential nomination will ask, "What are Gen. Eisenhower's views?" It will not be enough for Eisenhower workers to cite views expressed by Gen. Eisenhower in past years. Decidedly it will not be enough, indeed it will be a detriment, if Eisenhower leaders purport to say what the general's views are. Invidious contrast will be made between the silence of Gen. Eisenhower and the forthright outspokenness of other candidates; Sen. Taft has expressed his views on the whole gamut of public questions, and Harold Stassen in announcing his candidacy recently gave out a statement of his views in especially comprehensive detail.

Lack of similar explicitness will work against Gen. Eisenhower in several ways. It will weaken the argument of those who work for his nomination. They will be put under some necessity for explanation. It will qualify support of him from important sources. "The San Francisco Chronicle" is glad Gen. Eisenhower has made himself available, and if he gets the nomination will support him in the election. But "The Chronicle" adds: "We would like to know more about where he stands . . . it will not be enough for friends, however close and however competent, to speak for him . . ." As for outright opponents of the general, they are given a handle. "The Chicago Tribune' 'is given opportunity to say, "The American people are asked to buy a pig in a poke.

Liable To Embarrassment

Throughout the campaign for the nomination, Gen. Eisenhower and his backers will be liable to many embarrassments. If any important leader of the Eisenhower movement, such as, for example, Sen. Duff or Sen. Lodge, expresses a view on a public question in the course of a Senate debate, there will be instant inquiry as to whether this reflects or coincides with the views of Gen. Eisenhower. Much debate in Congress may become dialectical exegesis.

What is going on as respects Gen. Eisenhower is a movement as distinguished from a candidacy, certainly this has been the case so far The activity of the heads of the movement until recently has been directed largely to extending the movement downward toward the grass roots. A considerable part of the purpose of this has been to make a demonstration which would convince Gen Eisenhower that there was large grass roots support for him and hence bring about willingness on his part to be a candidate. This has now been accomplished. While Gen. Eisenhower has not made himself a candidate as many of his backers wished, he has made himself available. From now on the task of the heads of the Eisenhower movements is to bring about selection of delegates in the same way that backers of an avowed candidate ordinarily do

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The "double talk" of the Churchill-Truman communique—some of it unavoidable because of world politics and some of it inevitable because of domestic politics in Britain—still leaves the American people in the dark as to just what the basic purpose was in the meeting of the President and the British prime minister.

Every subject mentioned in the joint statement could have been canvassed as well by American and British diplomats here and in London in the normal channels. This conference, it will be recalled, was sought not by President Truman but by Prime Minister Churchill, who came out of a close election campaign worried about the future of his parliamentary majority and well aware that he needed the prestige that a visit to the United States at this time could give him.

Mr. Churchill's forte in the past has been in his dealings with the top men in other governments. He still likes to give the British people the impression that he can accomplish, because of his standing in the world, more than any other man in England.

Fighting Communist Idea

Mr. Churchill, however, also had a few things to tackle in order to be able to fight back at the "left wing" in the British Labor party. For several months now what looks like a Communist-inspired idea has been accepted wtih some seriousness by the Labor party and other British groups. It is that the American government would go off "half cocked" some day and send her fliers out of British airfields to drop bombs on Russian cities without so much as telling the British government it intended to take such a step. Mr. Attlee was gullible enough to believe that such things could happen and actually asked for and obtained from Mr. Truman assurances on this point. But the Communists were not satisfied and kept up their propaganda line. Mr. Churchill's purpose has been to get rid of that problem altogether with a frank talk in Washington. The final phraseology of the communique on this point is interesting. It says:

"Under arrangements made for the common defense, the United States has the use of certain bases in the United Kingdom. We reaffirm the understanding that the use of these bases in an emergency would be a matter for joint decision by His Majesty's Government and the United States Government in the light of the circumstances prevailing at the time."

The foregoing simply means that, if an emergency arises, the American government, of course, will consult the British, and if Great Britain is being attacked by atom bombs, it is not to be doubted that instantly there will be retaliation both the British and American fliers based in England. The trans-Atlantic phones will settle that issue in a matter of minutes.

It is significant that the communique does not say much more on this subject than was said when Mr. Attlee was here in 1950. But nevertheless the Moscow propagandists have been assiduously spreading the idea that the United States might use her overseas bases to precipitate a war, particularly when the American armament program has reached its goals.

Nothing could be more ridiculous than the assumption being spread in Europe by the Communists that America has a "hair trigger" attitude toward war. For the fact is that the United States has not, in a single instance in modern times, moved into war except to resist an attack already initiated by a hostile power.

The remainder of the Truman-Churchill communique calls attention to a "complete identity of aims" in the Middle East, a four-power approach in Egypt as "the best prospect of relieving the present tension," and it expresses the hope that the plan of the World Bank will "lead to a solution of the Iranian oil problem acceptable to all the interests concerned."

Intervention Reaffirmed

What this means, in a nutshell, is that the United States has merely reaffirmed her diplomatic intervention in the Middle East and will accept responsibility along with the British in that area.

Every one of these points means added prestige for Mr. Churchill at home. He gets, moreover, a promise of scarce materials for British industry.

Now what did the prime minister give to America? He didn't agree on the standardization of the rifle nor on the grant of the Atlantic command to the United States Navy as General Eisenhower had requested. He probably will do so later, About the only thing that can be read between the lines of the communique is that America obtained a little better understanding concerning Far Eastern policy. Already in the House of Commons debates before Mr. Churchill left England there was a hint of a change.

The new communique states that both Britain and America "recognize that the over-riding need to counter the Communist threat in that area (the Far East) transcends such divergencies as there are in our policies towards China."

In a sense this merely means that recognition of Red China by the British will not affect the broader aspects of joint American-British programs in the Far East.

So, all in all, Mr. Churchill came away with plenty to strengthen his political situation at home—and the United States gets out of it what? A feeling that the governments of the two countries understand each other better now and that maybe Mr. Churchill will reassure Europe that the United States is interested in the defense of Europe not as a means of offense but as a secondary matter and that it is up to European countries themselves to begin to appreciate that the defense of Europe is primarily Europe's job.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Mighty Question

A very beautiful woman I know, who is supposed to be wholly ornamental, every once in a while knocks over her friends with a startling question which can only enter the mind of one not corrupted by too much learning. It is sheer good sense.

This time, a group of us were bemoaning the state of the world in a jam session on all matters from how to save mankind to the characteristics of Harry Truman and the mink, when this sweet child threw this into the session:

"What would happen if we could go back to 1914?"

That stopped us.

"What do you mean, go back?" I said petulantly.

Her point was that the world was fairly comfortable until we all went to war in 1914. So what would we be like if that had not happened?

I think the jam session ended with that one. Nobody dared face it. Yet, I could not keep that question out of my head for several days.

There had been no general war from 1815 to 1914. During that century, the material progress of the world had made greater strides than in any similar period in the whole of human history. It was the century of the application of steam, electricity, electronics. It was the era of the development of the electric light, the sewing machine, farm machinery, mass production in industry, the typewriter.

It was the time for the freeing of women from economic and political discrimination. Representative government appeared in an increasing number of countries. Education gradually ceased to be a monopoly of the rich; slavery was abolished in all forms in all countries in Europe and the Americas. New means of communications shortened time and space.

Spiritual values appeared in the law. Such bodies as the Hague tribunal and the International Red Cross came into existence. A vast volume of international law was written. Religious freedom was acknowledged and public outrage expressed itself in countless forms against injustice anywhere.

Then came World War I, a wholly meaningless and unwarranted war. Originating as a conflict between two processing nations, Great Britain and Germany, over markets, it ended in the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, the rise of fascism and nazism in Italy and Germany, the beginning of the break-up of the British empire and the emergence of the United States as the almoner of the world.

For the United States, it meant the increase of the size and function of government, the assumption of huge governmental costs and the adoption of the income tax, which reversed the economic and social character of this nation.

From 1914 to 1952, the United States moved from a free economy to a mixed economy, from the individual operating according to his will and judgment and at his risk to a government-regulated and at times controlled economy. This involved not only widespread use of subsidies, making an increased number of Americans dependent upon government, but it perforce levelled downward elements in the population to a general proletariat.

Because of economic dislocations arising out of war, often called depressions, states and municipalities became more and more dependent upon the federal government, which, having the advantage of the income and excise taxes, was able to tap larger reservoirs of the people's earnings. To these were added the various payroll taxes, which were sugar-coated by what has generally been called social security.

In fact, the economic and social system of the United States entered upon a form of Fabian socialism, somewhat inchoate because of the confusing admixtures of Marxism and Keynesian economics. Politically, it tended to a centralized national system, with increased powers for officials and a constant war as a means toward maintained a ruling group in power. Congress struggled against the psychological use or war as a weapon of control of our own people, and the Supreme Court was debased by unfit appointments.

Against this stood the inherent love of Americans for freedom; their strong insistence upon attending to their own affairs and resisting governmental interference; their continued belief in Congress as the center of our governmental system; and their enormous capacity for production in the face of adverse circumstances.

What would have happened to us and to the rest of the world if 1914 had not diverted us from a steady course of progress?

Who can really answer that question, but I am glad that it was asked. Perhaps if we stand on that point, our perspective as to our purposes and remedies may be more correct.

Ambassador To Russia

Little opposition is expected in the Senate to the nomination of George F. Kennan to succeed Admiral Alan G. Kirk as U. S. ambassador to Russia. Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said in an interview in Dallas on December 27 that he believed the nomination would be quickly approved by his committee and confirmed by the Senate. Connally added, however: "I don't have any special admiration for him."

Kennan, long an officer in the U. S. State Department, is generally credited with setting the foundations for present U. S. policy toward Russia. In an anonymous article in "Foreign Affairs" in 1947, signed only "X", Kennan stated: "It is clear that the main element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long-term, patient but firm and vigilant containment of Russian expansive tendencies."

Holding the line and hoping for the best, however, were not viewed by Kennan as the limits of American policy by any means. "It is entirely possible for the United States to influence by its actions the internal developments, both within Russia and throughout the international Communist movement, by which Russian policy is largely determined."

Relations between the United States and the Soviet regime in Russia have inevitably been influenced by the shifting attitudes of our diplomatic personnel. The ambassador in Moscow at the time of the Bolshevik revolution in November, 1917, was David R. Francis, who had been governor and the outstanding Democratic leader of Missouri. He has been described by Samuel Harper, who was engaged by the State Department to brief the new ambassador on Russia, as a "very blunt, outspoken American," whose "one apparent qualification for foreign service was the fact that he had been president of the St. Louis International Exposition of 1903."

The previous March Francis had recommended immediate U. S. recognition of the provisional government of Prince Lvoff. He refused to believe the Bolsheviks could retain the power they seized in November, and recommended that no action whatever be taken by the United States until the situation righted itself and the Reds were driven out of office. When informed that the Petrograd Soviet had named Lenin premier, Francis wrote: "Disgusting!—but the more ridiculous the situation, the sooner the remedy."

The views of Francis were not shared by William C. Bullitt, then a young Philadelphia journalist, who as an emissary of the State Department received a Soviet peace proposal in Moscow in March, 1919. "No government save a socialist government," Bullitt reported, "can be set up in Russia today except by foreign bayonets, and any governments so set up will fall the moment such support is withdrawn." The recognition Bullitt then recommended was not to be extended until November, 1933.

Ironically, Bullitt, named by President Roosevelt as U. S. ambassador to Moscow upon the resumption of relations, was to have his earlier enthusiasm for the Soviet regime destroyed by bitter disillusionment. Joseph E. Davies, who succeeded Bullitt in January, 1937, often expressed the conviction that the Soviet leaders were honest and sincere.

Relations with Russia remained on the whole friendly throughout World War II. But by 1947, according to Vera Micheles Dean, it had become apparent that the United States and Russia remained "sharply divided by differences in their internal systems, by clashes at strategic key points of the world, by Russia's fear of the atomic bomb, and by our renewed fear of communism."

Comfortable Present

Most Americans are looking back to see where they've been during the last year—and peering ahead to see, if they can, where they are going.

But where are we? Perhaps it would be a good idea to think about that before we start reviewing or forecasting.

Some data that has been collected by the College of Home Economics at Cornell University is interesting. The material came out of a conference held at Ithaca a few days ago. It is based on Census Bureau reports and on information furnished by industry. And it gives a stimulating if incomplete picture of living standards in this country.

Three out of four American homes are equipped with electric refrigerators, 68 per cent with washing machines, 52 per cent with vacuum cleaners and 87 per cent with electric irons. Two-thirds of all American families own cars and there is one car to every 3.1 persons. In Europe there is one car to 45 persons; in Asia, one car to 1,023.

Americans still work for what they get, although hours are short. One-third of the labor force is made up of women. More than half of American women are married, and the report suggests that more electrical appliances will make it possible for more American women to combine home-making with careers.

Meanwhile Americans are eating 13 per cent more food per capita than in the 1935-39 period. The American standard of living has been rising in every material way—and the report prophesies that it will continue to rise even though taxes will be higher.

There's the future, intruding again. There seems to be no stopping it.

The Seagoing Voice

A classic thumbnail description of a battleship is a "mobile gun-platform"; of a carrier, a "mobile airfield." Similarly it will be accurate to call a former Navy cargo ship a mobile broadcasting station.

The ship, renamed the Courier, will soon be sailing with a Coast Guard crew for the State Department's Voice of America. Its projectiles will take the form of messages to populations behind the iron curtain. The propellent is not gunpowder but a huge transmitter fed by 1,500,000 watts of electrical energy.

It's a bold and imaginative idea—this transmitter capable of moving about the watery world and turning its broadsides loose at will. The ship's antennae at mast height can be expected to work at good, long ranges. But there is also what is called a flight deck from which captive balloons will carry antennae far aloft when greater altitude is necessary. The blanketing effect of coastal mountains may thus be overcome.

The Courier should succeed in fouling up the radio jamming techniques of the Communists by merely keeping on the move. The ship should have great potential firepower of a new type. But it will be up to the crewmen in Washington to make it truly effective. According to congressmen who have toured Europe, the Voice of America to date has accomplished virtually nothing, and at great expense. The programs frequently have had a crackpot slant.

Coronary Aftermath

Coronary thrombosis is the granddaddy of all heart attacks. It is produced by obstruction of one of the arteries that supply the cardiac muscle with blood. Most victims are over 50 and many more men than women have suffered from the disease.

During the past decade the outlook has improved considerably and now 80 per cent or more survive the first attack. As a result a sizable number of persons belong to the mythical "I've had a coronary" club. The majority developed a coronary because of living under pressure and emotional tension. These men and women were always on the go, physically and mentally, and spent far too little time in relaxation and enjoyable living. For many, the attack offered an excuse thereafter to say no. They found it possible to do the things they wanted rather than adhere to the demands and dictates of others. In this respect, a coronary has certain compensating features.

However, the attack is a shock to the system and for some time thereafter the victim is concerned with his heart. This is natural but the reaction passes in time. From four to six months after the initial bout, the post-coronary syndrome may appear. This group of symptoms arises shortly after the individual attempts to return to his usual activities. The first sensation is a feeling of tightness or soreness in front of the chest. Then come shortness of breath, weakness, and fatigue. With the heart attack fresh in mind, the man begins to wonder whether the old ticker has healed and is as good as the physician claims. An anxiety mounts the syndrome becomes worse; some quit work or ask for a longer period of convalescence. This also aggravates the picture because it provides more time to brood and worry; the subject may conclude he is finished and never will be able to work again. This is particularly hard on the man or woman who never has been ill before.

The physician handles the problem by reassuring his patient that the syndrome is common and can be traced to the stress associated with renewed activity. The heart will behave in a more normal fashion following graduated exercises and continued muscular activity. After all, the syndrome has been an invalid for some time and this is the first opportunity the heart has had to buck up against the stress of everyday living.

It is necessary in most cases to modify the type of work and the conditions and hours of employment. The self-employed business or professional man should obtain an assistant or understudy and relegate to him the less important and more strenuous duties. By taking stock it may be possible to discover and eliminate the irritating influences that brought on the original coronary attack. In addition, the individual should guard against physical overexertion, prolonged hours of work, emotional tension, the pressure of deadlines, and anything else that interferes with regular meals, leisure hours, and vacations.

X-RAY AND STERILITY

B. Y. writes: A man had 14 X-ray treatments, as a child, for enlarged thymus. He has been married four years and his wife has not become pregnant. Could the X-rays have made him sterile?

While the federal government lacks the power to enforce its safety findings, John L. Lewis has the power, under his contract, to order men out of an unsafe mine. He is waiting to learn the outcome of a federal inspection before deciding what to do. Available Ike

General Eisenhower's announcement that he was available as a Republican brought wide and interesting private reactions in Washington. Here are some of them:

CHURCHILL and TRUMAN — Were conferring when the general's Paris statement was handed them. Churchill raised his eyebrows eloquently. Truman grinned like a boy who's been keeping a secret. "I knew he was running and as a Republican," he confided.

TAFT CAMP—The Taft brain trust will 1. Put out the idea that Ike is a Dewey "stooge"; 2. Predict that Dewey will be Ike's Secretary of State and adopt a Wall Street foreign policy; 3. Get General MacArthur to train the big guns on his old comrade-in-arms. MacArthur is especially burned up over Ike's slip that he was once MacArthur's ghost-writer and is itching to let loose with all he's got. (Ike wrote MacArthur's farewell to the Army when Mac retired as chief of staff—a stirring message).

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE REACTION — Regular Democratic leaders privately aren't happy about Ike's announcement. They have long wanted to help the Republicans nominate Taft, believe Taft would be the easiest Republican to beat. That long-range strategy began back in 1950 when Democratic bigwigs helped put a weak candidate, Jumpin' Joe Ferguson, up against Taft in the Ohio election. They wanted Taft kept in the Senate as the ultimate opponent against Truman.

KEFAUVER REACTION—The senator from Tennessee took Ike's announcement in his quiet stride, continued with plans to toss his coon-skin hat in the Presidential ring.

GOVERNOR WARREN — Chief Republican to benefit from the Eisenhower-Taft battle will be the governor of California. A deadlock between the two could put Warren in.

Truman And Ike

The President's remark to Churchill that he knew Ike would run as a Republican was based on two conversations which George Allen and Averell Harriman had with Eisenhower. To both, the general made it clear he would accept the GOP nomination if tendered.

Truman, in turn, sent word to Paris that he had no objection to Ike's running, in fact was glad to have an anti-isolationist Republican oppose Taft's isolationism. But the President said he hoped Eisenhower would remain on the job in Europe until the North Atlantic pact was working.

Capital Contrasts

New Hampshire's high-strung Senator Charles Tobey is so broken over his second wife's death that he can hardly talk without weeping. She died after a hip injury received while nursing him. Tobey broke into tears repeatedly as fellow senators came around to comfort him on the Senate's opening day . . . Shirley Temple has been giving her former movie friends the brush-off since she became the wife of Commander Charles Black, a Navy officer now stationed in Washington, D. C. When movie stars or producers pass through Washington, they can't even phone Shirley, must rely on telegrams to reach her. Even telegrams usually are ignored, however — with one notable exception — Shirley's former hair-dresser, Annabelle Levy. When Miss Levy came to Washington with the movie company filming Bob Pirosh's "Mr. Congressman," her telegram not only was answered, but Shirley dropped around in person to talk over old times.

Eisenhower's Silence

By MARK SULLIVAN

The effect Gen. Eisenhower's announcement will have on the Republican political situation is a chief subject of speculation by party leaders, the press, radio commentators, and without a doubt a considerable portion of the people. A natural starting point for this speculation is the effect on the movement to bring about the nomination of Gen. Eisenhower.

As to this, leaders of the Eisenhower movement are partly encouraged, yet somewhat disappointed. They are encouraged by Gen. Eisenhower's direct assertion that he is a Republican and that he is available for the nomination. Lack of assurance on these two points had been a handicap to the Eisenhower leaders. They had hoped, however, that the general would go farther, that he would announce himself as an active candidate for the nomination and would accompany the announcement with a formal statement of his views on public questions.

The latter point was obviously regarded as important by a principal Eisenhower leader, Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania. In answer to a question from a newsman on the "Reporters' Round-up" radio program last October, Sen. Duff said with a manner of confident expectation that an announcement by Gen. Eisenhower should be accompanied by a statement of his views. "I think he would insist upon doing it, that's the kind of man he is," he said.

Should State Views

Lack of a statement of views by Gen. Eisenhower will confront the Eisenhower leaders and workers at many turns. Republican voters who are solicitous to support Gen. Eisenhower for the Presidential nomination will ask, "What are Gen. Eisenhower's views?" It will not be enough for Eisenhower workers to cite views expressed by Gen. Eisenhower in past years. Decidedly it will not be enough, indeed it will be a detriment, if Eisenhower leaders purport to say what the general's views are. Invidious contrast will be made between the silence of Gen. Eisenhower and the forthright outspokenness of other candidates; Sen. Taft has expressed his views on the whole gamut of public questions, and Harold Stassen in announcing his candidacy recently gave out a statement of his views in especially comprehensive detail.

Lack of similar explicitness will work against Gen. Eisenhower in several ways. It will weaken the argument of those who work for his nomination. They will be put under some necessity for explanation. It will qualify support of him from important sources. "The San Francisco Chronicle" is glad Gen. Eisenhower has made himself available, and if he gets the nomination will support him in the election. But "The Chronicle" adds: "We would like to know more about where he stands . . . it will not be enough for friends, however close and however competent, to speak for him . . ." As for outright opponents of the general, they are given a handle. "The Chicago Tribune' 'is given opportunity to say, "The American people are asked to buy a pig in a poke.

Liable To Embarrassment

Throughout the campaign for the nomination, Gen. Eisenhower and his backers will be liable to many embarrassments. If any important leader of the Eisenhower movement, such as, for example, Sen. Duff or Sen. Lodge, expresses a view on a public question in the course of a Senate debate, there will be instant inquiry as to whether this reflects or coincides with the views of Gen. Eisenhower. Much debate in Congress may become dialectical exegesis.

What is going on as respects Gen. Eisenhower is a movement as distinguished from a candidacy, certainly this has been the case so far. The activity of the heads of the movement until recently has been directed largely to extending the movement downward toward the grass roots. A considerable part of the purpose of this has been to make a demonstration which would convince Gen Eisenhower that there was large grass roots support for him and hence bring about willingness on his part to be a candidate. This has now been accomplished. While Gen. Eisenhower has not made himself a candidate as many of his backers wished, he has made himself available. From now on the task of the heads of the Eisenhower movements is to bring about selection of delegates in the same way that backers of an avowed candidate ordinarily do

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The "double talk" of the Churchill-Truman communique—some of it unavoidable because of world politics and some of it inevitable because of domestic politics in Britain—still leaves the American people in the dark as to just what the basic purpose was in the meeting of the President and the British prime minister.

Every subject mentioned in the joint statement could have been canvassed as well by American and British diplomats here and in London in the normal channels. This conference, it will be recalled, was sought not by President Truman but by Prime Minister Churchill, who came out of a close election campaign worried about the future of his parliamentary majority and well aware that he needed the prestige that a visit to the United States at this time could give him.

Mr. Churchill's forte in the past has been in his dealings with the top men in other governments. He still likes to give the British people the impression that he can accomplish, because of his standing in the world, more than any other man in England.

Fighting Communist Idea

Mr. Churchill, however, also had a few things to tackle in order to be able to fight back at the "left wing" in the British Labor party. For several months now what looks like a Communist-inspired idea has been accepted wtih some seriousness by the Labor party and other British groups. It is that the American government would go off "half cocked" some day and send her fliers out of British airfields to drop bombs on Russian cities without so much as telling the British government it intended to take such a step. Mr. Attlee was gullible enough to believe that such things could happen and actually asked for and obtained from Mr. Truman assurances on this point. But the Communists were not satisfied and kept up their propaganda line. Mr. Churchill's purpose has been to get rid of that problem altogether with a frank talk in Washington. The final phraseology of the communique on this point is interesting. It says:

"Under arrangements made for the common defense, the United States has the use of certain bases in the United Kingdom. We reaffirm the understanding that the use of these bases in an emergency would be a matter for joint decision by His Majesty's Government and the United States Government in the light of the circumstances prevailing at the time."

The foregoing simply means that, if an emergency arises, the American government, of course, will consult the British, and if Great Britain is being attacked by atom bombs, it is not to be doubted that instantly there will be retaliation both the British and American fliers based in England. The trans-Atlantic phones will settle that issue in a matter of minutes.

It is significant that the communique does not say much more on this subject than was said when Mr. Attlee was here in 1950. But nevertheless the Moscow propagandists have been assiduously spreading the idea that the United States might use her overseas bases to precipitate a war, particularly when the American armament program has reached its goals.

Nothing could be more ridiculous than the assumption being spread in Europe by the Communists that America has a "hair trigger" attitude toward war. For the fact is that the United States has not, in a single instance in modern times, moved into war except to resist an attack already initiated by a hostile power.

The remainder of the Truman-Churchill communique calls attention to a "complete identity of aims" in the Middle East, a four-power approach in Egypt as "the best prospect of relieving the present tension," and it expresses the hope that the plan of the World Bank will "lead to a solution of the Iranian oil problem acceptable to all the interests concerned."

Intervention Reaffirmed

What this means, in a nutshell, is that the United States has merely reaffirmed her diplomatic intervention in the Middle East and will accept responsibility along with the British in that area.

Every one of these points means added prestige for Mr. Churchill at home. He gets, moreover, a promise of scarce materials for British industry.

Now what did the prime minister give to America? He didn't agree on the standardization of the rifle nor on the grant of the Atlantic command to the United States Navy as General Eisenhower had requested. He probably will do so later. About the only thing that can be read between the lines of the communique is that America obtained a little better understanding concerning Far Eastern policy. Already in the House of Commons debates before Mr. Churchill left England there was a hint of a change.

The new communique states that both Britain and America "recognize that the over-riding need to counter the Communist threat in that area (the Far East) transcends such divergencies as there are in our policies towards China."

In a sense this merely means that recognition of Red China by the British will not affect the broader aspects of joint American-British programs in the Far East.

So, all in all, Mr. Churchill came away with plenty to strengthen his political situation at home—and the United States gets out of it what? A feeling that the governments of the two countries understand each other better now and that maybe Mr. Churchill will reassure Europe that the United States is interested in the defense of Europe not as a means of offense but as a secondary matter and that it is up to European countries themselves to begin to appreciate that the defense of Europe is primarily Europe's job.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Mighty Question

A very beautiful woman I know, who is supposed to be wholly ornamental, every once in a while knocks over her friends with a startling question which can only enter the mind of one not corrupted by too much learning. It is sheer good sense.

This time, a group of us were bemoaning the state of the world in a jam session on all matters from how to save mankind to the characteristics of Harry Truman and the mink, when this sweet child threw this into the session:

"What would happen if we could go back to 1914?"

That stopped us.

"What do you mean, go back?" I said petulantly.

Her point was that the world was fairly comfortable until we all went to war in 1914. So what would we be like if that had not happened?

I think the jam session ended with that one. Nobody dared face it. Yet, I could not keep that question out of my head for several days.

There had been no general war from 1815 to 1914. During that century, the material progress of the world had made greater strides than in any similar period in the whole of human history. It was the century of the application of steam, electricity, electronics. It was the era of the development of the electric light, the sewing machine, farm machinery, mass production in industry, the typewriter.

It was the time for the freeing of women from economic and political discrimination. Representative government appeared in an increasing number of countries. Education gradually ceased to be a monopoly of the rich; slavery was abolished in all forms in all countries in Europe and the Americas. New means of communications shortened time and space.

Spiritual values appeared in the law. Such bodies as the Hague tribunal and the International Red Cross came into existence. A vast volume of international law was written. Religious freedom was acknowledged and public outrage expressed itself in countless forms against injustice anywhere.

Then came World War I, a wholly meaningless and unwarranted war. Originating as a conflict between two processing nations, Great Britain and Germany, over markets, it ended in the Bolshevik revolution in Russia, the rise of fascism and nazism in Italy and Germany, the beginning of the break-up of the British empire and the emergence of the United States as the almoner of the world.

For the United States, it meant the increase of the size and function of government, the assumption of huge governmental costs and the adoption of the income tax, which reversed the economic and social character of this nation.

From 1914 to 1952, the United States moved from a free economy to a mixed economy, from the individual operating according to his will and judgment and at his risk to a government-regulated and at times controlled economy. This involved not only widespread use of subsidies, making an increased number of Americans dependent upon government, but it perforce levelled downward elements in the population to a general proletariat.

Because of economic dislocations arising out of war, often called depressions, states and municipalities became more and more dependent upon the federal government, which, having the advantage of the income and excise taxes, was able to tap larger reservoirs of the people's earnings. To these were added the various payroll taxes, which were sugar-coated by what has generally been called social security.

In fact, the economic and social system of the United States entered upon a form of Fabian socialism, somewhat inchoate because of the confusing admixtures of Marxism and Keynesian economics. Politically, it tended to a centralized national system, with increased powers for officials and a constant war as a means toward maintained a ruling group in power. Congress struggled against the psychological use or war as a weapon of control of our own people, and the Supreme Court was debased by unfit appointments.

Against this stood the inherent love of Americans for freedom; their strong insistence upon attending to their own affairs and resisting governmental interference; their continued belief in Congress as the center of our governmental system; and their enormous capacity for production in the face of adverse circumstances.

What would have happened to us and to the rest of the world if 1914 had not diverted us from a steady course of progress?

Who can really answer that question, but I am glad that it was asked. Perhaps if we stand on that point, our perspective as to our purposes and remedies may be more correct.

Branch AAUW Has Program, Group Meetings Announced

Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women held a general meeting and had an entertainment program, at the public library. Mrs. John A. Cupler II, presided. Two meetings were announced. Various chairmen reports were read.

The International Relations Group with Dr. Hazel G. Ramsey chairman, will meet at the home of Mrs. Alice McGuire, 821 Gephart Drive, January 16, with Mrs. McGuire and Mrs. Arleen Russell hostesses. Boxes are to be packed to be sent abroad and there will be a discussion on "'Egypt," led by Mrs. A. L. Rogers.

January 21 the Great Books Group will meet at the home of Mrs. T. M. Andrews, 502 Rose Hill Avenue. The book for discussion is "Clouds" by Aristophanes.

Dr. David Nuzum of Potomac State School, Keyser, was the speaker Wednesday evening. His subject was one of the 100 "Great Books," Provost's "'Manon Lescaut." He gave a brief sketch of the life of the author, Antoise Francois Provost, who was a French novelist, born 1697 and died 1763. He lived much of his life in England; was a Benedictine abbe, who left the church and later returned to it.

"Manon Lescaut" is a love story, the love of Chevalier Besgrieux and Manon, he said. The setting is mostly in France and is a series of ups and downs, which included prison, poverty and ended in America in tragedy, but never destroyed their love. Dr. Nuzum pointed out that the theme is "love is more powerful than grandeur or fame and the book affords the reader to see the French approach to romance as it was 200 years ago."

A round table panel discussion of the book followed the review. It was led by Mrs. Aden L. Everstine, Mrs. Jack Q. Heath, Mrs. Ralph Webster, Mrs. Robert King, Mrs. G. Morgan Smith and Dr. Nuzum as the panel with the audience taking part in the discussion.

Mrs. Albert Eskin was soloist, she sang two arias from Massenet's opera, "Manon," accompanying herself.

Women of the Moose, Chapter 914 will hold a games party at 1:30 Monday afternoon for the benefit of the lodge. It is to be at the home, and the public is invited.

Recent Bride Entertained By Friends

Miss Doris Brown and Miss Elva Jean Taylor were hostesses for a linen shower and post nuptial party in compliment to Mrs. John Mullan. It was held at the former's home, 30 Arch Street, Thursday evening.

The honor guest is the former Miss Marie Hobell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hobell, 15 Arch Street. She became the bride of Seaman John Mullan, Great Lakes, Ill., son of Mrs. Harry Reeves, Sr., Westernport, December 25. Rev. Donald F. Brake officiated at the ceremony in the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran Church.

Shower gifts were arranged on a table, decorated with white and centered with a miniature lady in blue and a blue umbrella. Above it was suspended a blue shower can with a cascade of white ribbon falling over the gifts. The same motif was repeated in the refreshment table, which was centered with a lady in blue and had candelabra of blue tapers at either end.

Guests were Mrs. O. O. Brown, Mrs. Robert Hobell, Mrs. Edward F. Mullan, Jr., Mrs. John Squires, Mrs. Margaret Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Collins, Mrs Elda Scott, Mrs. Melvin Daniels, Mrs. Ethel Kesner, Mrs William Stewart and Miss Janet Matlick.

4-H Clothing School To Open January 22

A six weeks Clothing School for 4-H Clothing leaders will begin January 22 in the home demonstration office. It is to be each Tuesday except February 13, because of Lincoln's birthday.

Miss Thelma J. Allin, assistant home demonstration agent, will give illustrative material and discuss fitting problems as outlined in a recent fitting school held at Frederick.

Registrations are to be made by January 18. Each 4-H club should be represented and demonstrations or clothing work meetings will be held later at club sessions.

Social Chart

Allegany Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association will meet at 7:30 Monday in Club Room 1, second floor of Central YMCA, instead of having the usual dinner meeting. New members will be accepted at this time.

Jr. Civic Club Sponsors Orchestra, Art Contest

Covered Dish Supper To Be Held January 27

SS. Peter and Paul Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring a covered dish supper January 27. It is to be held in the school cafeteria from 4 until 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Karl Grabenstein and Mrs. Sarah Kelly are co-chairmen of arrangements.

Their committee is composed of the home room mothers, and includes Mrs. Thomas Cumisky, Mrs. Edward Dressman, Mrs. James Dressman, Mrs. Charles Offutt, Mrs. Donald Stillwagon, Mrs. Romanus Helmstetter, Mrs. John Wolfhope, and Mrs. Edward Kegg.

They are being assisted by Mrs. Ann Parsons, Mrs. Leroy Zarger, Mrs. Edward Brookman and Mrs. James Reinhart.

Personals

Mrs. John Lowery, Ellerslie, is a surgical patient in Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. George G. Young, Washington-Lee Apartments, is reported in a satisfactory condition in Memorial Hospital, where she is a patient.

Mrs. Ida Pearl Harris, 151 Green Street, Frostburg, wife of Deputy Sheriff George M. Harris, will undergo surgery this morning at Memorial Hospital.

A rummage sale will be held by Group 4, Central Methodist Church, January 15 from 4 until 8 p. m., in the rear of the church.

Flintstone Homemakers will meet at 7:30 tonight at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Ash.

◆ Plans for a full schedule of activities were formulated at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, at the Girl Scout house. Miss Jane Harris presided.

Further plans were formulated for sponsoring the Cumberland Civic Orchestra. Persons are to be contacted for associate members and patrons as well as for advertisements. The entire membership is working on the project. Mrs. Jean Smith and Mrs. Betty Lou Norris are general chairmen; Miss Carol Hill, Mrs. Phyllis MacVeigh, business managers; Mrs. Divie Thompson, Advertising chairman; Miss Norma Avers, Mrs. Joy Douglas Layout chairmen; Miss Virginia Harmison, Patron chairman and Miss Betsy McCaine, Associate Members chairman.

The club also is going to sponsor locally an art contest for children up to 18 years of age. The paintings are on "American Life" in the junior high and high schools. A state wide contest is being sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The contest, which has never been held here before, is to be this month and next with March 1 the deadline for entries. Miss Norma Avers, chairman of the Fine Arts committee is handling the contest.

Books are being collected by the group for the governor's library. The collection is for histories or other books on Maryland and the books may either be new or used. Anyone wishing to contribute is asked to contact any member of the club. Stressing the blood bank, some members volunteered as donors and others to serve as nurses' aids. Members also are helping the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary with the benefit card party it is holding January 28 at the Masonic Temple. They will be assistant hostesses.

Lewis D. Baldwin, investment concilor, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Securities as Investment." Urging to "let your money work for you," the speaker warned against investments not under the control of the federal Banking and Finance laws and suggested his audience, "start saving now."

Concluding the evening refreshments were served with Mrs. Betty Buchanan, Mrs. Kay Pellerzi and Miss Norma Cole as hostesses. Thirty members attended.

Minter Wins Series, Other Places Tie

S. Russ Minter won the Fort Cumberland Hotel special series of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, while 92 duplicate bridge players took part in the A, B and C sections of Master Point Night.

Mr. Minter nosed out George C. Ward for first place honors; third place was tied by Dr. and Mrs. Paul Castelle and fifth was a tie between Mrs. George Battorf and Norman Taylor. Over 450 players took part in the six weeks series.

In Section A, North and South winners were first place, Miss Rose Jackson, Mrs. Fred Puderbaugh; second, Mr. and Mrs. George Battorf; third Dr. and Mrs. Castelle; fourth, Mrs. Gladys Grove and Mrs. Fuller Whitworth. East and West first place were Robert Dezen, Richard Schwab; second, Miss Ann Griffith, George Lyming; third, Mrs. Ralph Nevy, Mrs. Henrietta Snyder; fourth, Mrs. Clyde Rowe, and Hugo Keller.

Section B, North and South first place winners were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Paddleford; second, Mrs. Fred Mills, Mrs. Eugene Gunning; third, Mrs. Sylvia Schwab, Mrs. Paul Steinberg; fourth, Mr. and Mrs. James Weber. East and West first place winners were Norman Taylor, George Ward; second, Miss Louise Zihlman, Mrs. Gerard Everstine; third, Harry Oss, Henry Growden; fourth, H. C. Shores, Jacob Shearer.

Section C winners were North and South first, Wellington Reinhart, A. D. Heacox; second, Dr. Frank Davis, C. William Gilchrist; third, Thomas Cumisky, Miss Alice Stakem; fourth, Stanley Bultin, Nelson Marain. East and West winners, were first, Mr. Minter and Harry Hast; second, a tie between Mrs. Jennie Shearer, Mrs. Rosinne Kaplon; third, Mrs. Helen Caldwell, Clyde Rowe; fourth, Ben Franklin and George Hetzel.

Miss Doris Brown and Miss Elva Jean Taylor were hostesses for a linen shower and post nuptial party in compliment to Mrs. John Mullan. It was held at the former's home, 30 Arch Street, Thursday evening.

The honor guest is the former Miss Marie Hobell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hobell, 15 Arch Street. She became the bride of Seaman John Mullan, Great Lakes, Ill., son of Mrs. Harry Reeves, Sr., Westernport, December 25. Rev. Donald F. Brake officiated at the ceremony in the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran Church.

Shower gifts were arranged on a table, decorated with white and centered with a miniature lady in blue and a blue umbrella. Above it was suspended a blue shower can with a cascade of white ribbon falling over the gifts. The same motif was repeated in the refreshment table, which was centered with a lady in blue and had candelabra of blue tapers at either end.

Guests were Mrs. O. O. Brown, Mrs. Robert Hobell, Mrs. Edward F. Mullan, Jr., Mrs. John Squires, Mrs. Margaret Taylor, Mrs. Thomas Collins, Mrs Elda Scott, Mrs. Melvin Daniels, Mrs. Ethel Kesner, Mrs. William Stewart and Miss Janet Matlick.

4-H Clothing School To Open January 22

A six weeks Clothing School for 4-H Clothing leaders will begin January 22 in the home demonstration office. It is to be each Tuesday except February 13, because of Lincoln's birthday.

Miss Thelma J. Allin, assistant home demonstration agent, will give illustrative material and discuss fitting problems as outlined in a recent fitting school held at Frederick.

Registrations are to be made by January 18. Each 4-H club should be represented and demonstrations or clothing work meetings will be held later at club sessions.

Social Chart

Allegany Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association will meet at 7:30 Monday in Club Room 1, second floor of Central YMCA, instead of having the usual dinner meeting. New members will be accepted at this time.

A rummage sale will be held by Group 4, Central Methodist Church, January 15 from 4 until 8 p. m., in the rear of the church.

Flintstone Homemakers will meet at 7:30 tonight at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Ash.

Plans for a full schedule of activities were formulated at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, at the Girl Scout house. Miss Jane Harris presided.

Further plans were formulated for sponsoring the Cumberland Civic Orchestra. Persons are to be contacted for associate members and patrons as well as for advertisements. The entire membership is working on the project. Mrs. Jean Smith and Mrs. Betty Lou Norris are general chairmen; Miss Carol Hill, Mrs. Phyllis MacVeigh, business managers; Mrs. Divie Thompson, Advertising chairman; Miss Norma Avers, Mrs. Joy Douglas Layout chairmen; Miss Virginia Harmison, Patron chairman and Miss Betsy McCaine, Associate Members chairman.

The club also is going to sponsor locally an art contest for children up to 18 years of age The paintings are on "American Life" in the junior high and high schools. A state wide contest is being sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The contest, which has never been held here before, is to be this month and next with March 1 the deadline for entries. Miss Norma Avers, chairman of the Fine Arts committee is handling the contest.

Books are being collected by the group for the governor's library The collection is for histories or other books on Maryland and the books may either be new or used. Anyone wishing to contribute is asked to contact any member of the club. Stressing the blood bank, some members volunteered as donors and others to serve as nurses' aids. Members also are helping the Memorial Hospital Auxiliary with the benefit card party it is holding January 28 at the Masonic Temple. They will be assistant hostesses.

Lewis D. Baldwin, investment concilor, was the guest speaker. His topic was "Securities as Investment." Urging to "let your money work for you," the speaker warned against investments not under the control of the federal Banking and Finance laws and suggested his audience, "start saving now."

Concluding the evening refreshments were served with Mrs. Betty Buchanan, Mrs. Kay Pellerzi and Miss Norma Cole as hostesses. Thirty members attended.

Branch AAUW Has Program, Group Meetings Announced

Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women held a general meeting and had an entertainment program, at the public library. Mrs. John A. Cupler II, presided. Two meetings were announced. Various chairmen reports were read.

The International Relations Group with Dr. Hazel G. Ramsey chairman, will meet at the home of Mrs. Alice McGuire, 821 Gephart Drive, January 16, with Mrs. McGuire and Mrs. Arleen Russell hostesses. Boxes are to be packed to be sent abroad and there will be a discussion on "Egypt," led by Mrs. A. L. Rogers.

January 21 the Great Books Group will meet at the home of Mrs. T. M. Andrews, 502 Rose Hill Avenue. The book for discussion is "Clouds" by Aristophanes.

Dr. David Nuzum of Potomac State School, Keyser, was the speaker Wednesday evening. His subject was one of the 100 "Great Books," Provost's "Manon Lescaut." He gave a brief sketch of the life of the author, Antoise Francois Provost, who was a French novelist, born 1697 and died 1763. He lived much of his life in England; was a Benedictine abbe, who left the church and later returned to it.

"Manon Lescaut" is a love story, the love of Chevalier Besgrieux and Manon, he said. The setting is mostly in France and is a series of ups and downs, which included prison, poverty and ended in America in tragedy, but never destroyed their love. Dr. Nuzum pointed out that the theme is "love is more powerful than grandeur or fame and the book affords the reader to see the French approach to romance as it was 200 years ago."

A round table panel discussion of the book followed the review. It was led by Mrs. Aden L. Everstine, Mrs. Jack Q. Heath, Mrs. Ralph Webster, Mrs. Robert King, Mrs. G. Morgan Smith and Dr. Nuzum as the panel with the audience taking part in the discussion.

Mrs. Albert Eskin was soloist, she sang two arias from Massenet's opera, "Manon," accompanying herself.

Women of the Moose, Chapter 914 will hold a games party at 1:30 Monday afternoon for the benefit of the lodge. It is to be at the home, and the public is invited.

Part of this DEBT is YOURS

No, not the national debt. That is merely a financial obligation, and you already know that part of it is yours. What is meant is the service debt that you owe to your family and to society.

The Church shown here is one of thousands which are carrying the load of responsibility for a better kind of citizenship, for international peace, and for the greater acceptance of those higher values which alone can lead people into the better life and save the world from destroying itself.

No matter what your estimate of this or that church may be, the fact is that in the Church, and in the Bible which is its written word, lies the world's one hope.

Every responsible person owes a part of civilization's debt to the Church. For the sake of your children—for the sake of humanity—for your own sake—why not take an interest in the Church? Let's give religion a chance to do what it will do when today's unchurched millions are added to the forces for good already at work.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Part of this DEBT is YOURS

No, not the national debt. That is merely a financial obligation, and you already know that part of it is yours. What is meant is the service debt that you owe to your family and to society.

The Church shown here is one of thousands which are carrying the load of responsibility for a better kind of citizenship, for international peace, and for the greater acceptance of those higher values which alone can lead people into the better life and save the world from destroying itself.

No matter what your estimate of this or that church may be, the fact is that in the Church, and in the Bible which is its written word, lies the world's one hope.

Every responsible person owes a part of civilization's debt to the Church. For the sake of your children—for the sake of humanity—for your own sake—why not take an interest in the Church? Let's give religion a chance to do what it will do when today's unchurched millions are added to the forces for good already at work.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

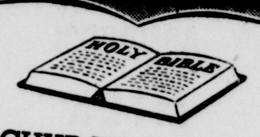
Part of this DEBT is YOURS

No, not the national debt. That is merely a financial obligation, and you already know that part of it is yours. What is meant is the service debt that you owe to your family and to society.

The Church shown here is one of thousands which are carrying the load of responsibility for a better kind of citizenship, for international peace, and for the greater acceptance of those higher values which alone can lead people into the better life and save the world from destroying itself.

No matter what your estimate of this or that church may be, the fact is that in the Church, and in the Bible which is its written word, lies the world's one hope.

Every responsible person owes a part of civilization's debt to the Church. For the sake of your children—for the sake of humanity—for your own sake—why not take an interest in the Church? Let's give religion a chance to do what it will do when today's unchurched millions are added to the forces for good already at work.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fort Hill, Allegany, Bruce Capture WMI League Openers

Sentinels Bag 41-33 Tilt At Central; AHS Trims Barton, 73-57

Fort Hill High School's Sentinels, defending champions, defeated Central High at Lonaconing, 41-33, Allegany High School trounced Barton High School, at Barton, 73-57, and Bruce High School edged Beall High of Frostburg in an overtime thriller at Westernport, 43-40, as the W. M. I. Basketball League launched its 32nd season last night.

In the contest at 'Coney, Johnny Meyers' Tigers held the Hilltoppers to an 18-17 score in the first half, led at the end of the third period, 27-22, then lost the ball game in the closing minutes of play. Central was leading with two minutes to go when Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's quint turned on the heat.

Two Rack Up 29 Points

John Poling and George McGregor accounted for 29 of Fort Hill's 41 points. Richard Waddell and Billy Robertson were outstanding for the Orange and Black.

Dave Ritter and Harold Hull of Fort Hill and Waddell were ejected on personal fouls.

Allegany collected 31 field goals and meshed 11 of 20 free throws in crushing the Braves on Barton's court.

Coach Walter Bowers' Campers hooped more than 50 per cent of their shots and held the lead from starting to final gun. The quarter scores were 18-11, 28-24 and 56-36.

Eversole Scores 23

John "Junior" Eversole was the hottest shot on the court with 10 field goals and a total of 23 points. Ronnie Sisk tossed in 16, Dave Steele 11 and Herboldshimer, second string center, gathered 10 markers.

Bob Kirk and "Sonny" Kyle with 16 and 11 points led the Barton attack. "Junior" Kyle played a nice floor game. Rank of Allegany and Kirk went out on personal fouls.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated Barton in the preliminary game, 53-17.

Cave, Ambrose Win Game

Jim Cave's foul goal tied the score at 38-all and forced the battle into overtime at Westernport. In the extra period, Brennaman's set shot put Beall ahead at 40-38 and Bobby Wilson's basket knotted the count at 40-40. Another free throw by Cave and a lay-up by Ray Ambrose settled the issue in Bruce High's favor.

Erwin "Doc" Berry and Wilson shared high point honors for Bruce with 10 tallies each. Blank topped the Beall offensive with 14 markers while Hawkins collected 12. Brennaman of Beall was the only player ejected on fouls.

Bruce's Jayvees tripped Beall's junior varsity quint in the opener game, 29-23. Lutman, 6-foot-3 center of the winners scored 10 points.

Durando Scores Upset TKO Over Rocky Castellani

Enraged Manager Punches Referee

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Manager Tommy Ryan was suspended on the spot and threatened with drastic punishment tonight after he had slugged Referee Ray Miller in a riotous finish to the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani middleweight fight in Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Ernie (The Rock) Durando came from far behind tonight to stop the favored Rocky Castellani in 2:04 of the seventh round of a ten rounder in Madison Square Garden. After Referee Ray Miller halted the fight with Castellani apparently out on his feet, Castellani's manager, Tommy Ryan, rushed across the ring and punched the referee.

Several of the handlers of both fighters rushed to the corner of the ring, where Ryan was swinging at Miller, to hold back the enraged manager.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, immediately ordered Castellani's purse held up and said severe action would be taken against the manager.

Durando, a powerful right hand puncher, had taken a thorough shellacking from the clever Marine from Teaneck, N. J., through the first five rounds.

In the sixth Durando nailed Rocky with a right to the jaw and dropped him for a count of nine. That was the first hard right Durando had landed all night.

The crowd howled as the aggressive Durando stormed out in the seventh. Castellani met him and pounded him all over the ring.

Suddenly Ernie brought up a tremendous right hand uppercut which knocked Rocky flat on the floor. He barely got up at nine and was wobbly.

Castellani, a 9 to 5 favorite, outweighed his rival 158½ to 157½.

Moorefield, Lions, Keyser Win In PVC

Franklin, Ridgeley And Romney Defeated

Keyser High captured its fourth straight Potomac Valley Conference victory last night as the Golden Tornado turned back Romney's Pioneers 5 -40 at Keyser while Piedmont defeated Ridgeley 43-37 and Moorefield stopped Franklin 56-45 in other conference contests.

Keyser's victory deadlocked the Tornado cagers with Petersburg who was scheduled to play Wardensville last night for the league lead. The Viking-Wardensville tilt was unreported.

Keyser Uses 12 Players

Moorefield, in the meantime, chalked up its third decision in four starts in the loop to remain on the heels of the leaders.

Keyser used 12 players in defeating Romney, building up a 15-1 lead before the Pioneers scored a field goal early in the second period. George Karras and Harry "Jake" Stoutamyer paced the winners with 16 and 14 points respectively while Roger Maphis had 13 for Romney. The Keyser Reserves defeated Romney's Junior Varsity 35-22 in the preliminary.

At Moorefield, Coach Jonathan Paugh's Yellowjackets broke a 35-35 deadlock late in the third period on a couple of goals by Pat Kern and pulled away from Franklin to hand the latter its second loss of the season, both by the Jackets.

The score was tied at 11-all in the first stanza and Franklin held a 29-24 lead at halftime before Moorefield started its spurt. The count was tied six times altogether in the first half.

Barr Tops Scorers

Merle Barr topped the Jackets with 19 points on seven goals and five of six at the foul line. Kern and Harlan Hott each contributed 13 counters for the winners. Norman Koontz and Ed Wimer shared 25 of Franklin's tallies. Moorefield's Jayvees also won the preliminary 43-17.

Ridgeley's Blackhawks lost their sixth game in seven starts and second of three games in the conference at Piedmont. The Lions took a 12-4 lead in the first quarter and were never headed.

Jackie Junkins tallied 13 points to pace the Lions who won their second league tilt in three starts. Ronald Abe was best for the Hawks with 17 markers.

'Home Run' Baker Is Being Boomed For Baseball Hall Of Fame Berth

Marylander Starred For A's 30 Years Ago

HOME RUN BAKER

SALISBURY, Md., Jan. 11 (AP) — Neighbors and old timers in the game have launched a campaign to get "Home Run" Baker into baseball's hall of fame.

John Franklin Baker, farmer and solid citizen on Maryland's Eastern Shore, is having none of it. He always was publicity shy. He'll be 66 in March. Baker played third base in Connie Mack's famed $100,000 infield and was baseball's first fence-busting slugger. He was with the Athletics from 1908 until 1914 and with the New York Yankees from 1915 until 1922.

"It's beyond me why he hasn't received recognition as the original home run king," says Fred Lucas of nearby Cambridge. Lucas has been in baseball himself for 28 years as player, manager, scout, club owner and president of the now defunct Class D Eastern Shore League.

Lucas is one of those doing some spadework to get Baker into the Hall of Fame.

A nominating vote by the nation's baseball writers is necessary for election. Balloting on 1952 candidates comes up next month.

Baker led the league in home runs five seasons between 1911 and 1916, but the most he ever put together in any of those dead ball years was 12. He became a baseball immortal in 1911 when he hit two world series homers against the Giants on successive days and rallied the A's into the championship.

Baker lives in a showplace home at the nearby town of Trappe and has some farms where he raises corn and tomatoes for commercial canneries.

Back in 1924, when he was managing a team at Sudlersville, Md., he spotted a 16-year-old who looked like a real hitter. Baker introduced the lad to Connie Mack. Mack signed him for $250.

Frankies Fly High Stadium Racks Up 11

By C. V. BURNS

Altoona Catholic High's Marauders, who have a date with LaSalle's Explorers here on Friday night lost a 40-39 thriller to Hollidaysburg High the other day.

A foul conversion with five seconds to go decided the battle.

Bill Saller and Pat Fellinger banged in 28 points for ACHS which defeated LaSalle earlier in the season by the score of 56-48.

The Marauders have won five and lost two.

Tuffy Leemans, gril great, recently elected to the professional Football Hall of Fame, once appeared here when he quarterbacked the George Washington University Colonels.

The Washington eleven was en route to Morgantown for a games with West Virginia University and stopped off for a workout on the Allegany High School field.

An English thoroughbred carries the name of Crytochonchoiphyastigmatic but nothin' like that can happen here for names of horses are limited to 14 letters, including spaces.

Angel Martinez, the Newark, N. J., light-heavy-weight who went the limit with "Skeets" Starkey in Madison Square Garden on December 7 was belted out by Sal Belloise in three heats the other night at White Plains, N. Y.

John Barger, Keyser scribe, says that more games like the 60-58 thriller in which Keyser defeated Piedmont is sure to bring a flood of cardiac cases to Keyser.

Prior to last night, college and scholastic teams operating in the tri-state area had engaged in 11 games decided by a single tally and 11 games in which the winning margin was two points.

And eight contests were overtime battles, including the one between Allegany and LaSalle that went two extra periods.

Remember Andy Quattrocchi, classy lightweight boxer who slayed them in college rings while representing the University of Maryland for several years?

The "Sandman" is now in the Golden Gloves tournament in Washington, D. C., winning his opening bout by a TKO over Joe Boone of the Southwest Police Boys' Club.

Coach "Skip" Hughes, whose St. Francis College basketball teams have appeared in exhibition games with the Spas and Dukes the past few years, took the Frankies on a tour to New England last week and they racked up three straight wins.

The Loretto (Pa.) cagers beat Fairfield (Conn.) University, St. Anselm's (New Hampshire) and St. Michael's (Vermont).

St. Michael's, unbeaten on the home court in 25 starts, was handed a 93-61 shellacking.

St. Francis' record now is 7 wins, 4 losses.

Pittsburgh writers disagree on the outcome of the Lee Sala-Tony Masciarelli fight the other night.

Carl Hughes says Sala is "all washed up."

Al Abrams says it isn't so and declares "Bunny" Buntag is to blame for Sala's sad showing for allowing Lee to fight a bum.

If Masciarelli, who went the limit of 10 rounds with Sala, is a bum what type of ringmen did Sala meet here when he pushed over two guys in one and two rounds?

That's why we don't have any more boxing shows here.

Stadium Inn of Frostburg, winner of both halves of the split season race last year in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League race, is stepping high at the present time.

The Mountain City shufflers lead by four games and are now on an 11-game winning streak. They started their string December 20 by winning two from the Cumberland Caseys. Then they took nine in a row from Cumberland VFW, Mt. Savage VFW and Purple Heart.

Stanford's Uniforms Still Hang Where Left After Bowl Disaster

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP) — Today — ten days after disaster overtook Stanford in the Rose Bowl—Pasadena parks superintendent Henry Garwood reported that Stanford uniforms still hung limp in the dressing room.

In fact, Garwood told City Manager Don C. McMillan, the whole darned lockerroom is still full of Stanford equipment.

Garwood said he realized Stanford was in a hurry to get out of the bowl after the 40-7 beating by Illinois, but he figured the Indians might have recovered by now.

LaSalle Whips Hyndman Five By 64 To 32

Christ Racks Up 18 Tallies For Winners

Ten LaSalle players broke into the scoring column last night as the Explorers easily captured their seventh victory in 10 games this season with a 64-32 decision over a visiting Hyndman, Pa., quint on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

Led by Bobby Christ who tallied 18 points, LaSalle hooped 28 field goals and eight of 13 free throws to swamp the visitors who lost their sixth straight game.

The Explorers took an early 15-9 lead in the first quarter, built it to 38-13 at halftime and were never in trouble. The third quarter ended with the locals on top 49-22.

Two LaSalle subs, Kegg and Kelly, were the only players to leave the game via personals, both being ejected in the fourth period.

Rigid Training Code Ordered For Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11 (AP)—No wives, automobiles, swimming, card playing, dining out, or dog tracks, but plenty of hard work is the order for the 1951 Philadelphia Phillies' training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Manager Eddie Sawyer today outlined a rigid code of discipline for the team that slipped from a 1950 pennant winner to a dismal fifth in the 1951 National League race.

The skipper, who recently signed a new three-year contract, started out with a rule that all players must live at the Fort Harrison Hotel. There will be no beach front villas.

Every player will be called at 8 a. m., and must report to the field by 9:30 a. m.

Demaret Leads

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP)—Smiling Jimmy Demaret, shooting a two over par 74 in stormy weather, led the first round today in the 54-hole Bing Crosby $10,000 National Pro Amateur Golf Tournament.

Intermittent rains drenched the Cypress Point course, a normal 37-35—72 test, and high winds sometimes reaching a velocity of 45 miles an hour added to the trials of the field of 170

Bernie Crimmins, Former Notre Dame Star, Named Indiana Coach

Leahy Assistant Gets A Five-Year Contract

BERNIE CRIMMINS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 11 (AP) — Bernie Crimmins, assistant coach at the University of Notre Dame, today was named head football coach at Indiana University.

He will take the place of Clyde Smith, who resigned in mid-season last fall but carried on as coach until the season ended.

Announcement of the appointment of the 32-year-old Crimmins was made at Cincinnati by the I. U. Athletic Director, Paul (Pooch) Harrell.

Both Harrell and Crimmins are in Cincinnati attending the N.C.A.A. convention.

"I'll be very happy to be at Indiana," Bernie told newsmen. "It's a fine feeling to get in the Big Ten. The best football in the country is played in the Middle West."

The former Notre Dame player has been backfield coach at Notre Dame since 1946. He played with the Fighting Irish from 1939 through 1941.

Harrell said Crimmins was given a five-year contract and will have the privilege of naming six assistants.

Crimmins wasn't slow in outlining his plans.

He said he plans to use a T formation, a combination of the regular T and the split T patterned after the formation used last season at Notre Dame by Coach Frank Leahy.

Crimmins said some of his assistants may be Notre Dame men. He added however, that he would interview the present members of I. U. coaching staff before making any selections.

Fort Hill, Allegany, Bruce Capture WMI League Openers

Sentinels Bag 41-33 Tilt At Central; AHS Trims Barton, 73-57

Fort Hill High School's Sentinels, defending champions, defeated Central High at Lonaconing, 41-33, Allegany High School trounced Barton High School, at Barton, 73-57, and Bruce High School edged Beall High of Frostburg in an overtime thriller at Westernport, 43-40, as the W. M. I. Basketball League launched its 32nd season last night.

In the contest at 'Coney, Johnny Meyers' Tigers held the Hilltoppers to an 18-17 score in the first half, led at the end of the third period, 27-22, then lost the ball game in the closing minutes of play. Central was leading with two minutes to go when Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's quint turned on the heat.

Two Rack Up 29 Points

John Poling and George McGregor accounted for 29 of Fort Hill's 41 points. Richard Waddell and Billy Robertson were outstanding for the Orange and Black.

Dave Ritter and Harold Hull of Fort Hill and Waddell were ejected on personal fouls.

Allegany collected 31 field goals and meshed 11 of 20 free throws in crushing the Braves on Barton's court.

Coach Walter Bowers' Campers hooped more than 50 per cent of their shots and held the lead from starting to final gun. The quarter scores were 18-11, 28-24 and 56-36.

Eversole Scores 23

John "Junior" Eversole was the hottest shot on the court with 10 field goals and a total of 23 points. Ronnie Sisk tossed in 16, Dave Steele 11 and Herboldshimer, second string center, gathered 10 markers.

Bob Kirk and "Sonny" Kyle with 16 and 11 points led the Barton attack. "Junior" Kyle played a nice floor game. Rank of Allegany and Kirk went out on personal fouls.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated Barton in the preliminary game, 53-17.

Cave, Ambrose Win Game

Jim Cave's foul goal tied the score at 38-all and forced the battle into overtime at Westernport. In the extra period, Brennaman's set shot put Beall ahead at 40-38 and Bobby Wilson's basket knotted the count at 40-40. Another free throw by Cave and a lay-up by Ray Ambrose settled the issue in Bruce High's favor.

Erwin "Doc" Berry and Wilson shared high point honors for Bruce with 10 tallies each. Blank topped the Beall offensive with 14 markers while Hawkins collected 12. Brennaman of Beall was the only player ejected on fouls.

Durando Scores Upset TKO Over Rocky Castellani

Enraged Manager Punches Referee

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Manager Tommy Ryan was suspended on the spot and threatened with drastic punishment tonight after he had slugged Referee Ray Miller in a riotous finish to the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani middleweight fight in Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Ernie (The Rock) Durando came from far behind tonight to stop the favored Rocky Castellani in 2:04 of the seventh round of a ten rounder in Madison Square Garden. After Referee Ray Miller halted the fight with Castellani apparently out on his feet, Castellani's manager, Tommy Ryan, rushed across the ring and punched the referee.

Several of the handlers of both fighters rushed to the corner of the ring, where Ryan was swinging at Miller, to hold back the enraged manager.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, immediately ordered Castellani's purse held up and said severe action would be taken against the manager.

Durando, a powerful right hand puncher, had taken a thorough shellacking from the clever Marine from Teaneck, N. J., through the first five rounds.

In the sixth Durando nailed Rocky with a right to the jaw and dropped him for a count of nine. That was the first hard right Durando had landed all night.

The crowd howled as the aggressive Durando stormed out in the seventh. Castellani met him and pounded him all over the ring.

Suddenly Ernie brought up a tremendous right hand uppercut which knocked Rocky flat on the floor. He barely got up at nine and was wobbly.

Miller took one look at Castellani's eyes and stopped the fight.

Castellani, a 9 to 5 favorite, outweighed his rival 158½ to 157½.

Moorefield, Lions, Keyser Win In PVC

Franklin, Ridgeley And Romney Defeated

Keyser High captured its fourth straight Potomac Valley Conference victory last night as the Golden Tornado turned back Romney's Pioneers 5 -40 at Keyser while Piedmont defeated Ridgeley 43-37 and Moorefield stopped Franklin 56-45 in other conference contests.

Keyser's victory deadlocked the Tornado cagers with Petersburg who was scheduled to play Wardensville last night for the league lead. The Viking-Wardensville tilt was unreported.

Keyser Uses 12 Players

Moorefield, in the meantime, chalked up its third decision in four starts in the loop to remain on the heels of the leaders.

Keyser used 12 players in defeating Romney, building up a 15-1 lead before the Pioneers scored a field goal early in the second period. George Karras and Harry "Jake" Stoutamyer paced the winners with 16 and 14 points respectively while Roger Maphis had 13 for Romney. The Keyser Reserves defeated Romney's Junior Varsity 35-22 in the preliminary.

At Moorefield, Coach Jonathan Paugh's Yellowjackets broke a 35-35 deadlock late in the third period on a couple of goals by Pat Kern and pulled away from Franklin to hand the latter its second loss of the season, both by the Jackets.

The score was tied at 11-all in the first stanza and Franklin held a 29-24 lead at halftime before Moorefield started its spurt. The count was tied six times altogether in the first half.

Barr Tops Scorers

Merle Barr topped the Jackets with 19 points on seven goals and five of six at the foul line. Kern and Harlan Hott each contributed 13 counters for the winners. Norman Koontz and Ed Wimer shared 25 of Franklin's tallies. Moorefield's Jayvees also won the preliminary 43-17.

Ridgeley's Blackhawks lost their sixth game in seven starts and second of three games in the conference at Piedmont. The Lions took a 12-4 lead in the first quarter and were never headed.

Jackie Junkins tallied 13 points to pace the Lions who won their second league tilt in three starts. Ronald Abe was best for the Hawks with 17 markers.

Stanford's Uniforms Still Hang Where Left After Bowl Disaster

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP) — Today — ten days after disaster overtook Stanford in the Rose Bowl—Pasadena parks superintendent Henry Garwood reported that Stanford uniforms still hung limp in the dressing room.

In fact, Garwood told City Manager Don C. McMillan, the whole darned lockerroom is still full of Stanford equipment.

Garwood said he realized Stanford was in a hurry to get out of the bowl after the 40-7 beating by Illinois, but he figured the Indians might have recovered by now.

'Home Run' Baker Is Being Boomed For Baseball Hall Of Fame Berth

Marylander Starred For A's 30 Years Ago

HOME RUN BAKER

SALISBURY, Md., Jan. 11 (AP) — Neighbors and old timers in the game have launched a campaign to get "'Home Run" Baker into baseball's hall of fame.

John Franklin Baker, farmer and solid citizen on Maryland's Eastern Shore, is having none of it. He always was publicity shy. He'll be 66 in March. Baker played third base in Connie Mack's famed $100,000 infield and was baseball's first fence-busting slugger. He was with the Athletics from 1908 until 1914 and with the New York Yankees from 1915 until 1922.

"It's beyond me why he hasn't received recognition as the original home run king," says Fred Lucas of nearby Cambridge. Lucas has been in baseball himself for 28 years as player, manager, scout, club owner and president of the now defunct Class D Eastern Shore League.

Lucas is one of those doing some spadework to get Baker into the Hall of Fame.

A nominating vote by the nation's baseball writers is necessary for election. Balloting on 1952 candidates comes up next month.

Baker led the league in home runs five seasons between 1911 and 1916, but the most he ever put together in any of those dead ball years was 12. He became a baseball immortal in 1911 when he hit two world series homers against the Giants on successive days and rallied the A's into the championship.

Baker lives in a showplace home at the nearby town of Trappe and has some farms where he raises corn and tomatoes for commercial canneries.

Back in 1924, when he was managing a team at Sudlersville, Md., he spotted a 16-year-old who looked like a real hitter. Baker introduced the lad to Connie Mack. Mack signed him for $250.

Frankies Fly High Stadium Racks Up 11

By C. V. BURNS

Altoona Catholic High's Marauders, who have a date with LaSalle's Explorers here on Friday night lost a 40-39 thriller to Hollidaysburg High the other day.

A foul conversion with five seconds to go decided the battle.

Bill Saller and Pat Fellinger banged in 28 points for ACHS which defeated LaSalle earlier in the season by the score of 56-48.

The Marauders have won five and lost two.

Tuffy Leemans, gril great, recently elected to the professional Football Hall of Fame, once appeared here when he quarterbacked the George Washington University Colonels.

The Washington eleven was en route to Morgantown for a games with West Virginia University and stopped off for a workout on the Allegany High School field.

An English thoroughbred carries the name of Crytochonchoiphyastigmatic but nothin' like that can happen here for names of horses are limited to 14 letters, including spaces.

Angel Martinez, the Newark, N. J., light-heavy-weight who went the limit with "Skeets" Starkey in Madison Square Garden on December 7 was belted out by Sal Belloise in three heats the other night at White Plains, N. Y.

John Barger, Keyser scribe, says that more games like the 60-58 thriller in which Keyser defeated Piedmont is sure to bring a flood of cardiac cases to Keyser.

Prior to last night, college and scholastic teams operating in the tri-state area had engaged in 11 games decided by a single tally and 11 games in which the winning margin was two points.

And eight contests were overtime battles, including the one between Allegany and LaSalle that went two extra periods.

Remember Andy Quattrocchi, classy lightweight boxer who slayed them in college rings while representing the University of Maryland for several years?

The "Sandman" is now in the Golden Gloves tournament in Washington, D. C., winning his opening bout by a TKO over Joe Boone of the Southwest Police Boys' Club.

Coach "Skip" Hughes, whose St. Francis College basketball teams have appeared in exhibition games with the Spas and Dukes the past few years, took the Frankies on a tour to New England last week and they racked up three straight wins.

The Loretto (Pa.) cagers beat Fairfield (Conn.) University, St. Anselm's (New Hampshire) and St. Michael's (Vermont).

St. Michael's, unbeaten on the home court in 25 starts, was handed a 93-61 shellacking.

St. Francis' record now is 7 wins, 4 losses.

Pittsburgh writers disagree on the outcome of the Lee Sala-Tony Masciarelli fight the other night.

Carl Hughes says Sala is "all washed up."

Al Abrams says it isn't so and declares "Bunny" Buntag is to blame for Sala's sad showing for allowing Lee to fight a bum.

If Masciarelli, who went the limit of 10 rounds with Sala, is a bum what type of ringmen did Sala meet here when he pushed over two guys in one and two rounds?

That's why we don't have any more boxing shows here.

Stadium Inn of Frostburg, winner of both halves of the split season race last year in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League race, is stepping high at the present time.

The Mountain City shufflers lead by four games and are now on an 11-game winning streak. They started their string December 20 by winning two from the Cumberland Caseys. Then they took nine in a row from Cumberland VFW, Mt. Savage VFW and Purple Heart.

LaSalle Whips Hyndman Five By 64 To 32

Christ Racks Up 18 Tallies For Winners

Ten LaSalle players broke into the scoring column last night as the Explorers easily captured their seventh victory in 10 games this season with a 64-32 decision over a visiting Hyndman, Pa., quint on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

Led by Bobby Christ who tallied 18 points, LaSalle hooped 28 field goals and eight of 13 free throws to swamp the visitors who lost their sixth straight game.

The Explorers took an early 15-9 lead in the first quarter, built it to 38-13 at halftime and were never in trouble. The third quarter ended with the locals on top 49-22.

Two LaSalle subs, Kegg and Kelly, were the only players to leave the game via personals, both being ejected in the fourth period.

Bruce May topped the scorers for Hyndman, collecting 14 points on six fielders and two of four fouls. The lineups:

Rigid Training Code Ordered For Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11 (AP)—No wives, automobiles, swimming, card playing, dining out, or dog tracks, but plenty of hard work is the order for the 1951 Philadelphia Phillies' training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Manager Eddie Sawyer today outlined a rigid code of discipline for the team that slipped from a 1950 pennant winner to a dismal fifth in the 1951 National League race.

The skipper, who recently signed a new three-year contract, started out with a rule that all players must live at the Fort Harrison Hotel. There will be no beach front villas.

Every player will be called at 8 a. m., and must report to the field by 9:30 a. m.

Demaret Leads

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP)—Smiling Jimmy Demaret, shooting a two over par 74 in stormy weather, led the first round today in the 54-hole Bing Crosby $10,000 National Pro Amateur Golf Tournament.

Intermittent rains drenched the Cypress Point course, a normal 37-35—72 test, and high winds sometimes reaching a velocity of 45 miles an hour added to the trials of the field of 170

Bernie Crimmins, Former Notre Dame Star, Named Indiana Coach

Leahy Assistant Gets A Five-Year Contract

BERNIE CRIMMINS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 11 (AP) — Bernie Crimmins, assistant coach at the University of Notre Dame, today was named head football coach at Indiana University.

He will take the place of Clyde Smith, who resigned in mid-season last fall but carried on as coach until the season ended.

Announcement of the appointment of the 32-year-old Crimmins was made at Cincinnati by the I. U. Athletic Director, Paul (Pooch) Harrell.

Both Harrell and Crimmins are in Cincinnati attending the N.C.A.A. convention.

"I'll be very happy to be at Indiana," Bernie told newsmen. "It's a fine feeling to get in the Big Ten. The best football in the country is played in the Middle West."

The former Notre Dame player has been backfield coach at Notre Dame since 1946. He played with the Fighting Irish from 1939 through 1941.

Harrell said Crimmins was given a five-year contract and will have the privilege of naming six assistants.

Crimmins wasn't slow in outlining his plans.

He said he plans to use a T formation, a combination of the regular T and the split T patterned after the formation used last season at Notre Dame by Coach Frank Leahy.

Crimmins said some of his assistants may be Notre Dame men. He added however, that he would interview the present members of I. U. coaching staff before making any selections.

Fort Hill, Allegany, Bruce Capture WMI League Openers

Sentinels Bag 41-33 Tilt At Central; AHS Trims Barton, 73-57

Fort Hill High School's Sentinels, defending champions, defeated Central High at Lonaconing, 41-33, Allegany High School trounced Barton High School, at Barton, 73-57, and Bruce High School edged Beall High of Frostburg in an overtime thriller at Westernport, 43-40, as the W. M. I. Basketball League launched its 32nd season last night.

In the contest at 'Coney, Johnny Meyers' Tigers held the Hilltoppers to an 18-17 score in the first half, led at the end of the third period, 27-22, then lost the ball game in the closing minutes of play. Central was leading with two minutes to go when Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's quint turned on the heat.

Two Rack Up 29 Points

John Poling and George McGregor accounted for 29 of Fort Hill's 41 points. Richard Waddell and Billy Robertson were outstanding for the Orange and Black.

Dave Ritter and Harold Hull of Fort Hill and Waddell were ejected on personal fouls.

Allegany collected 31 field goals and meshed 11 of 20 free throws in crushing the Braves on Barton's court.

Coach Walter Bowers' Campers hooped more than 50 per cent of their shots and held the lead from starting to final gun. The quarter scores were 18-11, 28-24 and 56-36.

Eversole Scores 23

John "Junior" Eversole was the hottest shot on the court with 10 field goals and a total of 23 points. Ronnie Sisk tossed in 16, Dave Steele 11 and Herboldshimer, second string center, gathered 10 markers.

Bob Kirk and "Sonny" Kyle with 16 and 11 points led the Barton attack. "Junior" Kyle played a nice floor game. Rank of Allegany and Kirk went out on personal fouls.

Allegany's Jayvees defeated Barton in the preliminary game, 53-17.

Cave, Ambrose Win Game

Jim Cave's foul goal tied the score at 38-all and forced the battle into overtime at Westernport. In the extra period, Brennaman's set shot put Beall ahead at 40-38 and Bobby Wilson's basket knotted the count at 40-40. Another free throw by Cave and a lay-up by Ray Ambrose settled the issue in Bruce High's favor.

Erwin "Doc" Berry and Wilson shared high point honors for Bruce with 10 tallies each. Blank topped the Beall offensive with 14 markers while Hawkins collected 12. Brennaman of Beall was the only player ejected on fouls.

Durando Scores Upset TKO Over Rocky Castellani

Enraged Manager Punches Referee

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Manager Tommy Ryan was suspended on the spot and threatened with drastic punishment tonight after he had slugged Referee Ray Miller in a riotous finish to the Ernie Durando-Rocky Castellani middleweight fight in Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Ernie (The Rock) Durando came from far behind tonight to stop the favored Rocky Castellani in 2:04 of the seventh round of a ten rounder in Madison Square Garden. After Referee Ray Miller halted the fight with Castellani apparently out on his feet, Castellani's manager, Tommy Ryan, rushed across the ring and punched the referee.

Several of the handlers of both fighters rushed to the corner of the ring, where Ryan was swinging at Miller, to hold back the enraged manager.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, immediately ordered Castellani's purse held up and said severe action would be taken against the manager.

Durando, a powerful right hand puncher, had taken a thorough shellacking from the clever Marine from Teaneck, N. J., through the first five rounds.

In the sixth Durando nailed Rocky with a right to the jaw and dropped him for a count of nine. That was the first hard right Durando had landed all night.

The crowd howled as the aggressive Durando stormed out in the seventh. Castellani met him and pounded him all over the ring.

Suddenly Ernie brought up a tremendous right hand uppercut which knocked Rocky flat on the floor. He barely got up at nine and was wobbly.

Miller took one look at Castellani's eyes and stopped the fight.

Castellani protested and then Ryan charged across the ring.

Castellani, a 9 to 5 favorite, outweighed his rival 158½ to 157½.

Moorefield, Lions, Keyser Win In PVC

Franklin, Ridgeley And Romney Defeated

Keyser High captured its fourth straight Potomac Valley Conference victory last night as the Golden Tornado turned back Romney's Pioneers 5 -40 at Keyser while Piedmont defeated Ridgeley 43-37 and Moorefield stopped Franklin 56-45 in other conference contests.

Keyser's victory deadlocked the Tornado cagers with Petersburg who was scheduled to play Wardensville last night for the league lead. The Viking-Wardensville tilt was unreported.

Keyser Uses 12 Players

Moorefield, in the meantime, chalked up its third decision in four starts in the loop to remain on the heels of the leaders.

Keyser used 12 players in defeating Romney, building up a 15-1 lead before the Pioneers scored a field goal early in the second period. George Karras and Harry "Jake" Stoutamyer paced the winners with 16 and 14 points respectively while Roger Maphis had 13 for Romney. The Keyser Reserves defeated Romney's Junior Varsity 35-22 in the preliminary.

At Moorefield, Coach Jonathan Paugh's Yellowjackets broke a 35-35 deadlock late in the third period on a couple of goals by Pat Kern and pulled away from Franklin to hand the latter its second loss of the season, both by the Jackets.

The score was tied at 11-all in the first stanza and Franklin held a 29-24 lead at halftime before Moorefield started its spurt. The count was tied six times altogether in the first half.

Barr Tops Scorers

Merle Barr topped the Jackets with 19 points on seven goals and five of six at the foul line. Kern and Harlan Hott each contributed 13 counters for the winners. Norman Koontz and Ed Wimer shared 25 of Franklin's tallies. Moorefield's Jayvees also won the preliminary 43-17.

Ridgeley's Blackhawks lost their sixth game in seven starts and second of three games in the conference at Piedmont. The Lions took a 12-4 lead in the first quarter and were never headed.

Jackie Junkins tallied 13 points to pace the Lions who won their second league tilt in three starts. Ronald Abe was best for the Hawks with 17 markers.

'Home Run' Baker Is Being Boomed For Baseball Hall Of Fame Berth

Marylander Starred For A's 30 Years Ago

SALISBURY, Md., Jan. 11 (AP) — Neighbors and old timers in the game have launched a campaign to get "Home Run" Baker into baseball's hall of fame.

John Franklin Baker, farmer and solid citizen on Maryland's Eastern Shore, is having none of it. He always was publicity shy. He'll be 66 in March. Baker played third base in Connie Mack's famed $100,000 infield and was baseball's first fence-busting slugger. He was with the Athletics from 1908 until 1914 and with the New York Yankees from 1915 until 1922.

"It's beyond me why he hasn't received recognition as the original home run king," says Fred Lucas of nearby Cambridge. Lucas has been in baseball himself for 28 years as player, manager, scout, club owner and president of the now defunct Class D Eastern Shore League.

Lucas is one of those doing some spadework to get Baker into the Hall of Fame.

A nominating vote by the nation's baseball writers is necessary for election. Balloting on 1952 candidates comes up next month.

Baker led the league in home runs five seasons between 1911 and 1916, but the most he ever put together in any of those dead ball years was 12. He became a baseball immortal in 1911 when he hit two world series homers against the Giants on successive days and rallied the A's into the championship.

HOME RUN BAKER

Baker lives in a showplace home at the nearby town of Trappe and has some farms where he raises corn and tomatoes for commercial canneries.

Back in 1924, when he was managing a team at Sudlersville, Md., he spotted a 16-year-old who looked like a real hitter. Baker introduced the lad to Connie Mack. Mack signed him for $250.

The lad was Jimmy Foxx, elected last year to baseball's Hall of Fame.

Altoona Catholic High's Marauders, who have a date with LaSalle's Explorers here on Friday night lost a 40-39 thriller to Hollidaysburg High the other day.

A foul conversion with five seconds to go decided the battle.

Bill Saller and Pat Fellinger banged in 28 points for ACHS which defeated LaSalle earlier in the season by the score of 56-48.

The Marauders have won five and lost two.

Tuffy Leemans, gril great, recently elected to the professional Football Hall of Fame, once appeared here when he quarterbacked the George Washington University Colonels.

The Washington eleven was en route to Morgantown for a games with West Virginia University and stopped off for a workout on the Allegany High School field.

An English thoroughbred carries the name of Crytochonchoiphyastigmatic but nothin' like that can happen here for names of horses are limited to 14 letters, including spaces.

Angel Martinez, the Newark, N. J., light-heavy-weight who went the limit with "Skeets" Starkey in Madison Square Garden on December 7 was belted out by Sal Belloise in three heats the other night at White Plains, N. Y.

John Barger, Keyser scribe, says that more games like the 60-58 thriller in which Keyser defeated Piedmont is sure to bring a flood of cardiac cases to Keyser.

Prior to last night, college and scholastic teams operating in the tri-state area had engaged in 11 games decided by a single tally and 11 games in which the winning margin was two points.

And eight contests were overtime battles, including the one between Allegany and LaSalle that went two extra periods.

Remember Andy Quattrocchi, classy lightweight boxer who slayed them in college rings while representing the University of Maryland for several years?

The "Sandman" is now in the Golden Gloves tournament in Washington, D. C., winning his opening bout by a TKO over Joe Boone of the Southwest Police Boys' Club.

Coach "Skip" Hughes, whose St. Francis College basketball teams have appeared in exhibition games with the Spas and Dukes the past few years, took the Frankies on a tour to New England last week and they racked up three straight wins.

The Loretto (Pa.) cagers beat Fairfield (Conn.) University, St. Anselm's (New Hampshire) and St. Michael's (Vermont).

St. Michael's, unbeaten on the home court in 25 starts, was handed a 93-61 shellacking.

St. Francis' record now is 7 wins, 4 losses.

Pittsburgh writers disagree on the outcome of the Lee Sala-Tony Masciarelli fight the other night.

Carl Hughes says Sala is "all washed up."

Al Abrams says it isn't so and declares "Bunny" Buntag is to blame for Sala's sad showing for allowing Lee to fight a bum.

If Masciarelli, who went the limit of 10 rounds with Sala, is a bum what type of ringmen did Sala meet here when he pushed over two guys in one and two rounds?

That's why we don't have any more boxing shows here.

Stadium Inn of Frostburg, winner of both halves of the split season race last year in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League race, is stepping high at the present time.

The Mountain City shufflers lead by four games and are now on an 11-game winning streak. They started their string December 20 by winning two from the Cumberland Caseys. Then they took nine in a row from Cumberland VFW, Mt. Savage VFW and Purple Heart.

LaSalle Whips Hyndman Five By 64 To 32

Christ Racks Up 18 Tallies For Winners

Ten LaSalle players broke into the scoring column last night as the Explorers easily captured their seventh victory in 10 games this season with a 64-32 decision over a visiting Hyndman, Pa., quint on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

Led by Bobby Christ who tallied 18 points, LaSalle hooped 28 field goals and eight of 13 free throws to swamp the visitors who lost their sixth straight game.

The Explorers took an early 15-9 lead in the first quarter, built it to 38-13 at halftime and were never in trouble. The third quarter ended with the locals on top 49-22.

Two LaSalle subs, Kegg and Kelly, were the only players to leave the game via personals, both being ejected in the fourth period.

Bruce May topped the scorers for Hyndman, collecting 14 points on six fielders and two of four fouls. The lineups:

Rigid Training Code Ordered For Phillies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11 (AP)—No wives, automobiles, swimming, card playing, dining out, or dog tracks, but plenty of hard work is the order for the 1951 Philadelphia Phillies' training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Manager Eddie Sawyer today outlined a rigid code of discipline for the team that slipped from a 1950 pennant winner to a dismal fifth in the 1951 National League race.

The skipper, who recently signed a new three-year contract, started out with a rule that all players must live at the Fort Harrison Hotel. There will be no beach front villas.

Every player will be called at 8 a. m., and must report to the field by 9:30 a. m.

Demaret Leads

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 11 (AP)—Smiling Jimmy Demaret, shooting a two over par 74 in stormy weather, led the first round today in the 54-hole Bing Crosby $10,000 National Pro Amateur Golf Tournament.

Intermittent rains drenched the Cypress Point course, a normal 37-35—72 test, and high winds sometimes reaching a velocity of 45 miles an hour added to the trials of the field of 170

Bernie Crimmins, Former Notre Dame Star, Named Indiana Coach

Leahy Assistant Gets A Five-Year Contract

BERNIE CRIMMINS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 11 (AP) — Bernie Crimmins, assistant coach at the University of Notre Dame, today was named head football coach at Indiana University.

He will take the place of Clyde Smith, who resigned in mid-season last fall but carried on as coach until the season ended.

Announcement of the appointment of the 32-year-old Crimmins was made at Cincinnati by the I. U. Athletic Director, Paul (Pooch) Harrell.

Both Harrell and Crimmins are in Cincinnati attending the N.C.A.A. convention.

"I'll be very happy to be at Indiana," Bernie told newsmen. "It's a fine feeling to get in the Big Ten. The best football in the country is played in the Middle West."

The former Notre Dame player has been backfield coach at Notre Dame since 1946. He played with the Fighting Irish from 1939 through 1941.

Harrell said Crimmins was given a five-year contract and will have the privilege of naming six assistants.

Crimmins wasn't slow in outlining his plans.

He said he plans to use a T formation, a combination of the regular T and the split T patterned after the formation used last season at Notre Dame by Coach Frank Leahy.

Crimmins said some of his assistants may be Notre Dame men. He added however, that he would interview the present members of I. U. coaching staff before making any selections.

Pro-Bowl Game Set For Today

Stydahar And Brown Will Lead Elevens

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—The 1951 football season has lapped well over into the new year, but interest is keen and a hectic game is in prospect when the finest professionals in the National Football League hook up in the second annual Pro-Bowl battle in Memorial Coliseum tomorrow.

The teams, 31 all-stars selected from the American Conference and an equal number from the National loop, go into action at 4:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Southern California will be blacked out, but the contest will be televised, starting with the kickoff, over the National Broadcasting Company network for other sections of the country.

Thirty-five thousand or more fans are expected to sit in on the engagement if good weather prevails.

The rival coaches, Paul Brown of Cleveland for the Americans and Joe Stydahar of the Nationals, shifted defensive tactics a bit today, both aimed at throttling the passing attacks built around Otto Graham and Sammy Baugh of the American squad and Bob Waterfield, Norman Van Brocklin and Bobby Layne for the Nationals.

Walt Dropo Signs

BOSTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Big Walt Dropo whose hitting was a major disappointment to the Boston Red Sox last year, today signed up for the 1952 American League baseball season.

Dropo spent part of last season with San Diego in the Pacific Coast League after his hitting, tremendous in 1950, fell off. He was recalled July 26, after a month in the far west.

Dropo wound up last season batting .239 in 99 games. He drove in 57 runs compared to 144 in 1950.

Local Men May Get Release From Jail

Three local men convicted on gambling charges and sentenced to three months in the county jail and also fined $1,000 each, are due to be released today.

They are Robert Shrout, Richard Fox and John E. Jenkins. All three were involved in the case in which the Scoreboard, now out of business, was raided and equipment used in conducting a bookie establishment confiscated by city police.

In the event the men are unable to pay the $1,000 fines they will be required to serve an additional three months in jail, according to court attaches.

County To Sell Bond Issue For Share Of Flood Project

A bond issue of $1,000,000 will be sold by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for use as its contribution to the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

William H. Buchholtz, finance commissioner for the City of Cumberland, appeared before the county board yesterday morning to request that the county sell the bonds within the next 45 days in preparation for the third phase of the flood project, due to start by spring.

Buchholtz informed the commissioners the city has expended $1,100,000 since the project started several years ago and that a balance of $400,000 in city funds is on hand. The additional money is needed before the federal government will give the "go-ahead" signal for the third phase, Buchholtz explained.

William H. Lemmert, president of the county board, told Buchholtz the county had been committed to sell the bonds when the proper time came and the necessary procedure for selling the bonds will be started at once.

Lemmert explained that $500,000 of the issue will be made available after the bonds are sold and the balance will be placed in U. S. Treasury certificates until needed later in the program. The certificates will earn interest during the time the county has them in possession and they can be converted into cash within a relatively short time, he said.

The Albrecht Contracting Company of Chicago is apparently the lowest bidder on the third phase of the project, which includes dredging and paving of Wills Creek within the city limits and the government is providing $1,000,000 as its share of the project.

The Corps of Army Engineers has recommended the Chicago firm be given the contract.

Men's Program Set At Local Church

McKendree Methodist Church will hold its annual Men's Day program tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. with a program planned for the evening, according to Rev. George A. Tate, pastor.

Alonzo Fox will be master of ceremonies and John E. Trimble is lay leader and program chairman for the special event.

Participants in the celebration are Spurgeon, Paul, Herman and Arthur Washington, Robert Cleggett, Jr., Ernest Steward, Jr., John W. Wormack, Randolph Bromery, William Harris, Joseph Hollingsworth, Charles E. Trimble, Martin L. Erwin, Sr., John Darr, Sr., and Mrs. Vernetta Sanders.

Also included as participants will be the Young Men's Club of John Wesley Church, Frostburg, and the Young Men's Club of Metropolitan A. M. E. Church of Cumberland.

City Speedmeter Ready For Test

The City Police Department has its electro-matic speedmeter and accessories ready for operation as soon as the winter weather breaks, John J. Long, police and fire commissioner, announced yesterday.

The radar equipment will be used to check on speeders on the main arteries of the city, the commissioner explained.

The demonstration will be held on Bedford Street for the public and specifically for the magistrates.

Signs have been painted by the department's painter, which will warn motorists they are entering a radar-controlled zone, Long said.

The test will be conducted by City Police under the direction of experienced State Police.

One man will watch the meter and record the speed of the vehicle passing through meter's zone. Another man will sit in the cruiser and call ahead by radio to another cruiser which will stop the motorist and give him a warning, Long explained.

At first when the device is placed in operation motorists who are found to be violating the speed limit will be warned, Long said.

Then after a period of educating the public sufficiently, the speedmeter will be used to nab violators, the commission added.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May psychosomatic illness begin as "organic"?

Answer: Yes. The basis of psychosomatic illness is a totally unconscious "need" to suffer or be helpless, and the form the illness takes does not depend entirely on what type of emotional disturbance creates this need. When some organ has been weakened by disease or injury, the unconscious mind is likely to select it as the basis of chronic invalidism because among other things this makes continued illness more plausibly "real." For example, if you have had and recovered from organic heart trouble, your heart will be likely to remain especially susceptible to fear or emotional shocks.

Are mental hospitals improving?

Answer: Definitely, yes, although we have still made only a beginning. The widespread exposes of some five years ago have led to a clean-up of the worst abuses, especially in state institutions, and here and there real advances have been made—mainly by providing more and better trained psychiatrists and attendants. It is gradually coming to be recognized that a large share of mental ills are curable and that to give a mental patient a few months of intensive and comparatively costly treatment and discharge him makes more sense than to keep him on a bare subsistence level for the rest of his life.

Is there any such thing as "childbirth insanity"?

Answer: Not in the sense that there is a special form of mental illness which child-bearing brings on, says Dr. Hunter P. Harris in the Medical and Surgical Journal. In one out of every 400 to 1,000 cases, childbirth may have precipitated the "insanity"— most often temporary—but the type depends upon the person and the circumstances. It may be manic-depressive, schizophrenia, or simply the result of toxic exhaustion. If a mother-to-be shows signs of extreme nervousness, depression or excitability, she should have a psychiatric check-up to protect her from the possibility of mental disorder following her child's birth.

Pro-Bowl Game Set For Today

Stydahar And Brown Will Lead Elevens

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—The 1951 football season has lapped well over into the new year, but interest is keen and a hectic game is in prospect when the finest professionals in the National Football League hook up in the second annual Pro-Bowl battle in Memorial Coliseum tomorrow.

The teams, 31 all-stars selected from the American Conference and an equal number from the National loop, go into action at 4:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Southern California will be blacked out, but the contest will be televised, starting with the kickoff, over the National Broadcasting Company network for other sections of the country.

Thirty-five thousand or more fans are expected to sit in on the engagement if good weather prevails.

The rival coaches, Paul Brown of Cleveland for the Americans and Joe Stydahar of the Nationals, shifted defensive tactics a bit today, both aimed at throttling the passing attacks built around Otto Graham and Sammy Baugh of the American squad and Bob Waterfield, Norman Van Brocklin and Bobby Layne for the Nationals.

Walt Dropo Signs

BOSTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Big Walt Dropo whose hitting was a major disappointment to the Boston Red Sox last year, today signed up for the 1952 American League baseball season.

Dropo spent part of last season with San Diego in the Pacific Coast League after his hitting, tremendous in 1950, fell off. He was recalled July 26, after a month in the far west.

Dropo wound up last season batting .239 in 99 games. He drove in 57 runs compared to 144 in 1950.

MASKED MARVELS PLAY SPAS HERE JAN. 20—This group of fellows isn't from Mars, nor are they ghosts or phantoms. They're the Chicago Masked Marvels, touring professional basketball team which will meet the Cumberland Spas on the SS. Peter and Paul court at 8:30 p. m. Sunday, Jan. 20. The Cumberland cagers will be seeking their fourth straight win against the "unknown" quint which has compiled a great record in the 22 years it has been touring the country. Roger Day, playing manager of the Spas also stated that a preliminary contest will be scheduled at 7 p. m.

Local Men May Get Release From Jail

Three local men convicted on gambling charges and sentenced to three months in the county jail and also fined $1,000 each, are due to be released today.

They are Robert Shrout, Richard Fox and John E. Jenkins. All three were involved in the case in which the Scoreboard, now out of business, was raided and equipment used in conducting a bookie establishment confiscated by city police.

In the event the men are unable to pay the $1,000 fines they will be required to serve an additional three months in jail, according to court attaches.

County To Sell Bond Issue For Share Of Flood Project

A bond issue of $1,000,000 will be sold by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for use as its contribution to the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project.

William H. Buchholtz, finance commissioner for the City of Cumberland, appeared before the county board yesterday morning to request that the county sell the bonds within the next 45 days in preparation for the third phase of the flood project, due to start by spring.

Buchholtz informed the commissioners the city has expended $1,100,000 since the project started several years ago and that a balance of $400,000 in city funds is on hand. The additional money is needed before the federal government will give the "go-ahead" signal for the third phase, Buchholtz explained.

William H. Lemmert, president of the county board, told Buchholtz the county had been committed to sell the bonds when the proper time came and the necessary procedure for selling the bonds will be started at once.

Lemmert explained that $500,000 of the issue will be made available after the bonds are sold and the balance will be placed in U. S. Treasury certificates until needed later in the program. The certificates will earn interest during the time the county has them in possession and they can be converted into cash within a relatively short time, he said.

The Albrecht Contracting Company of Chicago is apparently the lowest bidder on the third phase of the project, which includes dredging and paving of Wills Creek within the city limits and the government is providing $1,000,000 as its share of the project.

The Corps of Army Engineers has recommended the Chicago firm be given the contract.

Men's Program Set At Local Church

McKendree Methodist Church will hold its annual Men's Day program tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. with a program planned for the evening, according to Rev. George A. Tate, pastor.

Alonzo Fox will be master of ceremonies and John E. Trimble is lay leader and program chairman for the special event.

Participants in the celebration are Spurgeon, Paul, Herman and Arthur Washington, Robert Cleggett, Jr., Ernest Steward, Jr., John W. Wormack, Randolph Bromery, William Harris, Joseph Hollingsworth, Charles E. Trimble, Martin L. Erwin, Sr., John Darr, Sr., and Mrs. Vernetta Sanders.

Also included as participants will be the Young Men's Club of John Wesley Church, Frostburg, and the Young Men's Club of Metropolitan A. M. E. Church of Cumberland.

City Speedmeter Ready For Test

The City Police Department has its electro-matic speedmeter and accessories ready for operation as soon as the winter weather breaks, John J. Long, police and fire commissioner, announced yesterday.

The radar equipment will be used to check on speeders on the main arteries of the city, the commissioner explained.

The demonstration will be held on Bedford Street for the public and specifically for the magistrates.

Signs have been painted by the department's painter, which will warn motorists they are entering a radar-controlled zone, Long said.

The test will be conducted by City Police under the direction of experienced State Police.

One man will watch the meter and record the speed of the vehicle passing through meter's zone. Another man will sit in the cruiser and call ahead by radio to another cruiser which will stop the motorist and give him a warning, Long explained.

At first when the device is placed in operation motorists who are found to be violating the speed limit will be warned, Long said.

Then after a period of educating the public sufficiently, the speedmeter will be used to nab violators, the commission added.

Extra large sheets of wax paper to cover cakes, pies or cookies may be made by overlapping regular sheets and joining by pressing the seams with a hot iron.

Pro-Bowl Game Set For Today

Stydahar And Brown Will Lead Elevens

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—The 1951 football season has lapped well over into the new year, but interest is keen and a hectic game is in prospect when the finest professionals in the National Football League hook up in the second annual Pro-Bowl battle in Memorial Coliseum tomorrow.

The teams, 31 all-stars selected from the American Conference and an equal number from the National loop, go into action at 4:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

Southern California will be blacked out, but the contest will be televised, starting with the kickoff, over the National Broadcasting Company network for other sections of the country.

Thirty-five thousand or more fans are expected to sit in on the engagement if good weather prevails.

The rival coaches, Paul Brown of Cleveland for the Americans and Joe Stydahar of the Nationals, shifted defensive tactics a bit today, both aimed at throttling the passing attacks built around Otto Graham and Sammy Baugh of the American squad and Bob Waterfield, Norman Van Brocklin and Bobby Layne for the Nationals.

Walt Dropo Signs

BOSTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Big Walt Dropo whose hitting was a major disappointment to the Boston Red Sox last year, today signed up for the 1952 American League baseball season.

Dropo spent part of last season with San Diego in the Pacific Coast League after his hitting tremendous in 1950, fell off. He was recalled July 26, after a month in the far west.

Dropo wound up last season batting .239 in 99 games. He drove in 57 runs compared to 144 in 1950.

Local Men May Get Release From Jail

Three local men convicted on gambling charges and sentenced to three months in the county jail and also fined $1,000 each, are due to be released today.

They are Robert Shrout, Richard Fox and John E. Jenkins. All three were involved in the case in which the Scoreboard, now out of business, was raided and equipment used in conducting a bookie establishment confiscated by city police.

In the event the men are unable to pay the $1,000 fines they will be required to serve an additional three months in jail, according to court attaches.

Buchholtz informed the commissioners the city has expended $1,100,000 since the project started several years ago and that a balance of $400,000 in city funds is on hand. The additional money is needed before the federal government will give the "go-ahead" signal for the third phase, Buchholtz explained.

William H. Lemmert, president of the county board, told Buchholtz the county had been committed to sell the bonds when the proper time came and the necessary procedure for selling the bonds will be started at once.

Lemmert explained that $500,000 of the issue will be made available after the bonds are sold and the balance will be placed in U. S. Treasury certificates until needed later in the program. The certificates will earn interest during the time the county has them in possession and they can be converted into cash within a relatively short time, he said.

The Albrecht Contracting Company of Chicago is apparently the lowest bidder on the third phase of the project, which includes dredging and paving of Wills Creek within the city limits and the government is providing $1,000,000 as its share of the project.

The Corps of Army Engineers has recommended the Chicago firm be given the contract.

Men's Program Set At Local Church

McKendree Methodist Church will hold its annual Men's Day program tomorrow at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. with a program planned for the evening, according to Rev. George A. Tate, pastor.

Alonzo Fox will be master of ceremonies and John E. Trimble is lay leader and program chairman for the special event.

Participants in the celebration are Spurgeon, Paul, Herman and Arthur Washington, Robert Cleggett, Jr., Ernest Steward, Jr., John W. Wormack, Randolph Bromery, William Harris, Joseph Hollingsworth, Charles E. Trimble, Martin L. Erwin, Sr., John Darr, Sr., and Mrs. Vernetta Sanders.

Also included as participants will be the Young Men's Club of John Wesley Church, Frostburg, and the Young Men's Club of Metropolitan A. M. E. Church of Cumberland.

City Speedmeter Ready For Test

The City Police Department has its electro-matic speedmeter and accessories ready for operation as soon as the winter weather breaks, John J. Long, police and fire commissioner, announced yesterday.

The radar equipment will be used to check on speeders on the main arteries of the city, the commissioner explained.

The demonstration will be held on Bedford Street for the public and specifically for the magistrates.

Signs have been painted by the department's painter, which will warn motorists they are entering a radar-controlled zone, Long said.

The test will be conducted by City Police under the direction of experienced State Police.

One man will watch the meter and record the speed of the vehicle passing through meter's zone. Another man will sit in the cruiser and call ahead by radio to another cruiser which will stop the motorist and give him a warning, Long explained.

At first when the device is placed in operation motorists who are found to be violating the speed limit will be warned, Long said.

Then after a period of educating the public sufficiently, the speedmeter will be used to nab violators, the commission added.

Extra large sheets of wax paper to cover cakes, pies or cookies may be made by overlapping regular sheets and joining by pressing the seams with a hot iron.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

May psychosomatic illness begin as "organic"?

Answer: Yes. The basis of psychosomatic illness is a totally unconscious "need" to suffer or be helpless, and the form the illness takes does not depend entirely on what type of emotional disturbance creates this need. When some organ has been weakened by disease or injury, the unconscious mind is likely to select it as the basis of chronic invalidism because among other things this makes continued illness more plausibly "real." For example, if you have had and recovered from organic heart trouble, your heart will be likely to remain especially susceptible to fear or emotional shocks.

Are mental hospitals improving?

Answer: Definitely, yes, although we have still made only a beginning. The widespread exposes of some five years ago have led to a clean-up of the worst abuses, especially in state institutions, and here and there real advances have been made—mainly by providing more and better trained psychiatrists and attendants. It is gradually coming to be recognized that a large share of mental ills are curable and that to give a mental patient a few months of intensive and comparatively costly treatment and discharge him makes more sense than to keep him on a bare subsistence level for the rest of his life.

Is there any such thing as "childbirth insanity"?

Answer: Not in the sense that there is a special form of mental illness which child-bearing brings on, says Dr. Hunter P. Harris in the Medical and Surgical Journal. In one out of every 400 to 1,000 cases, childbirth may have precipitated the "insanity"— most often temporary—but the type depends upon the person and the circumstances. It may be manic-depressive, schizophrenia, or simply the result of toxic exhaustion. If a mother-to-be shows signs of extreme nervousness, depression or excitability, she should have a psychiatric check-up to protect her from the possibility of mental disorder following her child's birth.

Mountain Lodge Holds Annual Installation

James Will Head Frostburg Masons

FROSTBURG—J. Kenneth James was installed worshipful master of Mountain Lodge 99, A. F. and A. M. Thursday at a meeting in the Masonic Temple.

Other officers installed to serve for the ensuing year are Dr. C. Paul Miller, senior warden; Donald C. Richardson, junior warden; Thomas G. McMorran, treasurer; J. Henry Hanson, secretary; Edgar McFarland, senior deacon.

The installation ceremony was in charge of Wayne Reed, Westernport, a past district grand inspector, who has performed the same ceremony at Mountain Lodge for the past 15 consecutive years.

Reed was assisted by Past Master Walter E. Jeffries, as grand marshall, assisted by the following past masters, William Kroll, Joseph Evans, Oliver W. Simons, Benjamin Myers, Timothy Fuller, Charles McFarland, J. Stanley Hunter and J. Henry Hanson.

Following the installation, a past master's jewel was presented to the retiring past master, Harold E. Carter, by Charles McFarland on behalf of the lodge. He was also presented a gavel by Joseph Evans, the gavel being a gift from William Kroll.

During the business meeting, the annual report of the lodge and the trustees was read by Ralph M. Race, a member of the auditing committee, which included William B. Yates, Sr. and Joseph Cook.

Collation was served by members of Mountain Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

The meeting was attended by a number of out-of-town visitors, including Past Master Walter Dawson, of the Oakland Lodge, and Dr. Harold Reese, of State Teachers College faculty and a member of Cedar Lodge, No. 670, Mount Carmel, Pa

The Mormon pioneers are credited with being the first Anglo-Saxons to practice irrigation in farming.

LITTLE GIANTS TO HONOR FRIEND—Twelve-year-old Ronnie LaRue (center, in bed) will be honored by members of Frostburg's Little League baseball group at a banquet for players, parents and friends Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. in the recreation hall of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, Frostburg. Ronnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaRue, Sand Spring, was one of the first boys to apply for team membership last spring. A routine physical check disclosed that Ronnie had a heart condition and would have to spend a long time in bed. He's been bedfast since last spring, but manages to entertain himself with a television set in his bedroom, modeling clay and books. In the photo (front row, left to right) are Gene Zumpano, Nat Wright, Bill Mackay, Chester Carter, Ronnie, Kenny Harris, Raymond Talley and Billy Seibert; (second row) Manager George Hawkins, Connie Filsinger, Butch Hawkins, Jack Fisher, Paul Nolan, Ronnie Smith and Assistant Manager Tony Zumpano. Tickets are now on sale in Frostburg.

Kiwanians Hear Hot Lunch Talk At Keyser Meet

Mrs. Hott Outlines School Program

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mrs. Frank Hott, supervisor of the hot lunch department for Keyser high and elementary schools, was guest speaker at the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday.

All lunches are prepared, Mrs. Hott said, with the aim of providing foods necessary for the growing child.

Every effort is made, she said, to acquaint the child with the need of certain foods, vegetables, meat, bread, milk, etc., and bring these matters to their attention as part of their education.

Through the Department of Agriculture, there is a reimbursement on cost of foods amounting to seven cents per meal served. This, Mrs. Hott said, is not near enough to meet the higher costs of foods now, "but we manage to get along."

The program now serves between 270 and 300 each school day noon. In December there were more than 900 free lunches served.

The speaker said that one of the serious problems before the operators of the lunch is the need for equipment, and she referred particularly to the loss in glassware.

The talk was followed by a round robin session with questions being asked by Kiwanians on needs and other points about the operation of the hot lunch program.

There were two visitors at the meeting, Calvin Kidler, Martinsburg Club, and Bernard Dennis of the Belington Club.

Frostburg Little League Plans Banquet Wednesday

Bedfast Boy To Be Honor Guest

FROSTBURG—Officers of Frostburg Little League have completed plans for a banquet for Little League players, parents and friends Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. in the recreation hall of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, will be toastmaster, and Bobbie Cavanaugh, prominent high school coach of Cumberland, the principal speaker.

The benediction will be by Rev. George L. Wehler, pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, and the invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Regis Larkin, assistant pastor and director of athletics of St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Trophies and awards to members of the 1951 Little League Team will be presented by commissioner Arthur "Tad" Bond. Each member of the Yankee team will be presented with a loving cup.

The program will also feature the showing of a motion picture of the 1951 World Series games.

Guest of honor at the banquet will be Ronnie LaRue, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaRue, Sand Spring, who has been under treatment for a heart condition since last spring.

from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Lewis Domenick.

The lodge will also hold a public dance Sunday, January 20, from 9 to 12 p. m. at the home with music by the Melody Makers.

C. W. Chilcoat Installed IOOF Grand Noble

KEYSER, W. Va. — Charles W. Chilcoat, Keyser, was installed noble grand of Queen's Point Lodge 78, Independent Order of Odd Fellows at a recent meeting.

Installation services were conducted by Marvin W. Oates, district deputy grand master, District 11, of the West Virginia Grand Lodge, assisted by Grand Warden Charles A. Steiding, Keyser, and Past Grands of Queen's Point Lodge, Raymond Rice, C. M. Chilcoat, J. A. Athey and W. F. Frederick.

Other newly elected officers are: John W. Haines, vice grand; Luke McDowell, secretary; Marvin W. Oates, financial secretary and Charles D. Brown, treasurer.

The following appointive officers were also installed: Raymond Rice, warden William J. Bailey, conductor; Chester C. Compton, chaplain; Charles A. Steiding, right supporter to noble grand; W. F. Frederick and W. A. Mitchell, supporters to the vice grand; S. M. Bright, inside guard; J. A. Athey, outside guard, and D. F. Ritchie and C. E. Weese, scene supporters.

Lonaconing Man Drops Dead In Bedroom While Dressing

Edward Patterson, 63, of Allegany Street, Lonaconing, dropped dead in the bedroom of his home about 5 a. m. yesterday while dressing in response to a call to come to Memorial Hospital here where his wife, Mrs. Margaret Patterson, is in critical condition.

William Duckworth, a nephew of Mrs. Patterson, received a call from the hospital at 4:30 advising the family of her critical condition.

Mr. Duckworth, being ill, sent his wife and a brother, Wesley Duckworth, to the Patterson home to give the message to Mr. Patterson. The latter, although in failing health in recent weeks, said he felt well enough to make the trip to the hospital.

Mrs. Duckworth, Wesley Duckworth and a daughter of the Pattersons, Mrs. Elizabeth Humphrey, were waiting downstairs for him to dress. When he failed to appear after about ten minutes the daughter went to the bedroom and found him dead on the bed. He had apparently suffered a heart attack while dressing.

Mr. Patterson, a former merchant in Lonaconing, was last employed at the County Infirmary but stopped work there because of poor health.

Mrs. Patterson, a medical patient at the hospital, was still in critical condition last night.

Allan Ravenscroft, Silver Spring, spent the weekend visiting his mother, Mrs. Sara Ravenscroft, St. Mary's Terrace.

Kiwanians Hear Hot Lunch Talk At Keyser Meet

Mrs. Hott Outlines School Program

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mrs. Frank Hott, supervisor of the hot lunch department for Keyser high and elementary schools, was guest speaker at the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday.

All lunches are prepared, Mrs. Hott said, with the aim of providing foods necessary for the growing child.

Every effort is made, she said, to acquaint the child with the need of certain foods, vegetables, meat, bread, milk, etc., and bring these matters to their attention as part of their education.

Through the Department of Agriculture, there is a reimbursement on cost of foods amounting to seven cents per meal served. This, Mrs. Hott said, is not near enough to meet the higher costs of foods now, "but we manage to get along."

The program now serves between 270 and 300 each school day noon. In December there were more than 900 free lunches served.

The speaker said that one of the serious problems before the operators of the lunch is the need for equipment, and she referred particularly to the loss in glassware.

The talk was followed by a round robin session with questions being asked by Kiwanians on needs and other points about the operation of the hot lunch program.

There were two visitors at the meeting, Calvin Kidler, Martinsburg Club, and Bernard Dennis of the Belington Club.

Frostburg Little League Plans Banquet Wednesday

Bedfast Boy To Be Honor Guest

FROSTBURG—Officers of Frostburg Little League have completed plans for a banquet for Little League players, parents and friends Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. in the recreation hall of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Rev. John Bayley Jones, pastor of First Methodist Church, will be toastmaster, and Bobbie Cavanaugh, prominent high school coach of Cumberland, the principal speaker.

The benediction will be by Rev. George L. Wehler, pastor of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, and the invocation will be pronounced by Rev. Regis Larkin, assistant pastor and director of athletics of St. Michael's Catholic Church.

Trophies and awards to members of the 1951 Little League Team will be presented by commissioner Arthur "Tad" Bond. Each member of the Yankee team will be presented with a loving cup.

The program will also feature the showing of a motion picture of the 1951 World Series games.

Guest of honor at the banquet will be Ronnie LaRue, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaRue, Sand Spring, who has been under treatment for a heart condition since last spring.

The lodge will also hold a public dance Sunday, January 20, from 9 to 12 p. m. at the home with music by the Melody Makers.

Piedmont Italian Lodge Plans Supper, Dance

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Star of Italy Lodge 1426 will hold a public spaghetti supper at their home, 17 West Hampshire Street, Thursday, from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Lewis Domenick.

C. W. Chilcoat Installed IOOF Grand Noble

KEYSER, W. Va. — Charles W. Chilcoat, Keyser, was installed noble grand of Queen's Point Lodge 78, Independent Order of Odd Fellows at a recent meeting.

Installation services were conducted by Marvin W. Oates, district deputy grand master, District 11, of the West Virginia Grand Lodge, assisted by Grand Warden Charles A. Steiding, Keyser, and Past Grands of Queen's Point Lodge, Raymond Rice, C. M. Chilcoat, J. A. Athey and W. F. Frederick.

Other newly elected officers are: John W. Haines, vice grand; Luke McDowell, secretary; Marvin W. Oates, financial secretary and Charles D. Brown, treasurer.

The following appointive officers were also installed: Raymond Rice, warden William J. Bailey, conductor; Chester C. Compton, chaplain; Charles A. Steiding, right supporter to noble grand; W. F. Frederick and W. A. Mitchell, supporters to the vice grand; S. M. Bright, inside guard; J. A. Athey, outside guard, and D. F. Ritchie and C. E. Weese, scene supporters.

Lonaconing Man Drops Dead In Bedroom While Dressing

Edward Patterson, 63, of Allegany Street, Lonaconing, dropped dead in the bedroom of his home about 5 a. m. yesterday while dressing in response to a call to come to Memorial Hospital here where his wife, Mrs. Margaret Patterson, is in critical condition.

William Duckworth, a nephew of Mrs. Patterson, received a call from the hospital at 4:30 advising the family of her critical condition.

Mr. Duckworth, being ill, sent his wife and a brother, Wesley Duckworth, to the Patterson home to give the message to Mr. Patterson. The latter, although in failing health in recent weeks, said he felt well enough to make the trip to the hospital.

Mrs. Duckworth, Wesley Duckworth and a daughter of the Pattersons, Mrs. Elizabeth Humphrey, were waiting downstairs for him to dress. When he failed to appear after about ten minutes the daughter went to the bedroom and found him dead on the bed. He had apparently suffered a heart attack while dressing.

Mr. Patterson, a former merchant in Lonaconing, was last employed at the County Infirmary but stopped work there because of poor health.

Mrs. Patterson, a medical patient at the hospital, was still in critical condition last night.

Mountain Lodge Holds Annual Installation

James Will Head Frostburg Masons

FROSTBURG—J. Kenneth James was installed worshipful master of Mountain Lodge 99, A. F. and A. M. Thursday at a meeting in the Masonic Temple.

Other officers installed to serve for the ensuing year are Dr. C. Paul Miller, senior warden; Donald C. Richardson, junior warden; Thomas G. McMorran, treasurer; J. Henry Hanson, secretary; Edgar McFarland, senior deacon.

The installation ceremony was in charge of Wayne Reed, Westernport, a past district grand inspector, who has performed the same ceremony at Mountain Lodge for the past 15 consecutive years.

Reed was assisted by Past Master Walter E. Jeffries, as grand marshall, assisted by the following past masters, William Kroll, Joseph Evans, Oliver W. Simons, Benjamin Myers, Timothy Fuller, Charles McFarland, J. Stanley Hunter and J. Henry Hanson.

Following the installation, a past master's jewel was presented to the retiring past master, Harold E. Carter, by Charles McFarland on behalf of the lodge. He was also presented a gavel by Joseph Evans, the gavel being a gift from William Kroll.

During the business meeting, the annual report of the lodge and the trustees was read by Ralph M. Race, a member of the auditing committee, which included William B. Yates, Sr. and Joseph Cook.

Collation was served by members of Mountain Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

The meeting was attended by a number of out-of-town visitors, including Past Master Walter Dawson, of the Oakland Lodge, and Dr. Harold Reese, of State Teachers College faculty and a member of Cedar Lodge, No. 670, Mount Carmel, Pa

LITTLE GIANTS TO HONOR FRIEND—Twelve-year-old Ronnie LaRue (center, in bed) will be honored by members of Frostburg's Little League baseball group at a banquet for players, parents and friends Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. in the recreation hall of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, Frostburg. Ronnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaRue, Sand Spring, was one of the first boys to apply for team membership last spring. A routine physical check disclosed that Ronnie had a heart condition and would have to spend a long time in bed. He's been bedfast since last spring, but manages to entertain himself with a television set in his bedroom, modeling clay and books. In the photo (front row, left to right) are Gene Zumpano, Nat Wright, Bill Mackay, Chester Carter, Ronnie, Kenny Harris, Raymond Talley and Billy Seibert; (second row) Manager George Hawkins, Connie Filsinger, Butch Hawkins, Jack Fisher, Paul Nolan, Ronnie Smith and Assistant Manager Tony Zumpano. Tickets are now on sale in Frostburg.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11—(INS)—In just a few days Dana Andrews flies to Europe for the lead in "European Edition," and when he comes back he'll hang his hat up permanently at Mr. Harry Cohn's Columbia. Dana, who has been with Sam Goldwyn and Darryl Zanuck for twelve years, has agreed to part from his two former bosses, and it's mutual. It was Goldwyn who first took Dana away from his job in a gas station and later shared his acting talents with 20th.

The parting is perfectly amicable and Dana says if Darryl has a job for him he wants to do it. And anytime Goldwyn wants him he's going to try to answer the call.

One reason Dana wanted out was because of the deal he made to telecast the "I Was A Communist" series. He wants more free time from pictures for his TV chores.

When Kirk Douglas arrives in Hollywood this next week, he'll bring his own leading lady with him. He saw a girl from Memphis, Tennessee, in a play at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and telephoned Howard Hawks, the director of his next picture, "The Left Hand Of God," about the lady. They are keeping her name secret until after she has a test, but according to Kirk she is a Lauren Bacall type and made to order for the Hawks movie

I call it very interesting news that Sylvia Sidney, who has been out of movies far too long, returns in ten days to make a picture. She reports to Freddie Kohlmar at 20th for "Les Miserables."

Sylvia plays Fantine, the tragic woman of the streets who sells herself in order to support her daughter, Cozette. It's Jean Valjean, who later adopts Cozette.

In the 1934 version of "Les Miserables" Florence Eldridge played the unhappy Fantine, so you see the part calls for a very fine actress.

That glamorous actress of the silent days, Norma Talmadge, who is still remembered with love and affection by many fans, has been hospitalized in San Francisco. Norma is suffering from chronic arthritis and her current attack is the most severe she's had.

Her sister, Constance Talmadge Giblin, is flying from Miami to San Francisco to be with her sister who has gone home from the hospital but is still in great pain.

Norma is married to Dr. Carvel James, who has not practiced since the war, because of a lung condition brought on at that time.

When Moira Shearer starts rehearsing her ballet numbers for one of the sequences in "Three Love Stories" she'll have Fred Ashton, one of the leading choreographers of the Sadler's Wells Ballet, as dance director. The film will be shot as quickly as possible because of her expected baby.

Isn't this a new twosome? Patricia Medina and Bentley Ryan at a table for two at the Encore.

It's a boy for the Herman Saunders. Papa, who plays the piano at the Bantam Cock, was congratulated by Harry James and Betty Grable, who were dining at the Bantam with their children.

Is Sidney Chaplin working up a heartthrob for Claire Bloom, Charlie's leading lady? They walk around the lot hand in hand.

The Oscar Jane Wyman thought was stolen at the time of her jewel robbery is safe and sound and just where Jane put it—in a niche in her hallway.

Congratulations today to Virginia and Darryl Zanuck on their wedding anniversary, and to Mary and Jack Benny. The Bennys have reached the twenty-five year mark, and the Zanucks have passed it by a year. While we're talking about all the Hollywood divorces, these four people have been happily married all these years and have never let success interfere with their happiness.

Barbara Stanwyck looked like a doll in a most becoming green suit, dining at Chasen's with Mary and Jack Benny, Bobbe and Bill Perlberg, Nancy Sinatra, George Jessel and Freddie Kohlmar.

That's all today. See you Monday.

If you know the cause of your awkwardness you can easily overcome it. Here are the basic sources!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Are you conscious now and then of some inexplicable awkwardness in your movements? Many women who generally move with ease are suddenly dismayed to find they have knocked over a glass; perhaps, knocked against a piece of furniture. Or, as it is commonly expressed, feel "all thumbs" or "all feet" when trying to do something. Why? Understanding of the cause will help to prevent recurrences.

Cause Of Awkwardness

Usually, tension in the joints is responsible. When your body hinges are relaxed and flexible, gaucheries just don't occur. Joints become tense and lose their capacity for fluid motion as a result of too little exercise, a sudden attack of nerves, or a self-consciousness. To insure smooth performance at all times, learn to be aware of tension the moment it starts.

As an example of tension, make this experiment: Clasp your hands in your lap and squeeze the fingers tightly together. You'll feel tension running all the way up your arms. Look at your hands and you'll see how gawky and unpoised this tension makes them appear. Now, shake your hands hard; then lightly clasp them and let them fall relaxed to your lap. This time you'll feel the flow of relaxation all along your muscles. Look at your hands and you'll see grace and poise. The same principle of relaxation governs the grace of your feet, legs, arms, shoulders, and head.

But let us stick to hands for the nonce. These exercises performed daily will transform an ordinary gesture into a lovely exhibit of your charm:

1. In front of your mirror, raise your arms, with palms up, to slightly below shoulder level. Check to be sure each joint feels relaxed. Then slowly and rhythmically swing your hands toward each other at chest level gradually turning them over. By the time your wrists cross, your hands should be turned so that the palms face one another. Continue your swing until the backs of the hands rest on your shoulders. Reverse the swing to bring your hands back to starting position.

Beauty In Relaxation

2. Swing both arms forward to full extension at shoulder level, palms down. Then, without pause, swing the arms down to your sides and up to shoulder level at the sides. Now, very gradually, describe wide arcs with your hands so that your wrists cross in front of your abdomen. With a quick upward fling, return your hands to the shoulder level position at the sides.

When you learn to keep not only your hands, but every part of your body relaxed, you'll be a willow-wand!

If I Were
Superintendent of School
I definitely would allow every boy and girl to be excused from attending school during any of these days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 15-16-17, so that they could see one of the TRULY GREAT MOTION PICTURES, "THE MAGNIFICENT YANKEE". "The Magnificent Yankee" is a heart-warming movie — It's beautiful, it's great, it's magnificent! I would make this movie in Cumberland, the one picture that every boy and girl
— MUST SEE —
I would also do this after the picture was shown — Call all the Boys and Girls together in the auditorium of their school and have a discussion about this wonderful motion picture.
"THE MAGNIFICENT YANKEE"
stars the Academy Award nominee, Louis Calhern, and Ann Harding and a great cast of M-G-M featured players.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11—(INS)—In just a few days Dana Andrews flies to Europe for the lead in "European Edition," and when he comes back he'll hang his hat up permanently at Mr. Harry Cohn's Columbia. Dana, who has been with Sam Goldwyn and Darryl Zanuck for twelve years, has agreed to part from his two former bosses, and it's mutual. It was Goldwyn who first took Dana away from his job in a gas station and later shared his acting talents with 20th.

The parting is perfectly amicable and Dana says if Darryl has a job for him he wants to do it. And anytime Goldwyn wants him he's going to try to answer the call.

One reason Dana wanted out was because of the deal he made to telecast the "I Was A Communist" series. He wants more free time from pictures for his TV chores.

When Kirk Douglas arrives in Hollywood this next week, he'll bring his own leading lady with him. He saw a girl from Memphis, Tennessee, in a play at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and telephoned Howard Hawks, the director of his next picture, "The Left Hand Of God," about the lady. They are keeping her name secret until after she has a test, but according to Kirk she is a Lauren Bacall type and made to order for the Hawks movie

I call it very interesting news that Sylvia Sidney, who has been out of movies far too long, returns in ten days to make a picture. She reports to Freddie Kohlmar at 20th for "Les Miserables."

Sylvia plays Fantine, the tragic woman of the streets who sells herself in order to support her daughter, Cozette. It's Jean Valjean, who later adopts Cozette.

In the 1934 version of "Les Miserables" Florence Eldridge played the unhappy Fantine, so you see the part calls for a very fine actress.

That glamorous actress of the silent days, Norma Talmadge, who is still remembered with love and affection by many fans, has been hospitalized in San Francisco. Norma is suffering from chronic arthritis and her current attack is the most severe she's had.

Her sister, Constance Talmadge Giblin, is flying from Miami to San Francisco to be with her sister who has gone home from the hospital but is still in great pain.

Norma is married to Dr. Carvel James, who has not practiced since the war, because of a lung condition brought on at that time.

When Moira Shearer starts rehearsing her ballet numbers for one of the sequences in "Three Love Stories" she'll have Fred Ashton, one of the leading choreographers of the Sadler's Wells Ballet, as dance director. The film will be shot as quickly as possible because of her expected baby.

Isn't this a new twosome? Patricia Medina and Bentley Ryan at a table for two at the Encore.

It's a boy for the Herman Saunders. Papa, who plays the piano at the Bantam Cock, was congratulated by Harry James and Betty Grable, who were dining at the Bantam with their children.

Is Sidney Chaplin working up a heartthrob for Claire Bloom, Charlie's leading lady? They walk around the lot hand in hand.

The Oscar Jane Wyman thought was stolen at the time of her jewel robbery is safe and sound and just where Jane put it—in a niche in her hallway.

Congratulations today to Virginia and Darryl Zanuck on their wedding anniversary, and to Mary and Jack Benny. The Bennys have reached the twenty-five year mark, and the Zanucks have passed it by a year. While we're talking about all the Hollywood divorces, these four people have been happily married all these years and have never let success interfere with their happiness.

Barbara Stanwyck looked like a doll in a most becoming green suit, dining at Chasen's with Mary and Jack Benny, Bobbe and Bill Perlberg, Nancy Sinatra, George Jessel and Freddie Kohlmar.

That's all today. See you Monday.

If you know the cause of your awkwardness you can easily overcome it. Here are the basic sources!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Are you conscious now and then of some inexplicable awkwardness in your movements? Many women who generally move with ease are suddenly dismayed to find they have knocked over a glass; perhaps, knocked against a piece of furniture. Or, as it is commonly expressed, feel "all thumbs" or "all feet" when trying to do something. Why? Understanding of the cause will help to prevent recurrences.

Cause Of Awkwardness

Usually, tension in the joints is responsible. When your body hinges are relaxed and flexible, gaucheries just don't occur. Joints become tense and lose their capacity for fluid motion as a result of too little exercise, a sudden attack of nerves, or a self-consciousness. To insure smooth performance at all times, learn to be aware of tension the moment it starts.

As an example of tension, make this experiment: Clasp your hands in your lap and squeeze the fingers tightly together. You'll feel tension running all the way up your arms. Look at your hands and you'll see how gawky and unpoised this tension makes them appear. Now, shake your hands hard; then lightly clasp them and let them fall relaxed to your lap. This time you'll feel the flow of relaxation all along your muscles. Look at your hands and you'll see grace and poise. The same principle of relaxation governs the grace of your feet, legs, arms, shoulders, and head.

But let us stick to hands for the nonce. These exercises performed daily will transform an ordinary gesture into a lovely exhibit of your charm:

1. In front of your mirror, raise your arms, with palms up, to slightly below shoulder level. Check to be sure each joint feels relaxed. Then slowly and rhythmically swing your hands toward each other at chest level gradually turning them over. By the time your wrists cross, your hands should be turned so that the palms face one another. Continue your swing until the backs of the hands rest on your shoulders. Reverse the swing to bring your hands back to starting position.

Beauty In Relaxation

2. Swing both arms forward to full extension at shoulder level, palms down. Then, without pause, swing the arms down to your sides and up to shoulder level at the sides. Now, very gradually, describe wide arcs with your hands so that your wrists cross in front of your abdomen. With a quick upward fling, return your hands to the shoulder level position at the sides.

When you learn to keep not only your hands, but every part of your body relaxed, you'll be a willow-wand!

By JOHN CROSBY

The Revolt In Gary

"I am allergic to talk—especially talk about democracy—that does not carry with it responsible action," writes Elmore McKee, of the Ford Foundation, in the current issue of "The Survey." McKee, a member of the Friends Service Committee, had considerable experience in Germany with the futility of talk about democracy.

John Crosby

In Frankfurt, for example, he tried to appoint a committee of three—a professional laundry operative, a social worker, and a neighborhood mother—to discuss plans for a proposed laundry in a new neighborhood center. His proposal was rejected after a local priest declared: "In Germany, we leave these matters to the experts."

This provoked from McKee the observation: "In America we would not leave the laundry to the experts but to the people—to all groups concerned, including the mothers who would use it. Your method seems to be a vertical trusting of the specialists, ours to be a horizontal faith in all concerned." Said a German: "Is that what you mean by democracy, that all people concerned should have something to say?"

"Yes," answered McKee, "and be responsible."

Said the German: "I have waited a year to find out what your government meant by democracy. Now I see."

McKee got his committee. Later, returning to this country, McKee fell to wondering whether America was quite so horizontally operated as he had said, whether Americans had not forgotten that democracy consisted not only of the privilege of participation but of the responsibility for it, about whether Americans didn't need a Voice to America as well as a Voice from it.

This led him to originate a radio series called "The People Act" which ran for some time on NBC and which last week, improved and revised, opened on CBS (10:05 p. m. EST Sundays) as a cooperative undertaking between the Ford Foundation and the CBS Radio-Television workshop. "The People Act" is a series of tape-recorded, documented stories about genuinely horizontal democracy, a phenomenon much rarer in this country—which is so fond of prating about democracy but not of practicing it—than we like to think about.

From Gary, Ind., a tough steel town with once the second highest incidence of crime, the third highest incidence of vice in the country, came the tape-recorded voice of the steel workers, the housewives, the district attorney, explaining the predicament Gary was in. The city was in the grip of two national crime syndicates. The syndicates had financed the elections and had set up a super-government which allowed them the protection to operate.

One night a popular school teacher, Mary Cheever, was murdered on her way home, the eighth murder in a year. A long-suppressed murmur of outrage swept through Gary's womenfolk. Telephones began to ring. Questions flew. The upshot was a march on City Hall of 2,000 angry women who demanded and were promised law enforcement.

They didn't get it. The gambling houses flourished. Crime abated not at all. The more active members of the Women's Citizens Committee received threatening phone calls. The husband of one, who was told to shut his wife up or suffer dire consequence, replied mildly: "You shut her up. I've been trying to for 11 years."

The women set up their own spy system, keeping watch on the gambling houses and writing down the names of the patrons. They sat accusingly in the idle courts, visited the idle police stations. They called in a private detective. He got a job as janitor in the A. A.'s office which he instandly wired for sound. Recordings of the conversations in the D. A.'s office, a convenient and damning record of bribery and corruption—one of them played on the broadcast—were kept under cover until the 1950 elections when they blew the administration clear out of office. The alliance between crime and politics was destroyed in Gary.

They underplay nicely, these amateur actors who simply re-enact the roles they played in the Gary revolt, and Bob Trout, the narrator refrains entirely from editorializing. He doesn't have to. Mr. McKee's moral is sufficiently plain.

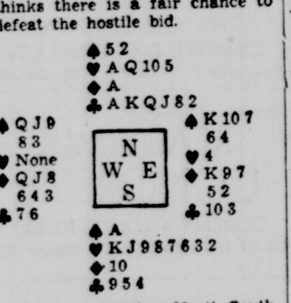
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO FORCING PASSES

THERE are two contrasting situations in which your pass is considered by good players to be a force upon your partner, commanding him to bid or double. One might be called "positive," when it is obvious your side can either beat the current bid by your opponents or can make the contract your partner might choose, and you put it up to him to make the decision as to which he considers more profitable. The other might be called "negative," since it virtually orders him to make a sacrifice bid unless he thinks there is a fair chance to defeat the hostile bid.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♥	2 ♠	6 ♥	6 ♠
7 ♥	7 ♠	Dbl.
2. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♥	2 ♠	6 ♥	6 ♠
7 ♥	7 ♠	Pass	Pass
7 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

One funny thing about the bidding at those two tables of a team match is that North on his second turn saw fit to bid small slam in hearts despite his holding two spades. He felt that the obviously welcome fit shown by the not vulnerable opponents in the face of South's ability to make a free bid of 2-Hearts indicated so many spades for them that South couldn't possibly hold two losers himself in spades.

More significant, however, than that coincidence, is the difference between the acts of North on the third round. When North at Table 1 saw fit to take absolutely definite action by doubling the 7-Spades, South was soundly obliged to pass and let his side beat East's contract. Where North passed the 7-Spades, he really took much stronger action. He could be sure his partner knew, from the preceding bids, that East's contract could be defeated, and his pass left the decision up to South on whether to overbid the 7-Spades with 7-No Trumps or double. When South happened to hold the spade A instead of a void in the suit, he put the contract into 7-No Trumps. Obviously that was made, to win the deal. In brief, North's forcing pass was a much stronger act than a double.

Your Weekend Question

Have you ever tried a play against a fine cardsman, which worked, but would not have been attempted against a mediocre player because you would expect it to fail? Can you recall an example of such a play or, if not, construct a deal to which the underlying principle might be applied?

Eddas or sagas are names given to ancient epic poems which form the traditions of the Scandinavian races.

The Revolt In Gary

"I am allergic to talk—especially talk about democracy—that does not carry with it responsible action," writes Elmore McKee, of the Ford Foundation, in the current issue of "The Survey." McKee, a member of the Friends Service Committee, had considerable experience in Germany with the futility of talk about democracy.

John Crosby

In Frankfurt, for example, he tried to appoint a committee of three—a professional laundry operative, a social worker, and a neighborhood mother—to discuss plans for a proposed laundry in a new neighborhood center. His proposal was rejected after a local priest declared: "In Germany, we leave these matters to the experts."

This provoked from McKee the observation: "In America we would not leave the laundry to the experts but to the people—to all groups concerned, including the mothers who would use it. Your method seems to be a vertical trusting of the specialists, ours to be a horizontal faith in all concerned." Said a German: "Is that what you mean by democracy, that all people concerned should have something to say?"

"Yes," answered McKee, "and be responsible."

Said the German: "I have waited a year to find out what your government meant by democracy. Now I see."

McKee got his committee. Later, returning to this country, McKee fell to wondering whether America was quite so horizontally operated as he had said, whether Americans had not forgotten that democracy consisted not only of the privilege of participation but of the responsibility for it, about whether Americans didn't need a Voice to America as well as a Voice from it.

This led him to originate a radio series called "The People Act" which ran for some time on NBC and which last week, improved and revised, opened on CBS (10:05 p. m. EST Sundays) as a cooperative undertaking between the Ford Foundation and the CBS Radio-Television workshop. "The People Act" is a series of tape-recorded, documented stories about genuinely horizontal democracy, a phenomenon much rarer in this country—which is so fond of prating about democracy but not of practicing it—than we like to think about.

From Gary, Ind., a tough steel town with once the second highest incidence of crime, the third highest incidence of vice in the country, came the tape-recorded voice of the steel workers, the housewives, the district attorney, explaining the predicament Gary was in. The city was in the grip of two national crime syndicates. The syndicates had financed the elections and had set up a super-government which allowed them the protection to operate.

One night a popular school teacher, Mary Cheever, was murdered on her way home, the eighth murder in a year. A long-suppressed murmur of outrage swept through Gary's womenfolk. Telephones began to ring. Questions flew. The upshot was a march on City Hall of 2,000 angry women who demanded and were promised law enforcement.

They didn't get it. The gambling houses flourished. Crime abated not at all. The more active members of the Women's Citizens Committee received threatening phone calls. The husband of one, who was told to shut his wife up or suffer dire consequence, replied mildly: "You shut her up. I've been trying to for 11 years."

The women set up their own spy system, keeping watch on the gambling houses and writing down the names of the patrons. They sat accusingly in the idle courts, visited the idle police stations. They called in a private detective. He got a job as janitor in the A. A.'s office which he instantly wired for sound. Recordings of the conversations in the D. A.'s office, a convenient and damning record of bribery and corruption—one of them played on the broadcast—were kept under cover until the 1950 elections when they blew the administration clear out of office. The alliance between crime and politics was destroyed in Gary.

They underplay nicely, these amateur actors who simply re-enact the roles they played in the Gary revolt, and Bob Trout, the narrator refrains entirely from editorializing. He doesn't have to. Mr. McKee's moral is sufficiently plain.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO FORCING PASSES

THERE are two contrasting situations in which your pass is considered by good players to be a force upon your partner, commanding him to bid or double. One might be called "positive," when it is obvious your side can either beat the current bid by your opponents or can make the contract your partner might choose, and you put it up to him to make the decision as to which he considers more profitable. The other might be called "negative," since it virtually orders him to make a sacrifice bid unless he thinks there is a fair chance to defeat the hostile bid.

♠ Q J 9 8 3 ♥ None ♦ Q J 8 6 4 3 ♣ 7 6	N W E S	♠ K 10 7 6 4 ♥ 4 ♦ K 9 7 5 2 ♣ 10 3
	♠ A ♥ K J 9 8 7 6 3 2 ♦ 10 ♣ 9 5 4

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♥	2 ♠	6 ♥	6 ♠
7 ♥	7 ♠	Dbl.
2. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
2 ♥	2 ♠	6 ♥	6 ♠
7 ♥	7 ♠	Pass	Pass
7 NT	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

One funny thing about the bidding at those two tables of a team match is that North on his second turn saw fit to bid small slam in hearts despite his holding two spades. He felt that the obviously welcome fit shown by the not vulnerable opponents in the face of South's ability to make a free bid of 2-Hearts indicated so many spades for them that South couldn't possibly hold two losers himself in spades.

More significant, however, than that coincidence, is the difference between the acts of North on the third round. When North at Table 1 saw fit to take absolutely definite action by doubling the 7-Spades, South was soundly obliged to pass and let his side beat East's contract. Where North passed the 7-Spades, he really took much stronger action. He could be sure his partner knew, from the preceding bids, that East's contract could be defeated, and his pass left the decision up to South on whether to overbid the 7-Spades with 7-No Trumps or double. When South happened to hold the spade A instead of a void in the suit, he put the contract into 7-No Trumps. Obviously that was made, to win the deal. In brief, North's forcing pass was a much stronger act than a double.

Your Weekend Question

Have you ever tried a play against a fine cardsman, which worked, but would not have been attempted against a mediocre player because you would expect it to fail? Can you recall an example of such a play or, if not, construct a deal to which the underlying principle might be applied?

One funny thing about the bidding at those two tables of a team match is that North on his second turn saw fit to bid small slam in hearts despite his holding two spades. He felt that the obviously welcome fit shown by the not vulnerable opponents in the face of South's ability to make a free bid of 2-Hearts indicated so many spades for them that South couldn't possibly hold two losers himself in spades.

More significant, however, than that coincidence, is the difference between the acts of North on the third round. When North at Table 1 saw fit to take absolutely definite action by doubling the 7-Spades, South was soundly obliged to pass and let his side beat East's contract. Where North passed the 7-Spades, he really took much stronger action. He could be sure his partner knew, from the preceding bids, that East's contract could be defeated, and his pass left the decision up to South on whether to overbid the 7-Spades with 7-No Trumps or double. When South happened to hold the spade A instead of a void in the suit, he put the contract into 7-No Trumps. Obviously that was made, to win the deal. In brief, North's forcing pass was a much stronger act than a double.

Your Weekend Question

Have you ever tried a play against a fine cardsman, which worked, but would not have been attempted against a mediocre player because you would expect it to fail? Can you recall an example of such a play or, if not, construct a deal to which the underlying principle might be applied?

Eddas or sagas are names given to ancient epic poems which form the traditions of the Scandinavian races.

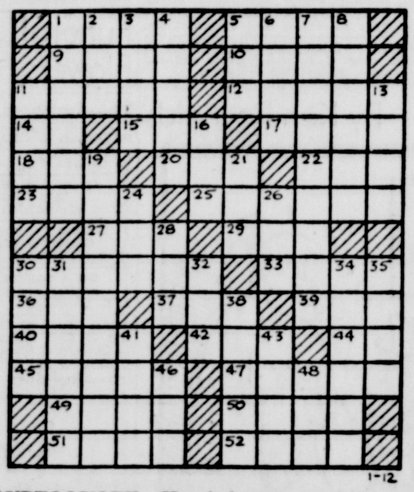
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E P U A U B P U N I L M T A U U L R B P U K B M T U, B P U X A H R M R X G X B N X K E L R I U A S H W—K P U A X I M R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AND SAYS, IF LADIES BE BUT YOUNG AND FAIR, THEY HAVE THE GIFT TO KNOW IT—SHAKESPEARE.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to take this means to thank our many friends who were so kind and sympathetic during our sad bereavement—the sudden death of our husband and father, John J. Counihan. We are grateful for the lovely floral tributes, for the use of cars for the funeral and other kind expressions of sympathy.
Wife and Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Ira W. Valentine, whom God called away one year ago today, January 12, 1951.

AFTERWARD
If there's an afterward, my dear,
Oh, surely there must be;
And you should go before I do,
Oh, please wait there for me.

One lifetime could not be enough
For this deep love we share,
And it would not be heaven, if
I could not find you there.

So, Darling, stay close by the gate,
Don't venture very far.
Then we will spend eternity
Beyond some distant star.

Sadly missed by his living wife,
Ida Valentine

Card Of Thanks

We wish to take this means to thank our many friends who were so kind and sympathetic during our sad bereavement—the sudden death of our husband and father, John J. Counihan. We are grateful for the lovely floral tributes, for the use of cars for the funeral and other kind expressions of sympathy.
Wife and Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Ira W. Valentine, whom God called away one year ago today, January 12, 1951.

AFTERWARD
If there's an afterward, my dear,
Oh, surely there must be;
And you should go before I do,
Oh, please wait there for me.

One lifetime could not be enough
For this deep love we share,
And it would not be heaven, if
I could not find you there.

So, Darling, stay close by the gate,
Don't venture very far.
Then we will spend eternity
Beyond some distant star.

Sadly missed by his living wife,
Ida Valentine

Card Of Thanks

We wish to take this means to thank our many friends who were so kind and sympathetic during our sad bereavement—the sudden death of our husband and father, John J. Counihan. We are grateful for the lovely floral tributes, for the use of cars for the funeral and other kind expressions of sympathy.
Wife and Children.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Ira W. Valentine, whom God called away one year ago today, January 12, 1951.

AFTERWARD
If there's an afterward, my dear,
Oh, surely there must be;
And you should go before I do,
Oh, please wait there for me.

One lifetime could not be enough
For this deep love we share,
And it would not be heaven, if
I could not find you there.

So, Darling, stay close by the gate,
Don't venture very far,
Then we will spend eternity
Beyond some distant star.

Sadly missed by his living wife,
Ida Valentine

DEATHS and FUNERALS

PATRICK L. FEENEY

Patrick L. Feeney, 77, of Lagonda Avenue, died yesterday in Allegany Hospital as a result of injuries sustained in a fall on Wednesday.

Mr. Feeney was born May 20, 1874, in Hutton, Md., son of the late Peter and Margaret (Flaherty) Feeney. He was the husband of the late Bertha C. (Laing) Feeney. A former owner of a tavern, he had lived in Cumberland for 56 years. Mr. Feeney was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Surviving are five sons, William L., Peter A., Hubert J., of Cumberland; James P., Baltimore; Francis Gerard Feeney, South Bend, Ind.; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine M. Stump, New York; and Mrs. Patricia J. Norton, Paw Paw, W. Va.

The body is at Scarpelli's Funeral Home where the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church will recite the rosary at 7 p. m. tomorrow.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church with interment in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

BANNER BISHOP

Banner Bishop, Route 2, Flintstone, died Thursday at the home of a brother, Warford Banner, where he had lived for 16 years as a farmer.

Born in Fulton County, Pa., Mr. Banner was the son of the late George W. and Anna Belle (Hess) Bishop.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sara Jane Deneen, Amaranth, Pa.; and Mrs. C. A. Hammond, Martinsburg, W. Va.; two other brothers, Thomas, Orleans, W. Va., and Abslum, Warfordsburg, Pa.

The body is at Stein's Chapel and will be taken to the Christian Church, Buck's Valley, Pa., at 1:30 p. m. Monday for funeral services. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

MRS. JOSEPH W. WEAVER

A requiem mass for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (O'Neill) Weaver, 64, who died at the home of her son, George W. Weaver, 118 North Chase Street Tuesday, was held yesterday at St. Patrick's Church, with Rev. John U. Lyness officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Fradiska, James Angellatta, Joseph Carpenti, Carl Hammersmith, George Aman, Jr., and Harry Norris.

MRS. CHARLES A. ROCKWELL

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. — Services were held yesterday for Mrs. Charles A. Rockwell, 74, who died Tuesday at her home, at Kogelschatz and Coffman Chapel with Dr. J. Paul Gruver officiating, assisted by Rev. J. Kenneth Clark. Interment was in Rosedale Cemetery.

Mrs. Rockwell, a resident of Cumberland, Md., for eight years, was the daughter of the late Conrad and Ida (Taylor) Long. She was married to Charles A. Rockwell in 1895 in Hagerstown. They celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary last month.

LEGGE SERVICES

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Services for Charles Richard Legge, 63, of 28 Jones Street, who died Sunday in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, were held Wednesday afternoon at Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church with Rev. James Taylor, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Active pallbearers were T. C. Tichnell, Fred Green, Paul Randell, Herman Broadwater, George Whiteman and Robert Walker. Honorary pallbearers included Charles McKenzie, Earl Halterman, James Loy, J. W. Rosier, William Russell, Don McDowell, Don McIntyre, Russell Reeves, George McDowell, Francis Moorehead, Jack Smith and Frank Moyer.

JAMES SILBAUGH, 2ND

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. — James Arthur Silbaugh, 2nd, 37, who died Saturday at his home in Vanderbilt, was buried Tuesday afternoon in Flatwoods Cemetery. Services were conducted at Vanderbilt Methodist Church with Rev. Donald L. Rearic, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Silbaugh was employed by the Anchor Hocking Glass Corp.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Anna Mae Silbaugh; two children, James and Ruth Silbaugh, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Silbaugh, Vanderbilt, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Smith, Flintstone, Md., and Mrs. Julia McGregor, Vanderbilt.

EDWARD F. CHABOT

FROSTBURG — Edward Francis Chabot, 64, prominent Eckhart building contrcator, died yesterday at his home after an illness of 14 months.

A son of the late Louis and Freda Chabot, he was twice married. After the death of his first wife, the former Miss Catherine Shea, he was married to the former Miss Christine Hager of Borden Mines, who survives him.

Mr. Chabot was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church. In the past year, he had been hospitalized four times and underwent two major operations.

Survivors include 14 children, Sgt. Edward Chabot, Durham, N. C.; Cpl. Thomas Chabot, Fort Benning, Ga.; James, Frostburg; Leo, Washington; Bernard, Mt. Rainier; Leonard, a student for the Catholic priesthood at St. Charles College, Catonsville; Richard, at home; Sister Mary Janet, an Ursuline sister in New York; Mrs. Mary Lewis, Eckhart; Mrs. Hilda Duda, Grantsville; Mrs. Rita Lavin, Eckhart; Mrs. Agnes Passatae, Dundalk; Mrs. Alma Harvey, Hyattsville, and Patricia, at home, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Mercedes Eiser, Baltimore.

Also surviving are 14 grandchildren, a brother, Joseph Chabot, Vale Summit, and two sisters, Mrs. Francis Chambers, Frostburg, and Mrs. Hulda Niner, Falls Church, Va.

The body is at the home in Eckhart.

JAMES S. DAVIS

FROSTBURG — Services for James S. Davis, 78, who died Wednesday, will be held today at 2:30 p. m. at Durst's Funeral Home with Rev. Harold R. Stoudt, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Daniel E. Eveland, pastor of First Presbyterian Church. Interment will be in Percy Cemetery.

Co-owner with his brother of a tobacco store, Mr. Davis was one of the oldest members of the Frostburg Fire Department. He was a son of the late John, a former Frostburg postmaster, and Sarah (Tennant) Davis. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva (Frantz) Davis, formerly of Cumberland.

MILLER SERVICES

LONACONING—A requiem mass for Christopher C. Miller, 64, who died Sunday in Allegany Hospital, was held Wednesday at St. Mary's Catholic Church with Rev. Charles J. Bogan officiating. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were William, Clarence, George, Alex, and Robert Miller, and Cecil Stephens.

EDWARD SHIPLEY

Services for Edward Shipley, 61, who died at his home in Baltimore Wednesday, will be held today at 1 p. m.

Mr. Shipley is the husband of the former Miss Fannie Ziler, formerly of Cumberland.

MRS. JENNIE B. YOST

GRANTSVILLE — Mrs. Jennie Broadwater Yost, 84, widow of the late John Yost, of Roanoke, Va., died Thursday, after being ill since before Christmas.

Mrs. Yost was a daughter of the late Josephus and Rebecca Kight Broadwater. Both Mr. and Mrs. Yost were born and raised in Garrett County, near Jennings. Mrs. Yost visited relatives and friends here last summer. She will be buried in the family lot in the Roanoke Cemetery.

DETERMAN SERVICES

WESTERNPORT—A Solemn High Requiem Mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Catholic Church here yesterday morning for Mrs. Lena Determan.

Monsignor A. Scarpati, pastor, was celebrant; Rev. Charles H. Quinn, assistant pastor, deacon, and Rev. George Pugh, assistant pastor, sub-deacon. The sermon was delivered by Monsignor Scarpati. Rev. Wanstreet of Morgantown, W. Va., was also in the sanctuary. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Pallbearers were John, Jr., Joseph, George and James Determan of here, and George Stein, Wheeling, W. Va., all grandsons, and Paul Fromhart.

Chinese Reds Get Warning From Eden

"It should be understood," the foreign secretary told a special Columbia University convocation, "that the intervention by Chinese Communists in Southeast Asia — even if they were called volunteers — would create a situation no less menacing than that which the United Nations met and faced in Korea.

"In such an event the United Nations, I trust, would be equally firm to resist it."

Eden, in the United States with Prime Minister Churchill, was awarded an honorary doctorate of laws by Columbia.

N. C. Will Investigate Mutilation Of Dogs

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—The governor's office today promised an investigation will be made of several dog mutilation incidents which have occurred in North Carolina recently.

John Marshall, secretary to Gov. Scott, said that at least two letters and a telegram have been received from indignant dog lovers. One of these came from Raymond J. Hanfield of New York, executive secretary of the National Dog Welfare Guild.

The letters and telegram are going to be turned over to the State Bureau of Investigation, and "we are going to ask them to investigate the entire situation," said Marshall.

Film Banned After Moslems Protest

SINGAPORE, Jan. 11 (AP) — Moslem leaders, protesting "vilification" of David's love life, have persuaded this colony's film censor to ban the movie "David And Bathsheba."

Moslems pointed out that their teachings describe the prophet David as "a man just and upright, endowed with all the virtues."

"To portray this messenger of God as was one in the picture is an insult to his memory and we Moslems hope the leaders of other religions will join us in getting the picture banned," one Moslem spokesman said.

Weather

Although yesterday was somewhat cloudy, thermometers remained in the 40s throughout the afternoon. The sun appeared during the late morning and early afternoon hours, but clouds hid it the rest of the day. The Weather Bureau says today will be mostly cloudy and a little milder, but some rain is expected this afternoon or tonight. Official high temperature recorded yesterday by the weather station at Constitution Park was 40 degrees. Low was 24 and at 8 o'clock last night, the mercury stood at 30 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 73 per cent.

Local Man Held In Alleged Car Theft

A Cumberland man was in County Jail last night for investigation in connection with the alleged theft of a car from a local used auto lot Wednesday.

State Trooper John F. Browning brought James Christman here last night from Washington, where police had arrested him at the request of LaVale State Police.

Police said Christman, now working for Fairchild Aircraft at Hagerstown, had taken a 1936 car for a trial spin Wednesday, but never brought it back.

Army Engineers

turned over to the Upper Potomac River Commission for future operation of the dam.

Schwarz said the information obtained during the tests was very valuable in setting up other construction jobs similar to the Savage River Dam.

The Corps of Army Engineers has been working all week in close cooperation with the U. S. Geological Survey, Surface Water Branch, which used its gauges in measuring the river's flow below the dam.

The height of the spillway is 1468 and one half feet and water level in the dam yesterday was down to 1426 feet. After last night's and this morning's full force discharge of water, the dam's water level should be down to the normal of 1400 feet, Schwarz said.

Tests Satisfactory

Yesterday's tests, Schwarz pointed out, were in connection with the flow of the 18-inch valves and gates at the base of the dam. All outlets were completely closed during the test, and the engineers entered the tunnel to inspect possible damage to the gates or the tunnel.

Schwarz reported everything "worked out fine."

Among many of the facts learned from the tests, Schwarz added, was how long it would take to notice an effect in the Potomac River after the gates were opened or closed.

Included in the men taking part in the week's tests were C. E. Alcott, of North Atlantic Division office in New York; Donald V. Birrell, A. F. Ecton, William J. Yarnoff, Frank O. Walter, Floyd B. Morris and H. S. Thomas, of the Washington Division; Louis A. Koffman, of the U. S. Geological Survey, Surface Water Branch; Elmer E. Donaldson, area engineer from the Washington Division; and Schwarz.

Oils Spark Market Advance To Near Peak For 21 Years

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Actively higher oils dominated the stock market today and encouraged a rise to within striking distance of the 21-year peak reached last October.

Eight out of the 15 most active issues either were oil companies or companies with oil interests.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 50 cents at $100.20, only $1.30 away from the 21-year peak established in mid-October. The industrial component of the average was up 40 cents, rails 50 cents, and utilities 30 cents.

United Corp. headed the list of most active issues unchanged at 5. Chicago Corp. which has interests in the Saskatchewan fields, was second up ½ at 17¼. Others in order were New York Central up ¾ at 19⅛, Radio Corp. up ⅜ at 24½, and Frisco Railroad off ⅝ at 24⅛.

Some notable gains were made by Amerada Petroleum up 5½ at 148, Cities Service 5⅜ at 107⅜, Standard Oil (NJ) 1 at 76¼, Columbian Carbon 2¼ at 47, Deep Rock Oil 3⅜ at 58⅞, Union Pacific 1¼ at 108½, Canadian Pacific ⅜ at 35⅛, Texas Pacific Railway 3½ at 92, Phillips Petroleum 1⅛ at 51, Sunray Oil ⅜ at 21, U. S. Rubber 1⅞ at 84⅞, Western Union 1 at 44½, Texas Gulf Sulphur 1⅜ at 107⅜, Coca-Cola 2½ at 109, Corning Glass 2¾ at 82¼, Richfield Oil 2¼ at 57¼, and Sun Oil 4¼ at 88.

Grand Jury Would Divest Governor Of Parole Power

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 (AP)—Baltimore's grand jury recommended today Maryland's governor should be divested of his parole powers.

The jury said it could find "no earthly reason" for some paroles that have been granted.

It said the state ought to have a parole board with full responsibility for releasing prisoners.

The state now has a Department of Parole and Probation which studies parole applications and holds hearings. It makes recommendations to the governor but the final decision on them is up to him.

"We question very much," the grand jury said in its final report to criminal court, "the value or wisdom of granting parole to gamblers and most certainly to dealers in narcotics without searching investigation and inquiry from the community from which they are sentenced."

One of the cases studied by the jury was that of a woman abortionist who was released from women's prison while facing a federal charge. She subsequently was sentenced to a long term in federal prison.

Truman To Seek More Civil Defense Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Truman told civil defense officials today that he will make another attempt this year to get "adequate" funds from Congress for their national program.

Mr. Truman requested 535 million dollars for the Civil Defense Administration last year, but Congress, criticising most aspects of the program, granted only $74,945,000. The appropriation was for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

In an informal talk to nearly 100 civil defense chiefs, the President said he realized they were working under a financial handicap, but that he had met "much difficulty" in selling Congress on the program.

Delinquent Tax Notices Mailed

Notices of deliquent city taxes for 1950 and 1951 were mailed yesterday by George E. Davis, city collector.

Payment may be made up to 5 p. m. on January 15 without payment of a 50 cent fee charged against each bill to cover the cost of printing the notices, Davis said.

The fee will be $1 for those who owe 1950 and 1951 taxes and do not pay them before the deadline.

Interest on 1950 taxes date back to August 15, 1950, and this year's taxes to August 20, dates on which the levies were set.

Over 98 per cent of the 1950 levy and over 96 per cent of this year's levy have been collected, Davis said.

course will be instruction in supply economy, allowances for home training, summer field training, expendable supplies, individual clothing and equipment, quarterly droppage and oral examinations.

Subjects Listed

Prepration of forms such as requisition, issue slips and turn in slips, statement of charges, report of survey, etc.; records and maintenance of inventory and adjustment, unit property books, voucher file and posting and supply record.

At the completion of the supply course March 19, Sgt. Baker added the students will go back to their individual units qualified to instruct. This will make each unit self sufficient.

Units will then carry on their own instructing supervised and advised by Major Hoover, Sgt. Baker and M/Sgt. Rogers.

To be eligible for the Supply School beginning Wednesday, a student must be a member of an organized reserve unit in this area.

Sgt. Baker stated the program is also available to members of the inactive reserve who desire to become active and to qualified men wishing to enlist in one of the reserve units.

He said that there are plenty of vacancies in the reserve corps with opportunities for advancement for qualified personnel.

Car Catches Fire

South End firemen were called out at 3:42 p. m. yesterday when a car owned by George Reuschel, Oldtown Road, caught fire. Firemen said the blaze resulted from ignition of gasoline around the carburetor. There was no damage.

Delinquent Tax Notices Mailed

Notices of deliquent city taxes for 1950 and 1951 were mailed yesterday by George E. Davis, city collector.

Payment may be made up to 5 p. m. on January 15 without payment of a 50 cent fee charged against each bill to cover the cost of printing the notices, Davis said.

The fee will be $1 for those who owe 1950 and 1951 taxes and do not pay them before the deadline.

Interest on 1950 taxes date back to August 15, 1950, and this year's taxes to August 20, dates on which the levies were set.

Over 98 per cent of the 1950 levy and over 96 per cent of this year's levy have been collected, Davis said.

course will be instruction in supply economy, allowances for home training, summer field training, expendable supplies, individual clothing and equipment, quarterly dropp-page and oral examinations.

Subjects Listed

Prepration of forms such as requisition, issue slips and turn in slips, statement of charges, report of survey, etc.; records and maintenance of inventory and adjustment, unit property books, voucher file and posting and supply record.

At the completion of the supply course March 19, Sgt. Baker added the students will go back to their individual units qualified to instruct. This will make each unit self sufficient.

Units will then carry on their own instructing supervised and advised by Major Hoover, Sgt. Baker and M/Sgt. Rogers.

To be eligible for the Supply School beginning Wednesday, a student must be a member of an organized reserve unit in this area.

Sgt. Baker stated the program is also available to members of the inactive reserve who desire to become active and to qualified men wishing to enlist in one of the reserve units.

He said that there are plenty of vacancies in the reserve corps with opportunities for advancement for qualified personnel.

Car Catches Fire

South End firemen were called out at 3:42 p. m. yesterday when a car owned by George Reuschel, Oldtown Road, caught fire. Firemen said the blaze resulted from ignition of gasoline around the carburetor. There was no damage.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

PATRICK L. FEENEY

Patrick L. Feeney, 77, of Lagonda Avenue, died yesterday in Allegany Hospital as a result of injuries sustained in a fall on Wednesday.

Mr. Feeney was born May 20, 1874, in Hutton, Md., son of the late Peter and Margaret (Flaherty) Feeney. He was the husband of the late Bertha C. (Laing) Feeney. A former owner of a tavern, he had lived in Cumberland for 56 years. Mr. Feeney was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Surviving are five sons, William L., Peter A., Hubert J., of Cumberland; James P., Baltimore; Francis Gerard Feeney, South Bend, Ind.; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine M. Stump, New York; and Mrs. Patricia J. Norton, Paw Paw, W. Va.

The body is at Scarpelli's Funeral Home where the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church will recite the rosary at 7 p. m. tomorrow.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church with interment in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

BANNER BISHOP

Banner Bishop, Route 2, Flintstone, died Thursday at the home of a brother, Warford Banner, where he had lived for 16 years as a farmer.

Born in Fulton County, Pa., Mr. Banner was the son of the late George W. and Anna Belle (Hess) Bishop.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sara Jane Deneen, Amaranth, Pa.; and Mrs. C. A. Hammond, Martinsburg, W. Va.; two other brothers, Thomas, Orleans, W. Va., and Abslum, Warfordsburg, Pa.

The body is at Stein's Chapel and will be taken to the Christian Church, Buck's Valley, Pa., at 1:30 p. m. Monday for funeral services. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

MRS. JOSEPH W. WEAVER

A requiem mass for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (O'Neill) Weaver, 64, who died at the home of her son, George W. Weaver, 118 North Chase Street Tuesday, was held yesterday at St. Patrick's Church, with Rev. John U. Lyness officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Fradiska, James Angellatta, Joseph Carpenti, Carl Hammersmith, George Aman, Jr., and Harry Norris.

Grand Jury Would Divest Governor Of Parole Power

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 (AP)—Baltimore's grand jury recommended today Maryland's governor should be divested of his parole powers.

The jury said it could find "no earthly reason" for some paroles that have been granted.

It said the state ought to have a parole board with full responsibility for releasing prisoners.

The state now has a Department of Parole and Probation which studies parole applications and holds hearings. It makes recommendations to the governor but the final decision on them is up to him.

"We question very much," the grand jury said in its final report to criminal court, "the value or wisdom of granting parole to gamblers and most certainly to dealers in narcotics without searching investigation and inquiry from the community from which they are sentenced."

One of the cases studied by the jury was that of a woman abortionist who was released from women's prison while facing a federal charge. She subsequently was sentenced to a long term in federal prison.

Truman To Seek More Civil Defense Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Truman told civil defense officials today that he will make another attempt this year to get "adequate" funds from Congress for their national program.

Mr. Truman requested 535 million dollars for the Civil Defense Administration last year, but Congress, criticising most aspects of the program, granted only $74,945,000. The appropriation was for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

In an informal talk to nearly 100 civil defense chiefs, the President said he realized they were working under a financial handicap, but that he had met "much difficulty" in selling Congress on the program.

Chinese Reds Get Warning From Eden

"It should be understood," the foreign secretary told a special Columbia University convocation, "that the intervention by Chinese Communists in Southeast Asia — even if they were called volunteers — would create a situation no less menacing than that which the United Nations met and faced in Korea.

"In such an event the United Nations, I trust, would be equally firm to resist it."

Eden, in the United States with Prime Minister Churchill, was awarded an honorary doctorate of laws by Columbia.

N. C. Will Investigate Mutilation Of Dogs

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—The governor's office today promised an investigation will be made of several dog mutilation incidents which have occurred in North Carolina recently.

John Marshall, secretary to Gov. Scott, said that at least two letters and a telegram have been received from indignant dog lovers. One of these came from Raymond J. Hanfield of New York, executive secretary of the National Dog Welfare Guild.

The letters and telegram are going to be turned over to the State Bureau of Investigation, and "we are going to ask them to investigate the entire situation," said Marshall.

Film Banned After Moslems Protest

SINGAPORE, Jan. 11 (AP) — Moslem leaders, protesting "vilification" of David's love life, have persuaded this colony's film censor to ban the movie "David And Bathsheba."

Moslems pointed out that their teachings describe the prophet David as "a man just and upright, endowed with all the virtues."

"To portray this messenger of God as was one in the picture is an insult to his memory and we Moslems hope the leaders of other religions will join us in getting the picture banned," one Moslem spokesman said.

Weather

Although yesterday was somewhat cloudy, thermometers remained in the 40s throughout the afternoon. The sun appeared during the late morning and early afternoon hours, but clouds hid it the rest of the day. The Weather Bureau says today will be mostly cloudy and a little milder, but some rain is expected this afternoon or tonight. Official high temperature recorded yesterday by the weather station at Constitution Park was 40 degrees. Low was 24 and at 8 o'clock last night, the mercury stood at 30 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 73 per cent.

Local Man Held In Alleged Car Theft

A Cumberland man was in County Jail last night for investigation in connection with the alleged theft of a car from a local used auto lot Wednesday.

State Trooper John F. Browning brought James Christman here last night from Washington, where police had arrested him at the request of LaVale State Police.

Police said Christman, now working for Fairchild Aircraft at Hagerstown, had taken a 1936 car for a trial spin Wednesday, but never brought it back.

Army Engineers

turned over to the Upper Potomac River Commission for future operation of the dam.

Schwarz said the information obtained during the tests was very valuable in setting up other construction jobs similar to the Savage River Dam.

The Corps of Army Engineers has been working all week in close cooperation with the U. S. Geological Survey, Surface Water Branch, which used its gauges in measuring the river's flow below the dam.

The height of the spillway is 1468 and one half feet and water level in the dam yesterday was down to 1426 feet. After last night's and this morning's full force discharge of water, the dam's water level should be down to the normal of 1400 feet, Schwarz said.

Tests Satisfactory

Yesterday's tests, Schwarz pointed out, were in connection with the flow of the 18-inch valves and gates at the base of the dam. All outlets were completely closed during the test, and the engineers entered the tunnel to inspect possible damage to the gates or the tunnel.

Schwarz reported everything "worked out fine."

Among many of the facts learned from the tests, Schwarz added, was how long it would take to notice an effect in the Potomac River after the gates were opened or closed.

Included in the men taking part in the week's tests were C. E. Alcott, of North Atlantic Division office in New York; Donald V. Birrell, A. F. Ecton, William J. Yarnoff, Frank O. Walter, Floyd B. Morris and H. S. Thomas, of the Washington Division; Louis A. Koffman, of the U. S. Geological Survey, Surface Water Branch; Elmer E. Donaldson, area engineer from the Washington Division; and Schwarz.

Oils Spark Market Advance To Near Peak For 21 Years

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Actively higher oils dominated the stock market today and encouraged a rise to within striking distance of the 21-year peak reached last October.

Eight out of the 15 most active issues either were oil companies or companies with oil interests.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 50 cents at $100.20, only $1.30 away from the 21-year peak established in mid-October. The industrial component of the average was up 40 cents, rails 50 cents, and utilities 30 cents.

United Corp. headed the list of most active issues unchanged at 5. Chicago Corp. which has interests in the Saskatchewan fields, was second up ½ at 17¼. Others in order were New York Central up ¾ at 19⅛, Radio Corp. up ⅜ at 24½, and Frisco Railroad off ⅝ at 24⅛.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

PATRICK L. FEENEY

Patrick L. Feeney, 77, of Lagonda Avenue, died yesterday in Allegany Hospital as a result of injuries sustained in a fall on Wednesday.

Mr. Feeney was born May 20, 1874, in Hutton, Md., son of the late Peter and Margaret (Flaherty) Feeney. He was the husband of the late Bertha C. (Laing) Feeney. A former owner of a tavern, he had lived in Cumberland for 56 years. Mr. Feeney was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Surviving are five sons, William L., Peter A., Hubert J., of Cumberland; James P., Baltimore; Francis Gerard Feeney, South Bend, Ind.; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine M. Stump, New York; and Mrs. Patricia J. Norton, Paw Paw, W. Va.

The body is at Scarpelli's Funeral Home where the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church will recite the rosary at 7 p. m. tomorrow.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Mary's Catholic Church with interment in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

BANNER BISHOP

Banner Bishop, Route 2, Flintstone, died Thursday at the home of a brother, Warford Banner, where he had lived for 16 years as a farmer.

Born in Fulton County, Pa., Mr. Banner was the son of the late George W. and Anna Belle (Hess) Bishop.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sara Jane Deneen, Amaranth, Pa.; and Mrs. C. A. Hammond, Martinsburg, W. Va.; two other brothers, Thomas, Orleans, W. Va., and Abslum, Warfordsburg, Pa.

The body is at Stein's Chapel and will be taken to the Christian Church, Buck's Valley, Pa., at 1:30 p. m. Monday for funeral services. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

MRS. JOSEPH W. WEAVER

A requiem mass for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (O'Neill) Weaver, 64, who died at the home of her son, George W. Weaver, 118 North Chase Street Tuesday, was held yesterday at St. Patrick's Church, with Rev. John U. Lyness officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were John Fradiska, James Angellatta, Joseph Carpenti, Carl Hammersmith, George Aman, Jr., and Harry Norris.

MRS. CHARLES A. ROCKWELL

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. — Services were held yesterday for Mrs. Charles A. Rockwell, 74, who died Tuesday at her home, at Kogelschatz and Coffman Chapel with Dr. J. Paul Gruver officiating, assisted by Rev. J. Kenneth Clark. Interment was in Rosedale Cemetery.

Mrs. Rockwell, a resident of Cumberland, Md., for eight years, was the daughter of the late Conrad and Ida (Taylor) Long. She was married to Charles A. Rockwell in 1895 in Hagerstown. They celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary last month.

LEGGE SERVICES

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Services for Charles Richard Legge, 63, of 28 Jones Street, who died Sunday in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, were held Wednesday afternoon at Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church with Rev. James Taylor, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Active pallbearers were T. C. Tichnell, Fred Green, Paul Randell, Herman Broadwater, George Whiteman and Robert Walker. Honorary pallbearers included Charles McKenzie, Earl Halterman, James Loy, J. W. Rosier, William Russell, Don McDowell, Don McIntyre, Russell Reeves, George McDowell, Francis Moorehead, Jack Smith and Frank Moyer.

JAMES SILBAUGH, 2ND

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. — James Arthur Silbaugh, 2nd, 37, who died Saturday at his home in Vanderbilt, was buried Tuesday afternoon in Flatwoods Cemetery. Services were conducted at Vanderbilt Methodist Church with Rev. Donald L. Rearic, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Silbaugh was employed by the Anchor Hocking Glass Corp.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Anna Mae Silbaugh; two children, James and Ruth Silbaugh, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Silbaugh, Vanderbilt, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Smith, Flintstone, Md., and Mrs. Julia McGregor, Vanderbilt.

EDWARD F. CHABOT

FROSTBURG — Edward Francis Chabot, 64, prominent Eckhart building contrcator, died yesterday at his home after an illness of 14 months.

A son of the late Louis and Freda Chabot, he was twice married. After the death of his first wife, the former Miss Catherine Shea, he was married to the former Miss Christine Hager of Borden Mines, who survives him.

Mr. Chabot was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church. In the past year, he had been hospitalized four times and underwent two major operations.

Survivors include 14 children, Sgt. Edward Chabot, Durham, N. C.; Cpl. Thomas Chabot, Fort Benning, Ga.; James, Frostburg; Leo, Washington; Bernard, Mt. Rainier; Leonard, a student for the Catholic priesthood at St. Charles College, Catonsville; Richard, at home; Sister Mary Janet, an Ursuline sister in New York; Mrs. Mary Lewis, Eckhart; Mrs. Hilda Duda, Grantsville; Mrs. Rita Lavin, Eckhart; Mrs. Agnes Passatae, Dundalk; Mrs. Alma Harvey, Hyattsville, and Patricia, at home, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Mercedes Eiser, Baltimore.

Also surviving are 14 grandchildren, a brother, Joseph Chabot, Vale Summit, and two sisters, Mrs. Francis Chambers, Frostburg, and Mrs. Hulda Niner, Falls Church, Va.

The body is at the home in Eckhart.

JAMES S. DAVIS

FROSTBURG — Services for James S. Davis, 78, who died Wednesday, will be held today at 2:30 p. m. at Durst's Funeral Home with Rev. Harold R. Stoudt, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Daniel E. Eveland, pastor of First Presbyterian Church. Interment will be in Percy Cemetery.

Co-owner with his brother of a tobacco store, Mr. Davis was one of the oldest members of the Frostburg Fire Department. He was a son of the late John, a former Frostburg postmaster, and Sarah (Tennant) Davis. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva (Frantz) Davis, formerly of Cumberland.

MILLER SERVICES

LONACONING—A requiem mass for Christopher C. Miller, 64, who died Sunday in Allegany Hospital, was held Wednesday at St. Mary's Catholic Church with Rev. Charles J. Bogan officiating. Interment was in Frostburg Memorial Park.

Pallbearers were William, Clarence, George, Alex, and Robert Miller, and Cecil Stephens.

EDWARD SHIPLEY

Services for Edward Shipley, 61, who died at his home in Baltimore Wednesday, will be held today at 1 p. m.

Mr. Shipley is the husband of the former Miss Fannie Ziler, formerly of Cumberland.

MRS. JENNIE B. YOST

GRANTSVILLE — Mrs. Jennie Broadwater Yost, 84, widow of the late John Yost, of Roanoke, Va., died Thursday, after being ill since before Christmas.

Mrs. Yost was a daughter of the late Josephus and Rebecca Kight Broadwater. Both Mr. and Mrs. Yost were born and raised in Garrett County, near Jennings. Mrs. Yost visited relatives and friends here last summer. She will be buried in the family lot in the Roanoke Cemetery.

DETERMAN SERVICES

WESTERNPORT—A Solemn High Requiem Mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Catholic Church here yesterday morning for Mrs. Lena Determan.

Monsignor A. Scarpati, pastor, was celebrant; Rev. Charles H. Quinn, assistant pastor, deacon, and Rev. George Pugh, assistant pastor, sub-deacon. The sermon was delivered by Monsignor Scarpati. Rev. Wanstreet of Morgantown, W. Va., was also in the sanctuary. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Pallbearers were John, Jr., Joseph, George and James Determan of here, and George Stein, Wheeling, W. Va., all grandsons, and Paul Fromhart.

Chinese Reds Get Warning From Eden

"It should be understood," the foreign secretary told a special Columbia University convocation, "that the intervention by Chinese Communists in Southeast Asia — even if they were called volunteers — would create a situation no less menacing than that which the United Nations met and faced in Korea.

"In such an event the United Nations, I trust, would be equally firm to resist it."

Eden, in the United States with Prime Minister Churchill, was awarded an honorary doctorate of laws by Columbia.

N. C. Will Investigate Mutilation Of Dogs

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 11 (AP)—The governor's office today promised an investigation will be made of several dog mutilation incidents which have occurred in North Carolina recently.

John Marshall, secretary to Gov. Scott, said that at least two letters and a telegram have been received from indignant dog lovers. One of these came from Raymond J. Hanfield of New York, executive secretary of the National Dog Welfare Guild.

The letters and telegram are going to be turned over to the State Bureau of Investigation, and "we are going to ask them to investigate the entire situation," said Marshall.

Film Banned After Moslems Protest

SINGAPORE, Jan. 11 (AP) — Moslem leaders, protesting "vilification" of David's love life, have persuaded this colony's film censor to ban the movie "David And Bathsheba."

Moslems pointed out that their teachings describe the prophet David as "a man just and upright, endowed with all the virtues."

"To portray this messenger of God as was one in the picture is an insult to his memory and we Moslems hope the leaders of other religions will join us in getting the picture banned," one Moslem spokesman said.

Weather

Although yesterday was somewhat cloudy, thermometers remained in the 40s throughout the afternoon. The sun appeared during the late morning and early afternoon hours, but clouds hid it the rest of the day. The Weather Bureau says today will be mostly cloudy and a little milder, but some rain is expected this afternoon or tonight. Official high temperature recorded yesterday by the weather station at Constitution Park was 40 degrees. Low was 24 and at 8 o'clock last night, the mercury stood at 30 degrees. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 73 per cent.

Local Man Held In Alleged Car Theft

A Cumberland man was in County Jail last night for investigation in connection with the alleged theft of a car from a local used auto lot Wednesday.

State Trooper John F. Browning brought James Christman here last night from Washington, where police had arrested him at the request of LaVale State Police.

Police said Christman, now working for Fairchild Aircraft at Hagerstown, had taken a 1936 car for a trial spin Wednesday, but never brought it back.

Army Engineers

turned over to the Upper Potomac River Commission for future operation of the dam.

Schwarz said the information obtained during the tests was very valuable in setting up other construction jobs similar to the Savage River Dam.

The Corps of Army Engineers has been working all week in close cooperation with the U. S. Geological Survey, Surface Water Branch, which used its gauges in measuring the river's flow below the dam.

The height of the spillway is 1468 and one half feet and water level in the dam yesterday was down to 1426 feet. After last night's and this morning's full force discharge of water, the dam's water level should be down to the normal of 1400 feet, Schwarz said.

Tests Satisfactory

Yesterday's tests, Schwarz pointed out, were in connection with the flqw of the 18-inch valves and gates at the base of the dam. All outlets were completely closed during the test, and the engineers entered the tunnel to inspect possible damage to the gates or the tunnel.

Schwarz reported everything "worked out fine."

Among many of the facts learned from the tests, Schwarz added, was how long it would take to notice an effect in the Potomac River after the gates were opened or closed.

Included in the men taking part in the week's tests were C. E. Alcott, of North Atlantic Division office in New York; Donald V. Birrell, A. F. Ecton, William J. Yarnoff, Frank O. Walter, Floyd B. Morris and H. S. Thomas, of the Washington Division; Louis A. Koffman, of the U. S. Geological Survey, Surface Water Branch; Elmer E. Donaldson, area engineer from the Washington Division; and Schwarz.

Oils Spark Market Advance To Near Peak For 21 Years

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—Actively higher oils dominated the stock market today and encouraged a rise to within striking distance of the 21-year peak reached last October.

Eight out of the 15 most active issues either were oil companies or companies with oil interests.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 50 cents at $100.20, only $1.30 away from the 21-year peak established in mid-October. The industrial component of the average was up 40 cents, rails 50 cents, and utilities 30 cents.

United Corp. headed the list of most active issues unchanged at 5. Chicago Corp. which has interests in the Saskatchewan fields, was second up ½ at 17¼. Others in order were New York Central up ¾ at 19⅛, Radio Corp. up ⅜ at 24½, and Frisco Railroad off ⅝ at 24⅛.

Some notable gains were made by Amerada Petroleum up 5½ at 148, Cities Service 5⅜ at 107⅜, Standard Oil (NJ) 1 at 76¼, Columbian Carbon 2¼ at 47, Deep Rock Oil 3⅜ at 58⅞, Union Pacific 1¼ at 108½, Canadian Pacific ⅜ at 35⅛, Texas Pacific Railway 3½ at 92, Phillips Petroleum 1⅛ at 51, Sunray Oil ⅜ at 21, U. Delinquent Tax Notices Mailed

Notices of deliquent city taxes for 1950 and 1951 were mailed yesterday by George E. Davis, city collector.

Payment may be made up to 5 p. m. on January 15 without payment of a 50 cent fee charged against each bill to cover the cost of printing the notices, Davis said.

The fee will be $1 for those who owe 1950 and 1951 taxes and do not pay them before the deadline.

Interest on 1950 taxes date back to August 15, 1950, and this year's taxes to August 20, dates on which the levies were set.

Over 98 per cent of the 1950 levy and over 96 per cent of this year's levy have been collected, Davis said.

course will be instruction in supply economy, allowances for home training, summer field training, expendable supplies, individual clothing and equipment, quarterly droppage and oral examinations.

Subjects Listed

Prepration of forms such as requisition, issue slips and turn in slips, statement of charges, report of survey, etc.; records and maintenance of inventory and adjustment, unit property books, voucher file and posting and supply record.

At the completion of the supply course March 19, Sgt. Baker added the students will go back to their individual units qualified to instruct. This will make each unit self suffkcient.

Units will then carry on their own instructing supervised and advised by Major Hoover, Sgt. Baker and M/Sgt. Rogers.

To be eligible for the Supply School beginning Wednesday, a student must be a member of an organized reserve unit in this area.

Sgt. Baker stated the program is also available to members of the inactive reserve who desire to become active and to qualified men wishing to enlist in one of the reserve units.

He said that there are plenty of vacancies in the reserve corps with opportunities for advancement for qualified personnel.

Car Catches Fire

South End firemen were called out at 3:42 p. m. yesterday when a car owned by George Reuschel, Oldtown Road, caught fire. Firemen said the blaze resulted from ignition of gasoline around the carburetor. There was no damage.

Grand Jury Would Divest Governor Of Parole Power

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 (AP)—Baltimore's grand jury recommended today Maryland's governor should be divested of his parole powers.

The jury said it could find "no earthly reason" for some paroles that have been granted.

It said the state ought to have a parole board with full responsibility for releasing prisoners.

The state now has a Department of Parole and Probation which studies parole applications and holds hearings. It makes recommendations to the governor but the final decision on them is up to him.

"We question very much," the grand jury said in its final report to criminal court, "the value or wisdom of granting parole to gamblers and most certainly to dealers in narcotics without searching investigation and inquiry from the community from which they are sentenced."

One of the cases studied by the jury was that of a woman abortionist who was released from women's prison while facing a federal charge. She subsequently was sentenced to a long term in federal prison.

Truman To Seek More Civil Defense Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—President Truman told civil defense officials today that he will make another attempt this year to get "adequate" funds from Congress for their national program.

Mr. Truman requested 535 million dollars for the Civil Defense Administration last year, but Congress, criticising most aspects of the program, granted only $74,945,000. The appropriation was for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

In an informal talk to nearly 100 civil defense chiefs, the President said he realized they were working under a financial handicap, but that he had met "much difficulty" in selling Congress on the program.

Stratemeyer To Retire

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Air Force said today Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, former Far East air commander, will retire Jan. 31.

City Finances On Schedule At Halfway Point

85 Per Cent Of Total Levy Is Collected

City finances were in tip top condition as half of the 1951-52 fiscal year ended on December 31.

Eighty-five per cent of the total levy had been collected and only 51 per cent of the city's operating levy spent.

The report, issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, showed that $1,070,973.83 of the $1,262,560 levy had been collected.

The figure represents 85 per cent of the entire levy and 96 per cent of the $868,430 tax levy.

As half of the year ended, $526,761.87 of the appropriations for operating expenses had been spent and expenditures including debt service were at the $661,995.11 mark.

This represents 51 per cent of the city operating levy and 52 per cent of the entire appropriation, including debt service.

Only one department, recreation, was overdrawn.

The report showed that the Recreation Department was $6,883.82 in the red at the end of six months of the year.

The department was overdrawn $6,501.30 last month.

In spite of the severe winter weather, the Street Cleaning appropriation was not quite half used up, but January costs are expected to be high.

5 Indictments Entered On Court Docket

Illegal Alcoholic Sale Charged Against Alibi

Four more indictments have been placed on the open docket in Circuit Court bringing the total to five for the January term of court.

Yesterday afternoon an indictment against E. A. Cromwell and Daisy D. Cromwell, officers of the Alibi Liquor Store, Inc., corner of Baltimore and North Mechanics Streets was entered on the docket.

The charge is sale of alcoholic beverages to a minor.

An indictment against Fraternal Order of Orioles, Nest No. 220 which has headquarters in the Wills Mountain Inn, was placed on the open docket yesterday morning.

There are two counts in the indictment, one for sale of intoxicating beverages after hours and the other for the sale of intoxicants to a minor. Named in the indictment are B. A. Mason, Harry C. Ort, and Y. S. Levine, officers of the Orioles Nest.

The officers posted $1,000 bond in each case pending a hearing in the two cases.

Also indicted is Wilbert A. Stevenson, of Frostburg, on a charge of assault with intent to murder. The accused posted $3,000 bond for a hearing. He was involved in a case in which a Frostburg policeman, Ronald Kreider, was assaulted November 24. The police officer was a patient in Miners Hospital one week as a result of injuries about the head suffered in the fight with Stevenson.

Raymond A. Campbell was indicted on a charge of sale and possession of intoxicants. Campbell, an employe at the Boulevard Hotel Apartments, made a sale of intoxicants at the hotel, according to testimony before the grand jury.

Hypnotist Booked

Howard Klein, one of America's foremost hypotists, will entertain members of the Kiwanis Club at a dinner January 18 at Ali Ghan Country Club.

There will be no meeting Thursday at Central YMCA.

C. E. Hardy Says He Did Not Endorse John Long For Mayor

C. E. Hardy, 816 Louisiana Avenue, a Baltimore and Ohio railroad employe said last night, "I have not pledged my support to any candidate, announced or unannounced in the coming city elections."

Mr. Hardy was referring to the use of his name in a paid political advertisement which appeared in yesterday's Cumberland papers, intended as an endorsement of John J. Long, present commissioner of police and fire, as a candidate for mayor.

The statement in the advertisement urged Long to become a candidate for mayor and urged citizens to call on him to become a candidate. It cited certain qualifications attributed to Long and bore the names of nine other citizens in addition to that of C. E. Hardy.

Hardy said last night he had been approached at work by a B & O clerk to sign a petition for Long for mayor. Hardy said he had always signed petitions in the past for any citizen who needed signatures to become a candidate, whether or not he intended working and voting for them.

In this instance, he said he was not informed that the petition was to be used in political advertisements "drafting" Mr. Long, and if he had been, he would not have permitted his name to be used.

Mr. Hardy stated, "I resent the use of my name in this manner more than I can say, and wish to emphatically declare that I am not a party to this "draft" call of Commissioner Long."

B & O Glee Club To Sing At Fort Hill High Jan. 23

Members of the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church met last night at the home of R. W. Daughtrey, president, to formulate further plans to sponsor a musical program by the Baltimore and Ohio Glee Club of Baltimore.

The concert is scheduled for January 2 at 8:15 p.m. in the Fort Hill High School auditorium. There will be no admission charge for the first appearance of the male chorus. To cover expenses, however, a free offering will be asked.

Organized in 1951 with a group of 18 employes of the railroad in Baltimore, the glee club has grown until it now numbers more than 100 men.

Outstanding among its successes was the winning in 1929 of the Class B championship of the Associated Glee Clubs of America. Again, in Chicago, in 1934, the club won the Chicago Musicland Male Chorus contest staged by the Chicago Tribune. It placed second in this contest in 1948.

The club has biven concerts in the principal cities of the East from Boston as far west as Cincinnati and Chicago, as far north as Buffalo and south as Washington. In the latter city a few years ago it sang at the dinner of the International Chamber of Commerce, given in the Washington Auditorium and addressed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was heard over all the networks from the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia in 1948.

Two Men Held For Grand Jury

A local man, between the age of 60 and 65, was taken to Allegany County Jail yesterday for action of the Grand Jury after he waived preliminary hearings on two charges involving two 13-year-old girls, August 20, 1951.

Authorities listed him as George Hughes, 15 Altamont Terrace. Magistrate J. Milton Dick set bond at $3,000 in each case.

In another case yesterday before Magistrate Dick, a former Cumberland man was taken to Allegany County Jail for action of the Grand Jury after waiving preliminary hearing on a charge of passing two felonious checks here.

Investigating authorities said Vernon Moreland, Winchester, Va., cashed two rubber checks for $10 and $5 at a neighborhood store near his mother's home on Park Street.

Authorities said Moreland was visiting relatives here on July 20, 1949 when his auto developed trouble and needed repairs. Moreland, who was out of funds, made out the bad checks and received money to pay for repairs.

City Police officers, learning that Moreland was in Cumberland Wednesday, picked him up. He was arrested by Officers Robert Hammann and P. C. Jenkins.

Magistrate Dick yesterday set bond at $1,000.

Army Engineers Complete Tests At Savage Dam

Data To Be Compiled In Operation Manual

Tests at Savage River Dam above Luke, which have been going on all week, were completed yesterday afternoon, and Harry E. Schwarz, hydraulic engineer with the Corps of Army Engineers, reported all operations were satisfactory.

Due to the tests, the level of the Potomac River here has been going up and down all week. Schwarz said the Potomac River will probably be up today because of water being discharged from the dam during the night and morning.

River Shows Rise

The Potomac River showed a rise in height yesterday as a result of the dam's gauges being opened Thursday night.

Schwarz said the gates were opened to full force last night and will continue to discharge until this morning.

Schwarz pointed out now that tests have been completed, the dam's water height will be brought down to about 70 feet below the crest of the spillway.

Water will be kept at 70 feet below the spillway's crest probably all year which will be low enough to impound any flood waters endangering the area, Schwarz added.

Schwarz said he will leave for the Washington office of the Corps of Army Engineers sometime today. He will take with him the last of all the data obtained during the week's test operations.

Data To Be Studied

In Washington Schwarz said, measurements, levels and other data obtained will be computed and will be compiled to make a "manual of operations" for the huge dam.

The manual will be published by Corps of Army Engineers, Department of Army, and a copy will be

Mr. and Mrs. David Hines, Mt. Savage, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Imhoff, Westernport, a son yesterday.

CIO Will Urge Judge Sherbow To Keep Post

Boost In Idle Pay Will Be Requested

The CIO in Maryland will ask Judge Joseph Sherbow to reconsider his resignation from the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

The Executive Board of the Maryland Industrial Union, at a meeting here yesterday, expressed deep regret over Judge Sherbow's decision to retire after praising his splendid record in public life.

The board also endorsed a proposal for increasing pensions for judges of the Court of Appeals, Maryland's supreme court from $300 to $450 a year.

Five committees were set up at the meeting held in Rubber Workers Hall here. They included:

Name Committees

The group will work with CIO and AFL unions of the state in an information program designed to bring more business to firms which display union labels on their products.

Community Services, Charles Della, J. J. Smith, James Reagan, Audrey Smid and Frank Finke, all of Baltimore. The committee will cooperate with the Community Chest in Baltimore in caring for its members.

Civil Defense Committee, E. T. Michael, Hagerstown; Harry Castle, Cumberland; Larry Monahan, Baltimore, and Madeline Willey, Eastern Shore.

The committee will cooperate with state and area Civil Defense organizations in the CD program.

Plan Fair Exhibit

State Fair Committee, Leroy Kane, Robert Crowther and a female representative of the CWA. The group will plan a booth at the Timonium State Fair to show the work of the CIO in Maryland.

Workmen's Compensation Committee, Larry Monahan, George Dyches and Albert Mattes, all of Baltimore.

The committee will encourage all locals either to establish adequate compensation committees or to refer their cases to the state committee so prompt action may be taken in all cases brought before the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The CIO board recommended that all locals subscribe to the National Reporter, which will be published in Pittsburgh.

Will Seek Benefits

Increased unemployment benefits for Maryland workers will be asked when the General Assembly meets, E. J. Moran, president, reported.

Moran is a member of a committee named by Governor McKeldin to study the state unemployment compensation laws.

The board urged that all locals ask their legislators to support the proposed legislation.

Harry Castle, a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, and vice president of the council for this area, presided at yesterday's meeting, attended by some 18 representatives of CIO unions of Maryland.

The next meeting of the board will be held in Hagerstown April 18.

Committee Finds Miner Died Of Electrocution

Shimer Funeral Set Tomorrow Morning

An investigating committee last night came to a conclusion that Thomas E. Shimer, 34-year-old miner of Eckhart, died as a result of electrocution when he came into contact with a live wire in Consol Mine No. 10 at Eckhart Wednesday night.

The meeting was held at the Frostburg office of the Consolidated Fuel Company and was in charge of Edward Stowell, state mine inspector. Recommendations were made at the meeting to assure future safety and guard boards were ordered placed along the open wire.

William Pape and Mike DeMarino, who were working along side Shimer at the time of the accident were questioned last night by the group. Others attending the investigation were Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, James Close, mine superintendent, Robert Glotfelty, foreman, Carl Dixon, maintenance man, Harry Jones, of the Federal Bureau of Mines, Stowell, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, a state mine inspector.

Following an autopsy, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner reported Shimer's death was due to electrocution. No marks were found on the victim's body.

Shimer was with three other miners in the Consolidated Fuel Company's Eckhart mine, three miles from the pit mouth installing a conveyor in a room.

Shimer tried to squeeze between the conveyor motor and a mine prop when he suddenly fell to the ground, investigators reported. Artificial respiration for two hours was unsuccessful.

Services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the residence, Cemetery Road, Eckhart. Rev. Ira Moore, pastor of the Cresaptown Assembly of God Church, and Rev. Sidney Aldrich, pastor of Eckhart Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

FIREMEN GO TO SCHOOL—It's back to the Little Red Schoolhouse on City Hall Plaza for these Cumberland firemen, caught by the News photographer as Assistant Chief Robert C. Long (standing, right) explains use of "gated wye" valve and "Siamese' connections for fire hoses. Long, who recently completed a 10-weeks instructors' course in firemanship at the University of Maryland, has been holding classes for two months. In the photo are (front row, left to right) South End Captain Francis J. Wallace, John Carney, Herman Cunningham, Captain Leo Reichert of East Side, and Long; (second row) Connelly Hammond, South End, William Winter, George Hoblitzell, West Side; George Lease, East Side, and Clifton Cook, West Side; (third row) South End Lt. Walter Hartman, Richard Smith, Robert Wigfield, Captain Vincent Wegman and Ray Leidinger. The classes replace outdoor work in Winter.

Roads Employe Sues Driver After Accident

Noah S. Carder Seeks $10,000

Two suits totaling $11,000 were filed yesterday at the office of the Clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Noah S. Carder, represented by Attorneys Phillip T. McCusker and Frederick A. Puderbaugh, is suing Homer E. Rose, for $10,000 damages for injuries allegedly received in a highway mishap and to repay workmen's compensation.

Carder, an employe of the Maryland State Roads Commission, contends he was operating a sweeper along Braddock Road, about one mile west of Cumberland on September 30, 1950, when an auto operated by Rose collided with the piece of machinery causing bodily injury and suffering to the plaintiff.

The accident, according to Carder, was caused through negligence and carelessness on the part of Rose. Through the mishap the plaintiff became eligible for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Laws of Maryland from the State Roads Commission.

The State Accident Fund under an order of the State Industrial Accident Commission of Maryland paid the sum of $672 to Carder for temporary total disability. In addition the amount of $2,787.20 was paid for hospital and medical expenses incurred as a result of the accident, according to Carder.

The State Accident Fund is entitled to $3,459.20 from any amount payable to Carder due to accident as a repayment for the use and benefits of the fund.

Fox Selected As Top Organist

Riverside Church in New York City, the interdenominational church of pre-eminence throughout the world of Protestantism, built for the greatness of Harry Emerson Fosdick's preaching by the fortune of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., combed the organists of this generation for two years and then decided upon Virgil Fox.

Fox will make his third appearance in Cumberland at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, January 17, when he presents a concert at Centre Street Methodist Church under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society. He has played to overflowing crowds here in both 1950 and 1951.

The outstanding musician was appointed organist of Riverside Church in May, 1946. He gradually will build there a ministry of music comparable with those of the cathedrals of France, where the greatest in organ music is the offering of each season.

1952 Milk Permits Must Be Obtained

Permit for retail establishments which distribute milk is $2 a year and the annual fee for processors of dairy products is $10. No charge is made for permits issued to farm producers.

Firemen Return To School To Learn Tricks Of Trade

'There's No Place Like Home—'

Veterans, Rookies All Study Course

BY BERNARD SITTER
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's firemen have gone back to school. But not to study the Three Rs of grammar school fame.

For two months they've been pouring into the Little Red Schoolhouse—red brick Central Fire Station—to hear Teacher Robert C. Long tell them how to put out fires more efficiently.

The course replaces outside training, made impractical during winter months. But later on, the local smoke eaters will be climbing ladders and manipulating hoses as part of the course.

Idea behind the course is that until recent years, the cartoon version of the axe-wielding, water-drenching fireman was all too true in many departments.

But since the early days of World War II, the relatively new science of firemanship has been developing rapidly. Although the axe remains one of the blaze battler's most useful tools, modern firemen rely more on head work, less on axe work.

None of the school's students miss classes. When men are ill or on duty at other stations, Teacher Long turns tutor and goes to their stations to repeat the lesson.

The school principal, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, has a good word for the new course which has been added to the curriculum.

"There's been a considerable improvement in the Department's discipline, morale and efficiency since the course was started," says Parker. "I think the men really like it."

19 Graduated From Army Reserve School

New Supply Course To Begin Wednesday

Nineteen students have been graduated from the Army Administrative School conducted by the local Organized Reserve Corps, according to Grant E. Hoover, Infantry unit instructor.

Sergeant First Class William E. Baker, assistant unit instructor, who taught the course listed the four top pupils as:

Sgt. Melvin D. McDonald, Company K, 319th Airborne Infantry Regiment; Sergeant First Class John F. Rowe, 942nd Explosive Bomb Disposal Detachment; Sgt. Theodore W. Gray, 729th Army Postal Unit and Pvt. E-1 William M. Gero, Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398 Ordnance.

Sgt. Baker said the students were well pleased with the administrative courses which included 25 subjects and typing.

Top Honors

Throughout the course students from the 729th Army Postal Unit took top honors by scoring the highest points. The administrative school was begun October 3, 1951 and ended Wednesday night with the graduation of 19 students.

Others graduated were M/Sgt. Thomas A. Carscaden, SFC Charles E. Hartung and Cpl. James A. Brown, all of the 729th Army Postal Unit; SFC. John S. Knepp, M/Sgt. James V. Courtney and Cpl. George D. Keith, all of Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398th Ordnance.

Pvt. E-2 Gordon H. Smith, Pvt. E-2 Walter C. Glass, Pvt. E-2 John B. Elliott Jr. and Pvt. E-2 Donald J. McKenzie, all of Headquarters, 810th Signal Service Battalion; M/Sgt. Ernest B. Treat, Sgt. Loring Q. Baldwin and Cpl. Wayne S. Swauger, Company K, 319th Airborne Infantry Regiment; and Pvt. E-2 Paul E. Myers, of 942nd Explosive Bomb Disposal Detachment.

Sgt. Baker said this was the first course of its kind to be presented to Cumberland area reservists.

New Course To Begin

The beginning of another course, the Army Supply Course, was announced yesterday by Sgt. Baker. He said the new school will begin Wednesday and is scheduled to close March 19.

Besides seven students graduated from the administrative school, 16 new pupils have enrolled for the supply instructions.

Instructors for the supply course will be Major Grant E. Hoover, Sgt. Baker, M/Sgt. William B. Rogers, First Lt. David J. Moreland and First Lt. Harold Fraley.

December Smoke Record Is Good On Railroads

No Bad Violation Is Reported Here

George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, said only 15 partials were chalked up from 224 observations made during the month.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, he said, dispatched 1,287 steam locomotives from this terminal during the month and handled 2,574 engines.

The record is even more significant, he said, when it is considered that the month marked the greatest influx of new firemen for some time, necessitating an accelerated training program.

Record Is Good

The Western Maryland Railroad had one partial violation in 13 observations for an average of three per cent, as compared to November's eight per cent.

The Baltimore and Ohio had 14 partials but no bad readings, for an average of seven per cent, the same percentage on partials as in November.

In spite of the fact that 1951's dustfall of 14.59 tons represents a 100 per cent improvement, Hitchcock said there are three bad spots to be cleaned up.

Improvements Underway

He said the change of grade which will result from the Thomas Street relocation will cut down smoke on the B. and O. hump, one of the worst spots in the city. Readings at Station 10 have been ranging from 98 to 260 tons per square mile.

The B. and O. round house, he said, will require eternal vigilance, but progress is being made there. December's average at that spot was 98.96 tons.

Maryland Junction was listed as the third most troublesome point.

Hitchcock said steps are now underway by the Western Maryland Railway to cut dustfall through the installation of an improved multiple jet smoke abating device.

Deceased Woman's Relatives Sought

County authorities have been asked to locate any local relatives of a former Cumberland woman who died yesterday in Crownsville (Pa.) State Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Mattie Wells, widow of the late John C. Wells, formerly of 313 Maryland Avenue, had died in the Pennsylvania institution. Mr. Wells, they said, died two years ago.

Spring Gap 4-H Club Maps Plans For 1952 Programs

Plans for 1952 programs were prepared by the Spring Gap 4-H Club at its January meeting.

At a meeting Thursday in the Community Center, the boys decided to hold a roller skating party Friday, February 1, at 7 p. m. at Crystal Roller Rink.

The club, led by Acting President Buck Ritchie, decided to feature forestry at the February 14 meeting. Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin will present the program that night. At the conclusion, several club members will offer a fire fighting demonstration.

In March, wildlife will be the feature. Iradeen Riley will give a baby chick demonstration. At the April meeting, Billy Twigg and Leonard Miller will give talks on gardens. In May, James Ritchie and Virgil Twigg will discuss the history of the 4-H movement.

Other programs:

Visitors and prospective new members are invited to all of the club's activities.

At Thursday night's meeting, Donald Hebb was named membership chairman and Herbert Shipe was appointed publicity chairman. Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger attended the meeting.

SOUTHEND HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE—A two-alarm fire late Thursday night caused considerable damage at the home of Raymond Pryor, 905 Virginia Avenue, and forced five occupants to flee to safety. The fire broke out about 10:15 p. m. and South End and Central firemen went to the scene and through quick action kept the blaze confined to the rear of the double frame house. Connelly Hammond, fireman from South End can be seen above in the bedroom of the second floor where the fire centered, after eating its way up through the partition from the kitchen. Cause of the blaze was undetermined and the house owned by Julius Abramson, of Frostburg, was covered by insurance.

City Finances On Schedule At Halfway Point

85 Per Cent Of Total Levy Is Collected

City finances were in tip top condition as half of the 1951-52 fiscal year ended on December 31.

Eighty-five per cent of the total levy had been collected and only 51 per cent of the city's operating levy spent.

The report, issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, showed that $1,070,973.83 of the $1,262,560 levy had been collected.

The figure represents 85 per cent of the entire levy and 96 per cent of the $868,430 tax levy.

As half of the year ended, $526,761.87 of the appropriations for operating expenses had been spent and expenditures including debt service were at the $661,995.11 mark.

This represents 51 per cent of the city operating levy and 52 per cent of the entire appropriation, including debt service.

Only one department, recreation, was overdrawn.

The report showed that the Recreation Department was $6,883.82 in the red at the end of six months of the year.

The department was overdrawn $6,501.30 last month.

In spite of the severe winter weather, the Street Cleaning appropriation was not quite half used up, but January costs are expected to be high.

5 Indictments Entered On Court Docket

Illegal Alcoholic Sale Charged Against Alibi

Four more indictments have been placed on the open docket in Circuit Court bringing the total to five for the January term of court.

Yesterday afternoon an indictment against E. A. Cromwell and Daisy D. Cromwell, officers of the Alibi Liquor Store, Inc., corner of Baltimore and North Mechanics Streets was entered on the docket.

The charge is sale of alcoholic beverages to a minor.

An indictment against Fraternal Order of Orioles, Nest No. 220 which has headquarters in the Wills Mountain Inn, was placed on the open docket yesterday morning.

There are two counts in the indictment, one for sale of intoxicating beverages after hours and the other for the sale of intoxicants to a minor. Named in the indictment are B. A. Mason, Harry C. Ort, and Y. S. Levine, officers of the Orioles Nest.

The officers posted $1,000 bond in each case pending a hearing in the two cases.

Also indicted is Wilbert A. Stevenson, of Frostburg, on a charge of assault with intent to murder. The accused posted $3,000 bond for a hearing. He was involved in a case in which a Frostburg policeman, Ronald Kreider, was assaulted November 24. The police officer was a patient in Miners Hospital one week as a result of injuries about the head suffered in the fight with Stevenson.

Raymond A. Campbell was indicted on a charge of sale and possession of intoxicants. Campbell, an employe at the Boulevard Hotel Apartments, made a sale of intoxicants at the hotel, according to testimony before the grand jury.

C. E. Hardy Says He Did Not Endorse John Long For Mayor

C. E. Hardy, 816 Louisiana Avenue, a Baltimore and Ohio railroad employe said last night, "I have not pledged my support to any candidate, announced or unannounced in the coming city elections."

Mr. Hardy was referring to the use of his name in a paid political advertisement which appeared in yesterday's Cumberland papers, intended as an endorsement of John J. Long, present commissioner of police and fire, as a candidate for mayor.

The statement in the advertisement urged Long to become a candidate for mayor and urged citizens to call on him to become a candidate. It cited certain qualifications attributed to Long and bore the names of nine other citizens in addition to that of C. E. Hardy.

Hardy said last night he had been approached at work by a B & O clerk to sign a petition for Long for mayor. Hardy said he had always signed petitions in the past for any citizen who needed signatures to become a candidate, whether or not he intended working and voting for them.

In this instance, he said he was not informed that the petition was to be used in political advertisements "drafting" Mr. Long, and if he had been, he would not have permitted his name to be used.

Mr. Hardy stated, "I resent the use of my name in this manner more than I can say, and wish to emphatically declare that I am not a party to this "draft" call of Commissioner Long."

B & O Glee Club To Sing At Fort Hill High Jan. 23

Members of the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church met last night at the home of R. W. Daughtrey, president, to formulate further plans to sponsor a musical program by the Baltimore and Ohio Glee Club of Baltimore.

The concert is scheduled for January 2 at 8:15 p.m. in the Fort Hill High School auditorium. There will be no admission charge for the first appearance of the male chorus. To cover expenses, however, a free offering will be asked.

Organized in 1951 with a group of 18 employes of the railroad in Baltimore, the glee club has grown until it now numbers more than 100 men.

Outstanding among its successes was the winning in 1929 of the Class B championship of the Associated Glee Clubs of America. Again, in Chicago, in 1934, the club won the Chicago Musicland Male Chorus contest staged by the Chicago Tribune. It placed second in this contest in 1948.

The club has biven concerts in the principal cities of the East from Boston as far west as Cincinnati and Chicago, as far north as Buffalo and south as Washington. In the latter city a few years ago it sang at the dinner of the International Chamber of Commerce, given in the Washington Auditorium and addressed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was heard over all the networks from the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia in 1948.

Two Men Held For Grand Jury

A local man, between the age of 60 and 65, was taken to Allegany County Jail yesterday for action of the Grand Jury after he waived preliminary hearings on two charges involving two 13-year-old girls, August 20, 1951.

Authorities listed him as George Hughes, 15 Altamont Terrace. Magistrate J. Milton Dick set bond at $3,000 in each case.

In another case yesterday before Magistrate Dick, a former Cumberland man was taken to Allegany County Jail for action of the Grand Jury after waiving preliminary hearing on a charge of passing two felonious checks here.

Investigating authorities said Vernon Moreland, Winchester, Va., cashed two rubber checks for $10 and $5 at a neighborhood store near his mother's home on Park Street.

Authorities said Moreland was visiting relatives here on July 20, 1949 when his auto developed trouble and needed repairs. Moreland, who was out of funds, made out the bad checks and received money to pay for repairs.

City Police officers, learning that Moreland was in Cumberland Wednesday, picked him up. He was arrested by Officers Robert Hammann and P. C. Jenkins.

Magistrate Dick yesterday set bond at $1,000.

Army Engineers Complete Tests At Savage Dam

Data To Be Compiled In Operation Manual

Tests at Savage River Dam above Luke, which have been going on all week, were completed yesterday afternoon, and Harry E. Schwarz, hydraulic engineer with the Corps of Army Engineers, reported all operations were satisfactory.

Due to the tests, the level of the Potomac River here has been going up and down all week. Schwarz said the Potomac River will probably be up today because of water being discharged from the dam during the night and morning.

River Shows Rise

The Potomac River showed a rise in height yesterday as a result of the dam's gauges being opened Thursday night.

Schwarz said the gates were opened to full force last night and will continue to discharge until this morning.

Schwarz pointed out now that tests have been completed, the dam's water height will be brought down to about 70 feet below the crest of the spillway.

Water will be kept at 70 feet below the spillway's crest probably all year which will be low enough to impound any flood waters endangering the area, Schwarz added.

Schwarz said he will leave for the Washington office of the Corps of Army Engineers sometime today. He will take with him the last of all the data obtained during the week's test operations.

Data To Be Studied

In Washington Schwarz said, measurements, levels and other data obtained will be computed and will be compiled to make a "manual of operations" for the huge dam.

The manual will be published by Corps of Army Engineers, Department of Army, and a copy will be

Mr. and Mrs. David Hines, Mt. Savage, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Imhoff, Westernport, a son yesterday.

CIO Will Urge Judge Sherbow To Keep Post

Boost In Idle Pay Will Be Requested

The CIO in Maryland will ask Judge Joseph Sherbow to reconsider his resignation from the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

The Executive Board of the Maryland Industrial Union, at a meeting here yesterday, expressed deep regret over Judge Sherbow's decision to retire after praising his splendid record in public life.

The board also endorsed a proposal for increasing pensions for judges of the Court of Appeals, Maryland's supreme court from $300 to $450 a year.

Five committees were set up at the meeting held in Rubber Workers Hall here. They included:

Name Committees

The group will work with CIO and AFL unions of the state in an information program designed to bring more business to firms which display union labels on their products.

Community Services, Charles Della, J. J. Smith, James Reagan, Audrey Smid and Frank Finke, all of Baltimore. The committee will cooperate with the Community Chest in Baltimore in caring for its members.

Civil Defense Committee, E. T. Michael, Hagerstown; Harry Castle, Cumberland; Larry Monahan, Baltimore, and Madeline Willey, Eastern Shore.

The committee will cooperate with state and area Civil Defense organizations in the CD program.

Plan Fair Exhibit

State Fair Committee, Leroy Kane, Robert Crowther and a female representative of the CWA. The group will plan a booth at the Timonium State Fair to show the work of the CIO in Maryland.

Workmen's Compensation Committee, , Larry Monahan, George Dyches and Albert Mattes, all of Baltimore.

The committee will encourage all locals either to establish adequate compensation committees or to refer their cases to the state committee so prompt action may be taken in all cases brought before the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The CIO board recommended that all locals subscribe to the National Reporter, which will be published in Pittsburgh.

Will Seek Benefits

Increased unemployment benefits for Maryland workers will be asked when the General Assembly meets, E. J. Moran, president, reported.

Moran is a member of a committee named by Governor McKeldin to study the state unemployment compensation laws.

The board urged that all locals ask their legislators to support the proposed legislation.

Harry Castle, a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, and vice president of the council for this area, presided at yesterday's meeting, attended by some 18 representatives of CIO unions of Maryland.

The next meeting of the board will be held in Hagerstown April 18.

Committee Finds Miner Died Of Electrocution

Shimer Funeral Set Tomorrow Morning

An investigating committee last night came to a conclusion that Thomas E. Shimer, 34-year-old miner of Eckhart, died as a result of electrocution when he came into contact with a live wire in Consol Mine No. 10 at Eckhart Wednesday night.

The meeting was held at the Frostburg office of the Consolidated Fuel Company and was in charge of Edward Stowell, state mine inspector. Recommendations were made at the meeting to assure future safety and guard boards were ordered placed along the open wire.

William Pape and Mike DeMarino, who were working along side Shimer at the time of the accident were questioned last night by the group. Others attending the investigation were Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, James Close, mine superintendent, Robert Glotfelty, foreman, Carl Dixon, maintenance man, Harry Jones, of the Federal Bureau of Mines, Stowell, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, a state mine inspector.

Following an autopsy, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner reported Shimer's death was due to electrocution. No marks were found on the victim's body.

Shimer was with three other miners in the Consolidated Fuel Company's Eckhart mine, three miles from the pit mouth installing a conveyor in a room.

Shimer tried to squeeze between the conveyor motor and a mine prop when he suddenly fell to the ground, investigators reported. Artificial respiration for two hours was unsuccessful.

Services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the residence, Cemetery Road, Eckhart. Rev. Ira Moore, pastor of the Cresaptown Assembly of God Church, and Rev. Sidney Aldrich, pastor of Eckhart Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

FIREMEN GO TO SCHOOL—It's back to the Little Red Schoolhouse on City Hall Plaza for these Cumberland firemen, caught by the News photographer as Assistant Chief Robert C. Long (standing, right) explains use of "gated wye" valve and "Siamese' connections for fire hoses. Long, who recently completed a 10-weeks instructors' course in firemanship at the University of Maryland, has been holding classes for two months. Roads Employe Sues Driver After Accident

Noah S. Carder Seeks $10,000

Two suits totaling $11,000 were filed yesterday at the office of the Clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Noah S. Carder, represented by Attorneys Phillip T. McCusker and Frederick A. Puderbaugh, is suing Homer E. Rose, for $10,000 damages for injuries allegedly received in a highway mishap and to repay workmen's compensation.

Carder, an employe of the Maryland State Roads Commission, contends he was operating a sweeper along Braddock Road, about one mile west of Cumberland on September 30, 1950, when an auto operated by Rose collided with the piece of machinery causing bodily injury and suffering to the plaintiff.

The accident, according to Carder, was caused through negligence and carelessness on the part of Rose. Through the mishap the plaintiff became eligible for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Laws of Maryland from the State Roads Commission.

The State Accident Fund under an order of the State Industrial Accident Commission of Maryland paid the sum of $672 to Carder for temporary total disability. In addition the amount of $2,787.20 was paid for hospital and medical expenses incurred as a result of the accident, according to Carder.

The State Accident Fund is entitled to $3,459.20 from any amount payable to Carder due to accident as a repayment for the use and benefits of the fund.

Fox Selected As Top Organist

Riverside Church in New York City, the interdenominational church of pre-eminence throughout the world of Protestantism, built for the greatness of Harry Emerson Fosdick's preaching by the fortune of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., combed the organists of this generation for two years and then decided upon Virgil Fox.

Fox will make his third appearance in Cumberland at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, January 17, when he presents a concert at Centre Street Methodist Church under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society. He has played to overflowing crowds here in both 1950 and 1951.

The outstanding musician was appointed organist of Riverside Church in May, 1946. He gradually will build there a ministry of music comparable with those of the cathedrals of France, where the greatest in organ music is the offering of each season.

Musicians from every field are to be found at the services of Riverside Church, listening to the organ playing of Virgil Fox.

1952 Milk Permits Must Be Obtained

Milk dealers, producers and processors must secure 1952 permits from the State Health Department here as they expire.

Permit for retail establishments which distribute milk is $2 a year and the annual fee for processors of dairy products is $10. No charge is made for permits issued to farm producers.

Application blanks are available at the Health Department offices in the Public Safety Building.

Firemen Return To School To Learn Tricks Of Trade

'There's No Place Like Home—'

Frostburg firemen had a rather busy day yesterday, but they didn't do much traveling.

At 3 p. m. they were called out to extinguish a flue fire at the home of William Skidmore, Fairview Street. It was two blocks from the fire station.

The only other blaze was a flue fire at the Sherman D. Murray home at 24 South Water Street — next door to the fire station.

There was no damage in either fire.

Veterans, Rookies All Study Course

BY BERNARD SITTER
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's firemen have gone back to school. But not to study the Three Rs of grammar school fame.

For two months they've been pouring into the Little Red Schoolhouse—red brick Central Fire Station—to hear Teacher Robert C. Long tell them how to put out fires more efficiently.

Long, otherwise known as assistant chief of the department is conducting classes in everything from basic first aid to technical hydraulics.

It's all part of a 20-lesson course designed by the University of Maryland's Fire Extension Service to give firemen a basic knowledge of accepted methods of firefighting.

Long holds classes for the city's 50 firemen one week a month for four hours each day. After each class, the students fill out quiz papers.

There's no homework, but Long says about 90 per cent of his pupils "beat the books" pretty consistently.

The course replaces outside training, made impractical during winter months. But later on, the local smoke eaters will be climbing ladders and manipulating hoses as part of the course.

Idea behind the course is that until recent years, the cartoon version of the axe-wielding, water-drenching fireman was all too true in many departments.

But since the early days of World War II, the relatively new science of firemanship has been developing rapidly. Although the axe remains one of the blaze battler's most useful tools, modern firemen rely more on head work, less on axe work.

None of the school's students miss classes. When men are ill or on duty at other stations, Teacher Long turns tutor and goes to their stations to repeat the lesson.

The school principal, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, has a good word for the new course which has been added to the curriculum.

"There's been a considerable improvement in the Department's discipline, morale and efficiency since the course was started," says Parker. "I think the men really like it."

Long's classes like any others, are dismissed at the sound of a bell, if there happens to be a fire.

But his students, unlike others, slide down a brass pole on their way out.

Good Deed Day

Senior Girl Scout Troop No. 12 will observe "Good Deed Day," today. The girls will be available, in pairs, for work which the housewives have not had time to do.

19 Graduated From Army Reserve School

New Supply Course To Begin Wednesday

Nineteen students have been graduated from the Army Administrative School conducted by the local Organized Reserve Corps, according to Grant E. Hoover, Infantry unit instructor.

Sergeant First Class William E. Baker, assistant unit instructor, who taught the course listed the four top pupils as:

Sgt. Melvin D. McDonald, Company K, 319th Airborne Infantry Regiment; Sergeant First Class John F. Rowe, 942nd Explosive Bomb Disposal Detachment; Sgt. Theodore W. Gray, 729th Army Postal Unit and Pvt. E-1 William M. Gero, Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398 Ordnance.

Sgt. Baker said the students were well pleased with the administrative courses which included 25 subjects and typing.

Top Honors

Throughout the course students from the 729th Army Postal Unit took top honors by scoring the highest points. The administrative school was begun October 3, 1951 and ended Wednesday night with the graduation of 19 students.

Others graduated were M/Sgt. Thomas A. Carscaden, SFC Charles E. Hartung and Cpl. James A. Brown, all of the 729th Army Postal Unit; SFC. John S. Knepp, M/Sgt. James V. Courtney and Cpl. George D. Keith, all of Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398th Ordnance.

Pvt. E-2 Gordon H. Smith, Pvt. E-2 Walter C. Glass, Pvt. E-2 John B. Elliott Jr. and Pvt. E-2 Donald J. McKenzie, all of Headquarters, 810th Signal Service Battalion; M/Sgt. Ernest B. Treat, Sgt. Loring Q. Baldwin and Cpl. Wayne S. Swauger, Company K, 319th Airborne Infantry Regiment; and Pvt. E-2 Paul E. Myers, of 942nd Explosive Bomb Disposal Detachment.

Sgt. Baker said this was the first course of its kind to be presented to Cumberland area reservists.

New Course To Begin

The beginning of another course, the Army Supply Course, was announced yesterday by Sgt. Baker. He said the new school will begin Wednesday and is scheduled to close March 19.

Besides seven students graduated from the administrative school, 16 new pupils have enrolled for the supply instructions.

Instructors for the supply course will be Major Grant E. Hoover, Sgt. Baker, M/Sgt. William B. Rogers, First Lt. David J. Moreland and First Lt. Harold Fraley.

December Smoke Record Is Good On Railroads

No Bad Violation Is Reported Here

Railroads handled a record number of trains here during December without a single bad smoke violation.

George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, said only 15 partials were chalked up from 224 observations made during the month.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, he said, dispatched 1,287 steam locomotives from this terminal during the month and handled 2,574 engines.

The record is even more significant, he said, when it is considered that the month marked the greatest influx of new firemen for some time, necessitating an accelerated training program.

Record Is Good

The Western Maryland Railroad had one partial violation in 13 observations for an average of three per cent, as compared to November's eight per cent.

The Baltimore and Ohio had 14 partials but no bad readings, for an average of seven per cent, the same percentage on partials as in November.

In spite of the fact that 1951's dustfall of 14.59 tons represents a 100 per cent improvement, Hitchcock said there are three bad spots to be cleaned up.

Improvements Underway

He said the change of grade which will result from the Thomas Street relocation will cut down smoke on the B. and O. hump, one of the worst spots in the city. Readings at Station 10 have been ranging from 98 to 260 tons per square mile.

The B. and O. round house, he said, will require eternal vigilance, but progress is being made there. December's average at that spot was 98.96 tons.

Maryland Junction was listed as the third most troublesome point.

Hitchcock said steps are now underway by the Western Maryland Railway to cut dustfall through the installation of an improved multiple jet smoke abating device.

Deceased Woman's Relatives Sought

County authorities have been asked to locate any local relatives of a former Cumberland woman who died yesterday in Crownsville (Pa.) State Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Mattie Wells, widow of the late John C. Wells, formerly of 313 Maryland Avenue, had died in the Pennsylvania institution. Mr. Wells, they said, died two years ago.

Spring Gap 4-H Club Maps Plans For 1952 Programs

Plans for 1952 programs were prepared by the Spring Gap 4-H Club at its January meeting.

At a meeting Thursday in the Community Center, the boys decided to hold a roller skating party Friday, February 1, at 7 p. m. at Crystal Roller Rink.

The club, led by Acting President Buck Ritchie, decided to feature forestry at the February 14 meeting. Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin will present the program that night. At the conclusion, several club members will offer a fire fighting demonstration.

In March, wildlife will be the feature. Iradeen Riley will give a baby chick demonstration. At the April meeting, Billy Twigg and Leonard Miller will give talks on gardens. In May, James Ritchie and Virgil Twigg will discuss the history of the 4-H movement.

Other programs:

June, party; July, plans for Cumberland Fair; August, campfire; September, project reports; October, soil conservation; November, handicraft; December, election of officers.

Visitors and prospective new members are invited to all of the club's activities.

At Thursday night's meeting, Donald Hebb was named membership chairman and Herbert Shipe was appointed publicity chairman. Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger attended the meeting.

SOUTHEND HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE—A two-alarm fire late Thursday night caused considerable damage at the home of Raymond Pryor, 905 Virginia Avenue, and forced five occupants to flee to safety. The fire broke out about 10:15 p. m. and South End and Central firemen went to the scene and through quick action kept the blaze confined to the rear of the double frame house. Connelly Hammond, fireman from South End can be seen above in the bedroom of the second floor where the fire centered, after eating its way up through the partition from the kitchen. Cause of the blaze was undetermined and the house owned by Julius Abramson, of Frostburg, was covered by insurance.

City Finances On Schedule At Halfway Point

85 Per Cent Of Total Levy Is Collected

City finances were in tip top condition as half of the 1951-52 fiscal year ended on December 31.

Eighty-five per cent of the total levy had been collected and only 51 per cent of the city's operating levy spent.

The report, issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, showed that $1,070,973.83 of the $1,262,560 levy had been collected.

The figure represents 85 per cent of the entire levy and 96 per cent of the $868,430 tax levy.

As half of the year ended, $526,761.87 of the appropriations for operating expenses had been spent and expenditures including debt service were at the $661,995.11 mark.

This represents 51 per cent of the city operating levy and 52 per cent of the entire appropriation, including debt service.

Only one department, recreation, was overdrawn.

The report showed that the Recreation Department was $6,883.82 in the red at the end of six months of the year.

The department was overdrawn $6,501.30 last month.

In spite of the severe winter weather, the Street Cleaning appropriation was not quite half used up, but January costs are expected to be high.

5 Indictments Entered On Court Docket

Illegal Alcoholic Sale Charged Against Alibi

Four more indictments have been placed on the open docket in Circuit Court bringing the total to five for the January term of court.

Yesterday afternoon an indictment against E. A. Cromwell and Daisy D. Cromwell, officers of the Alibi Liquor Store, Inc., corner of Baltimore and North Mechanics Streets was entered on the docket.

The charge is sale of alcoholic beverages to a minor.

An indictment against Fraternal Order of Orioles, Nest No. 220 which has headquarters in the Wills Mountain Inn, was placed on the open docket yesterday morning.

CIO Will Urge Judge Sherbow To Keep Post

Boost In Idle Pay Will Be Requested

The CIO in Maryland will ask Judge Joseph Sherbow to reconsider his resignation from the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

The Executive Board of the Maryland Industrial Union, at a meeting here yesterday, expressed deep regret over Judge Sherbow's decision to retire after praising his splendid record in public life.

The board also endorsed a proposal for increasing pensions for judges of the Court of Appeals, Maryland's supreme court from $300 to $450 a year.

Five committees were set up at the meeting held in Rubber Workers Hall here. They included:

Name Committees

The group will work with CIO and AFL unions of the state in an information program designed to bring more business to firms which display union labels on their products.

Community Services, Charles Della, J. J. Smith, James Reagan, Audrey Smid and Frank Finke, all of Baltimore. The committee will cooperate with the Community Chest in Baltimore in caring for its members.

Civil Defense Committee, E. T. Michael, Hagerstown; Harry Castle, Cumberland; Larry Monahan, Baltimore, and Madeline Willey, Eastern Shore.

The committee will cooperate with state and area Civil Defense organizations in the CD program.

Plan Fair Exhibit

State Fair Committee, Leroy Kane, Robert Crowther and a female representative of the CWA. The group will plan a booth at the Timonium State Fair to show the work of the CIO in Maryland.

Workmen's Compensation Committee, , Larry Monahan, George Dyches and Albert Mattes, all of Baltimore.

The committee will encourage all locals either to establish adequate compensation committees or to refer their cases to the state committee so prompt action may be taken in all cases brought before the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The CIO board recommended that all locals subscribe to the National Reporter, which will be published in Pittsburgh.

Will Seek Benefits

Increased unemployment benefits for Maryland workers will be asked when the General Assembly meets, E. J. Moran, president, reported.

Moran is a member of a committee named by Governor McKeldin to study the state unemployment compensation laws.

The board urged that all locals ask their legislators to support the proposed legislation.

Harry Castle, a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, and vice president of the council for this area, presided at yesterday's meeting, attended by some 18 representatives of CIO unions of Maryland.

The next meeting of the board will be held in Hagerstown April 18.

Committee Finds Miner Died Of Electrocution

Shimer Funeral Set Tomorrow Morning

An investigating committee last night came to a conclusion that Thomas E. Shimer, 34-year-old miner of Eckhart, died as a result of electrocution when he came into contact with a live wire in Consol Mine No. 10 at Eckhart Wednesday night.

The meeting was held at the Frostburg office of the Consolidated Fuel Company and was in charge of Edward Stowell, state mine inspector. Recommendations were made at the meeting to assure future safety and guard boards were ordered placed along the open wire.

William Pape and Mike DeMarino, who were working along side Shimer at the time of the accident were questioned last night by the group. Others attending the investigation were Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, James Close, mine superintendent, Robert Glotfelty, foreman, Carl Dixon, maintenance man, Harry Jones, of the Federal Bureau of Mines, Stowell, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, a state mine inspector.

Following an autopsy, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner reported Shimer's death was due to electrocution. No marks were found on the victim's body.

Shimer was with three other miners in the Consolidated Fuel Company's Eckhart mine, three miles from the pit mouth installing a conveyor in a room.

Shimer tried to squeeze between the conveyor motor and a mine prop when he suddenly fell to the ground, investigators reported. Artificial respiration for two hours was unsuccessful.

Services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the residence, Cemetery Road, Eckhart. Rev. Ira Moore, pastor of the Cresaptown Assembly of God Church, and Rev. Sidney Aldrich, pastor of Eckhart Baptist Church, will officiate. Interment will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

FIREMEN GO TO SCHOOL—It's back to the Little Red Schoolhouse on City Hall Plaza for these Cumberland firemen, caught by the News photographer as Assistant Chief Robert C. Long (standing, right) explains use of "gated wye" valve and "Siamese' connections for fire hoses. Long, who recently completed a 10-weeks instructors' course in firemanship at the University of Maryland, has been holding classes for two months. In the photo are (front row, left to right) South End Captain Francis J. Wallace, John Carney, Herman Cunningham, Captain Leo Reichert of East Side, and Long; (second row) Connelly Hammond, South End, William Winter, George Hoblitzell, West Side; George Lease, East Side, and Clifton Cook, West Side; (third row) South End Lt. Walter Hartman, Richard Smith, Robert Wigfield, Captain Vincent Wegman and Ray Leidinger. The classes replace outdoor work in Winter.

Roads Employe Sues Driver After Accident

Noah S. Carder Seeks $10,000

Two suits totaling $11,000 were filed yesterday at the office of the Clerk of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Noah S. Carder, represented by Attorneys Phillip T. McCusker and Frederick A. Puderbaugh, is suing Homer E. Rose, for $10,000 damages for injuries allegedly received in a highway mishap and to repay workmen's compensation.

Carder, an employe of the Maryland State Roads Commission, contends he was operating a sweeper along Braddock Road, about one mile west of Cumberland on September 30, 1950, when an auto operated by Rose collided with the piece of machinery causing bodily injury and suffering to the plaintiff.

The accident, according to Carder, was caused through negligence and carelessness on the part of Rose. Through the mishap the plaintiff became eligible for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Laws of Maryland from the State Roads Commission.

The State Accident Fund under an order of the State Industrial Accident Commission of Maryland paid the sum of $672 to Carder for temporary total disability. In addition the amount of $2,787.20 was paid for hospital and medical expenses incurred as a result of the accident, according to Carder.

The State Accident Fund is entitled to $3,459.20 from any amount payable to Carder due to accident as a repayment for the use and benefits of the fund.

Fox Selected As Top Organist

Riverside Church in New York City, the interdenominational church of pre-eminence throughout the world of Protestantism, built for the greatness of Harry Emerson Fosdick's preaching by the fortune of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., combed the organists of this generation for two years and then decided upon Virgil Fox.

Fox will make his third appearance in Cumberland at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, January 17, when he presents a concert at Centre Street Methodist Church under sponsorship of the Cumberland Choral Society. He has played to overflowing crowds here in both 1950 and 1951.

The outstanding musician was appointed organist of Riverside Church in May, 1946. He gradually will build there a ministry of music comparable with those of the cathedrals of France, where the greatest in organ music is the offering of each season.

Musicians from every field are to be found at the services of Riverside Church, listening to the organ playing of Virgil Fox.

1952 Milk Permits Must Be Obtained

Milk dealers, producers and processors must secure 1952 permits from the State Health Department here as they expire.

Permit for retail establishments which distribute milk is $2 a year and the annual fee for processors of dairy products is $10. No charge is made for permits issued to farm producers.

Application blanks are available at the Health Department offices in the Public Safety Building.

Firemen Return To School To Learn Tricks Of Trade

'There's No Place Like Home—'

Frostburg firemen had a rather busy day yesterday, but they didn't do much traveling.

At 3 p. m. they were called out to extinguish a flue fire at the home of William Skidmore, Fairview Street. It was two blocks from the fire station.

The only other blaze was a flue fire at the Sherman D. Murray home at 24 South Water Street — next door to the fire station.

There was no damage in either fire.

Veterans, Rookies All Study Course

BY BERNARD SITTER
News Staff Writer

Cumberland's firemen have gone back to school. But not to study the Three Rs of grammar school fame.

For two months they've been pouring into the Little Red Schoolhouse—red brick Central Fire Station—to hear Teacher Robert C. Long tell them how to put out fires more efficiently.

Long, otherwise known as assistant chief of the department is conducting classes in everything from basic first aid to technical hydraulics.

It's all part of a 20-lesson course designed by the University of Maryland's Fire Extension Service to give firemen a basic knowledge of accepted methods of firefighting.

Long holds classes for the city's 50 firemen one week a month for four hours each day. After each class, the students fill out quiz papers.

There's no homework, but Long says about 90 per cent of his pupils "beat the books" pretty consistently.

The course replaces outside training, made impractical during winter months. But later on, the local smoke eaters will be climbing ladders and manipulating hoses as part of the course.

Idea behind the course is that until recent years, the cartoon version of the axe-wielding, water-drenching fireman was all too true in many departments.

But since the early days of World War II, the relatively new science of firemanship has been developing rapidly. Although the axe remains one of the blaze battler's most useful tools, modern firemen rely more on head work, less on axe work.

None of the school's students miss classes. When men are ill or on duty at other stations, Teacher Long turns tutor and goes to their stations to repeat the lesson.

The school principal, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, has a good word for the new course which has been added to the curriculum.

"There's been a considerable improvement in the Department's discipline, morale and efficiency since the course was started," says Parker. "I think the men really like it."

Long's classes like any others, are dismissed at the sound of a bell, if there happens to be a fire.

19 Graduated From Army Reserve School

New Supply Course To Begin Wednesday

Nineteen students have been graduated from the Army Administrative School conducted by the local Organized Reserve Corps, according to Grant E. Hoover, Infantry unit instructor.

Sergeant First Class William E. Baker, assistant unit instructor, who taught the course listed the four top pupils as:

Sgt. Melvin D. McDonald, Company K, 319th Airborne Infantry Regiment; Sergeant First Class John F. Rowe, 942nd Explosive Bomb Disposal Detachment; Sgt. Theodore W. Gray, 729th Army Postal Unit and Pvt. E-1 William M. Gero, Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398 Ordnance.

Sgt. Baker said the students were well pleased with the administrative courses which included 25 subjects and typing.

Top Honors

Throughout the course students from the 729th Army Postal Unit took top honors by scoring the highest points. The administrative school was begun October 3, 1951 and ended Wednesday night with the graduation of 19 students.

Others graduated were M/Sgt. Thomas A. Carscaden, SFC Charles E. Hartung and Cpl. James A. Brown, all of the 729th Army Postal Unit; SFC. John S. Knepp, M/Sgt. James V. Courtney and Cpl. George D. Keith, all of Headquarters, Headquarters Detachment, 398th Ordnance.

Pvt. E-2 Gordon H. Smith, Pvt. E-2 Walter C. Glass, Pvt. E-2 John B. Elliott Jr. and Pvt. E-2 Donald J. McKenzie, all of Headquarters, 810th Signal Service Battalion; M/Sgt. Ernest B. Treat, Sgt. Loring Q. Baldwin and Cpl. Wayne S. Swauger, Company K, 319th Airborne Infantry Regiment; and Pvt. E-2 Paul E. Myers, of 942nd Explosive Bomb Disposal Detachment.

Sgt. Baker said this was the first course of its kind to be presented to Cumberland area reservists.

New Course To Begin

The beginning of another course, the Army Supply Course, was announced yesterday by Sgt. Baker. He said the new school will begin Wednesday and is scheduled to close March 19.

Besides seven students graduated from the administrative school, 16 new pupils have enrolled for the supply instructions.

Instructors for the supply course will be Major Grant E. Hoover, Sgt. Baker, M/Sgt. William B. Rogers, First Lt. David J. Moreland and First Lt. Harold Fraley.

December Smoke Record Is Good On Railroads

No Bad Violation Is Reported Here

Railroads handled a record number of trains here during December without a single bad smoke violation.

George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, said only 15 partials were chalked up from 224 observations made during the month.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, he said, dispatched 1,287 steam locomotives from this terminal during the month and handled 2,574 engines.

The record is even more significant, he said, when it is considered that the month marked the greatest influx of new firemen for some time, necessitating an accelerated training program.

Record Is Good

The Western Maryland Railroad had one partial violation in 13 observations for an average of three per cent, as compared to November's eight per cent.

The Baltimore and Ohio had 14 partials but no bad readings, for an average of seven per cent, the same percentage on partials as in November.

In spite of the fact that 1951's dustfall of 14.59 tons represents a 100 per cent improvement, Hitchcock said there are three bad spots to be cleaned up.

Improvements Underway

He said the change of grade which will result from the Thomas Street relocation will cut down smoke on the B. and O. hump, one of the worst spots in the city. Readings at Station 10 have been ranging from 98 to 260 tons per square mile.

The B. and O. round house, he said, will require eternal vigilance, but progress is being made there. December's average at that spot was 98.96 tons.

Maryland Junction was listed as the third most troublesome point.

Hitchcock said steps are now underway by the Western Maryland Railway to cut dustfall through the installation of an improved multiple jet smoke abating device.

Deceased Woman's Relatives Sought

County authorities have been asked to locate any local relatives of a former Cumberland woman who died yesterday in Crownsville (Pa.) State Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Mattie Wells, widow of the late John C. Wells, formerly of 313 Maryland Avenue, had died in the Pennsylvania institution. Mr. Wells, they said, died two years ago.

Good Deed Day

Senior Girl Scout Troop No. 12 will observe "Good Deed Day," today. The girls will be available, in pairs, for work which the housewives have not had time to do.

Spring Gap 4-H Club Maps Plans For 1952 Programs

Plans for 1952 programs were prepared by the Spring Gap 4-H Club at its January meeting.

At a meeting Thursday in the Community Center, the boys decided to hold a roller skating party Friday, February 1, at 7 p. m. at Crystal Roller Rink.

The club, led by Acting President Buck Ritchie, decided to feature forestry at the February 14 meeting. Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin will present the program that night. At the conclusion, several club members will offer a fire fighting demonstration.

In March, wildlife will be the feature. Iradeen Riley will give a baby chick demonstration. At the April meeting, Billy Twigg and Leonard Miller will give talks on gardens. In May, James Ritchie and Virgil Twigg will discuss the history of the 4-H movement.

Other programs:

June, party; July, plans for Cumberland Fair; August, campfire; September, project reports; October, soil conservation; November, handicraft; December, election of officers.

Visitors and prospective new members are invited to all of the club's activities.

At Thursday night's meeting, Donald Hebb was named membership chairman and Herbert Shipe was appointed publicity chairman. Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger attended the meeting.

SOUTHEND HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE—A two-alarm fire late Thursday night caused considerable damage at the home of Raymond Pryor, 905 Virginia Avenue, and forced five occupants to flee to safety. The fire broke out about 10:15 p. m. and South End and Central firemen went to the scene and through quick action kept the blaze confined to the rear of the double frame house. Connelly Hammond, fireman from South End can be seen above in the bedroom of the second floor where the fire centered, after eating its way up through the partition from the kitchen. Cause of the blaze was undetermined and the house owned by Julius Abramson, of Frostburg, was covered by insurance.
